SURRENDER OF CUBA Bits of Insida History of the Spanish American War.

Madrid, Feb. 10 .- Following the pub ication of certain cablegrams exchanged setween the Spanish Government at Madrid and General Blanco at Havana, Madrid and General Blanco at Havana, relative to the surrender of Cuba to the United States in 1808, it is now learned that fear of an American attack upon the coast of Spain and a subsequent re-volution in this country was the official reason for Premier Sagasta's decision to make peace with the United States. Moreover, this decision was reached be-fore the negotiations for the surrender of Santiago were concluded. These facts have been disclosed by the

A despatch received by the Spanish Government on July 9, 1808, from Gen-eral Blanco insisted that the army, although crippled by the loss of Cer-vera's fleet was ready and anxious to continue the war, but both the Minister of War and Premier Sagasta replied on July 12 that as the Americans were mas-ters of the sen and were preparing to attack the Belearie Islands and the Spanish coast, which would be certain, to produce an uprising in the interior, pace was imperative. General Blanco, protesting to the last, finally agreed to obey orders and surrender.

I had a patch of eczema on my ankle, which had been there for over twenty years. Sometimes, also, the disease would break out on my shoulders. I had taken solution of arsenic, had applied various oint-ments, and tried all sorts of things to obtain a cure, but all in vain. I was advised to give Zam-Buk a trial, and as I am a firm believer in Nature's remedles, I did so.
