CHIEF SMITH ARRESTED TWO.

More Brass Stealing Cases at the Police Court.

Severe Punishment For Selling Venison Without a License.

Fined For Assault Upon Roof of a Building.

Chief Smith is getting into the game of catching alleged thieves, and his friends are wondering if he is trying for the job of detective. Yesterday afterhe arrested Robert Taylor, of Bur ngton, and John Fletcher, 260 Market reet, on the charge of stealing brass and copper from the Dominion Power t Transmission Co., and while he led Taylor down to the station he compelled oad of the copper and brass which the men are believed to have stolen.

Both men pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by the Magistrate, L. nk, storekeeper at the Terminal, said Monk, storekeeper at the Terminal, said that he knew Taylor, and had seen him around there yesterday. Some of the pieces of brass he identified as stuff used exclusively on the electric lines in this city, and one piece, he said, was made by them. Peter Batty, superintendent of the mechanical department, also identified several of the pieces. Harry Cohen said that Taylor had tried to sell it to him, but he had refused to buy it. The Chief was called, and said he saw the men on Catharine street, near King William, and that Fletcher was drunk, but Taylor was sober. They had a bag and were disputing over which way they should go, and the Chief went over to settle the dispute. Fletcher said he was trying to sell the stuff in the bag for Taylor, to whom he claimed it belonged. The Chief arrested them both on the charge of stealing it, when he saw there was a lot of new brass in the bag.

Taylor took the stand and said that he was working gathering up rubbish in the yard behind the Terminal for the past two or three days and had got the stuff out of the rubbish. He admitted stealing a brass cross-over, however, and said he took it out of the repair wagon. Fletcher said that he had met Taylor, who offered to sell him the stuff, and that he had tried to get it weighed some place. He did not know it was stolen, he said.

Taylor was found guilty of the theft that he knew Taylor, and had seen him

Taylor was found guilty of the theft

Taylor was found guilty of the theft and remanded till to-morrow for sentence, and Fletcher was remanded till to-morrow, when the Magistrate will hand down his decision as to whether or not Fletcher is guilty of receiving.

F. J. Portous pleaded guilty to having venison exposed for sale without having a license. He had two deer, and under the statute it is provided that a fine of $20 be imposed for each. The Magistrate was inclined to stretch the law a point, however, and fined Porteous $20 for the two, as he said that this law was "worse than the Lord's Day Act." It provides that, for selling deer meat without a license, a man is liable to a fine of $20 for each animal; the meat to be confiscated, and he is not to be allowed to take out a license for two years. Porteons will probably appeal the case, as he stated that others had been caught in the same position as he, but got out of it by naving the license for the in. the same position as he, but got out of it by paying the license fee to the inpector and getting a license, while he as summoned without getting a chance months.

Guy Ivey, Crown Point, was fined $5 for assaulting George Stewart, a fellow employee. The assault took place on a roof where the men were working, and was over a question as to whether or not Ivey had authority over Stewart. J. A. Ogilvie acted for the complainant. Peter Hastie, 9 Hess street north, and Charles Armitage, 24 Liberty street, were fined $2 each for being drunk.

The Wisdom of the Bee. The Wisdom of the Bee.

We marvel at what we call the wisdom of the hive bee, yet there is ong as he never learns from experience, writes John Burroughs, in the Atlantic, and that is, that she is storing up honey for the use of man. She could not learn this, because such knowledge is not net cossary to her own well-being. Neither does not ever know when she has enough to carry her through the winter. This knowledge, again is not important, Gather and store honey as long as there is any to be had is her motto, and in that rule she is safe.
