

Another Schr. Sunk by Raider.

Messrs. Crosbie and Co. received a message from their London agents on Saturday night informing them that the schr. Jean had been sunk by the German raider Moeve and her crew were held as prisoners of war in Germany.

About five months ago the Jean left here for Pernambuco with a cargo of drum fish and after delivering her cargo, loaded with tobacco for Lisbon. From the latter port she was to take a cargo of salt for home, but as ill-luck would have it, she fell a victim to the commerce raider. The ill-fated ship was upwards of 100 days unreported and grave fears were entertained for the safety of those on board. She carried seven of a crew including Capt. Edgar Burke, mate John Doody, boatswain Ted Merrigan, seaman Thomas Colford and Peter Cullen, Carboner, Samuel Newell seaman and William Kenny, cook, of St. John's. There was also a young boy named Matthew Primm, a stowaway, whose parents reside in the city.

Rod and Gun.

The March issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, that representative Canadian sportsman's publication, is now on sale on the newsstands. A glimpse through this issue reveals the fact that the March issue contains much that is of interest to lovers of outdoor life. The regular departments, which are a feature of this magazine, and one that is of interest to its many readers, are as usual well maintained and the devotee of gun, rifle, or rod will find much of interest and value in the perusal of its columns. In addition for the more general reader there are stories of outdoor life to hold the attention and divert it for a time from the current newspaper and magazine recitals of things pertaining to the war. Such stories as "Gentleman Jones" by Jean Stevinson, "The Dweller of Darkness" by Wm. McMullen, "The Treacherous Snow," "King of the Big Swamp" by F. V. Williams, "A Brother Fisherman" by H. C. Haddon, etc., etc., are all redolent of the cut-of-doors. W. J. Taylor, Ltd., Woodstock, Ont., are the publishers.

"Gallant Capt. Joe."

Captain Kean's a jolly man, and he's no bombast talker. Brookfield, Bonavista Bay, is "Joe's" native home; The man who "struck a cinch" in him he's name is Capt. Farquhar, Joe is as fine a fellow as has ever sailed the foam.

To the westward and eastward to the sudard and the nor'dard. A household word his name is, and he's welcome everywhere, And those who travel with him, in the cabin or up for'dard, He's friendly, and he's manly, tis a truth they all declare.

Once more he comes among us, and with outstretched hands we'll greet him, He comes from frozen regions with a bumper trip of fat; All our hearts go out to-day with joy to go and meet him, And above all, Captain Farquhar for our Joseph dotts his hat.

A chip from off the "old block" that's "What you are my "laddie." There's very few that you know more 'bout where the whitecoats grow; You are most worthy to be called a son of your good "daddy," Hurray, my boy, for the Sable I, and gallant "Captain Joe." JAMES MURPHY, March 26th, 1917.

Sealing News.

Since Saturday the following messages were received in the city:—

RANGER, (Saturday night)—"Nothing new to report; taking a few seals daily; position 30 miles East of Bonavista."
EAGLE, (Saturday night)—"Passing through families of hoods all day; scattered white coats."
VIKING, (Saturday night)—"Men have hauled 1400 to-day; very difficult to pick up pans."
RANGER, (Last night)—"Nothing new to report; all well."
VIKING, (Last night)—"Five miles S.E. of Bryan Island; total on board to-day 8,000; ice very loose as far as can be seen."
By Job Bros.
NEPTUNE, (Saturday night)—"Ice broken up; got two or three hundred more."
THETIS, (Saturday night)—"Off Fogo in the ice; practically nothing to add since last report."
Official.
FOGO—Entire fleet report all aboard and well; Sable I on way to port; Seal still jammed."
The estimated catch to date is 185,000, or more than an average of 15,000 each steamer.

Judging from Capt. Kean's report as regards the future prospects of the other ships, it is not unreasonable to expect the whole fleet in by the end of this week.

Over 30,000 bottles of Stafford's Liniment sold last year.

A Deadly Parallel.

Germany must be shivering in her shoes at the parallel with the French Revolution. There is no foe like a democracy aroused. France under the later Louis was relatively harmless. But France, even bereft of her usual leaders and with a paralyzed navy, swept over Germany like a tidal wave when the democratic forces of "liberty, fraternity and equality" sprang to arms to beat back "Cimmerian Europe"—a Europe which blindly sought to restore the Bourbon. Jena, and Austerlitz were victories of the Revolution. Ever since the war opened, the German press has longed for a Revolution in Russia which should paralyze the power of our great Slav Ally. The alleged "funny" papers of Munich pictured "the Russian Revolution" as a fearsome figure arising in the background to destroy the armies on the Russian front. Well, Germany has got her Russian Revolution now; and we hope that she likes it. Happily, it was not the abortive and bloody crushed Revolution for which she plotted and planned. It was a successful Revolution, which has buried her friends in the very prisons they intended for the leaders of the Russian people. This is a great war—a great time to be living—"an age on ages telling." Pray God that we, in this free and favored land, play our part.—Montreal Star.

Great Britain's Great Year.

"This is going to be Great Britain's great year in the war," said a French Deputy in Paris recently. "Her armies are active and eager everywhere. On the Western Front their constant worrying is badly scaring the Germans, who, as they have admitted, are dreading the day when the great final push will come. In Mesopotamia each week brings a new advance and a new victory. On sea everything tends to prove that the boasted German blockade will soon break down miserably before Great Britain's new methods of attacking submarines. The splendid success of the latest War Loan proves to the world the financial stability of Great Britain, and her recent civil organization and the drastic new economies must be making Germany feel that the British bulldog's jaws are closing on her vitals. France woke far too slowly to a recognition of Great Britain's immense and revolutionary effort, but she knows to-day and in her press acknowledges gladly all that this means and will mean."

CORN MEAL MUSH.

Corn meal mush is an old-fashioned preparation which was formerly used to tire out the appetite, but has now become more popular than carrying gossip to the new minister.

There was a time when corn meal mush was not considered much of a delicacy in this country. It is a heavy durable kind of food and after being allowed to stand in one spot for a few days does not digest with the ease and unconscious grace of the cream puff. Corn meal mush originally sprang from the New England States, having been invented by the Puritan Fathers, who were accustomed to eat it cold and then have prayers immediately afterward. The Puritan Fathers were thoughtful people and did not believe in taking any unnecessary chances.

With the growth of wealth and culture in the United States, however, people turned away from corn meal mush and began to eat light, frivolous articles which did not lie flat on the stomach and leave bitter memories in their wake. Money was cheap and the cold boiled potato was fed to the cow with reckless abandon. Thousands of children grew up, nurtured on Sarafoga chips and ice cream cones, without running into a single mess of corn meal mush and skimmed milk.

All this is now changed. The war has obliged our first families to retrench in order to buy winter tops, and as a result the wan, sickly countenance of the corn meal croquette is beginning to peep shyly over the horizon. It is a pathetic sight to enter a richly furnished home, with electric lights in the cellar and a hired girl to keep them turned on, and see people who formerly thought nothing of eating a T-bone steak for breakfast now struggling with sliced corn meal mush which has had time to set. It requires more heroism to go up against a corn meal diet for three weeks in succession than it does to win the Iron cross and yet it is said that as a nation we are growing soft!

Are you going to get a New Suit of Clothes for Easter? If so, buy now; as the longer you delay the more you pay. We have a splendid line of Tweeds and Serges of the very finest quality, and our cut and workmanship need no advertising. SPURRELL BROS., 365 Water Street.—mar14, eod, tf

Greater Russia.

Mr. George Kennan, the distinguished American publicist, who is so well known to Nova Scotia as a summer resident of Baddeck, is of the opinion that the upheaval in Russia will result in tremendously increasing the vigor of prosecution of Russia's share of the war. If the army stands back of the Duma, as there is now almost absolute certainty, Mr. Kennan affirms that order will emerge from chaos, the people will become united as never before, and the offensive against Germany will assume a character beyond anything of which Russia has shown herself capable in the past.

Mr. Kennan has spent many years in Russia, he speaks her language, has written much concerning this great country and its people, and has kept in close touch with its trend of thought and the progress of events. He is therefore entitled to speak with an authority which perhaps no other living American possesses in this respect. He believes that the revolution is the result of forces which have been operating in the Empire since the beginning of the war, and which have been brought to a climax by the increasingly acute food situation. These forces have been slowly spreading education of the people and a growing appreciation, as disclosed in war activities, of the failure of the bureaucracy to meet the complex situation arising from the war.

"The cause of the general discontent may be summarized in this way," said Mr. Kennan. "Keep in mind that the war party is the people. The peace party is the bureaucracy, which naturally fears for its jobs if victory in the war should lead to the grasp of greater power by the people. Now, it was seen early in the war that the bureaucracy was unable to cope with the tremendous problems the conflict created. There had been many Germans in Russian service and many of these professed their allegiance and stuck to their posts with the hope of hindering Russia's military procedure. How well they succeeded became known when it was reported to the Duma that a railroad of ammunition had been dispatched across Siberia to Vladivostok while the Grand Duke Nicholas was awaiting it anxiously in Poland."—Halifax Chronicle.
