

Death of Mr. Cunningham, M. P. The report which came from St. Paul on the 8th of the death of Mr. Robert Cunningham, M. P., for Marquette, Manitoba, has been confirmed by the receipt of a despatch at Ottawa. His death occurred in that city on the 5th, the cause being a severe hemorrhage of the stomach. The Globe thus speaks of the deceased, who was known to not a few about Guelph and Elora:—"Mr. Cunningham was a native of Ayrshire, and a graduate both of Glasgow College and London University. He came to Canada in 1838, and was, for some time, on the reporting staff of the Globe, acting during the troubles at Red River in 1859-70 as the special correspondent of the paper. He went up to Manitoba with the expedition under Colonel—now General—Wolsley, and became one of the proprietors of the Manitoba newspaper published at Winnipeg. He was returned for Marquette at the general election of 1872 and re-elected in 1874. The deceased gentleman will be remembered by his friends as having possessed many amiable and genial qualities. He was a man of considerable ability and originality, but his public career, thus prematurely terminated, was marred by a certain infirmity of purpose that placed him at times in positions his better instincts would have avoided."

The Sangster Case Again.

A short time ago we referred to the case of Dr. Sangster, in connection with his candidature as representative of the Teachers at the Council of Public Instruction. We referred to the unhappy relations which existed between him and his first wife, to the scandal which his intercourse with a young lady in Toronto—who subsequently became his second wife—occasioned, to the painful history connected with his divorce, and to other matters no less seriously affecting his moral character; all of which in our opinion were valid reasons why the teachers should oppose his election to the responsible position he seeks to obtain. Since then Dr. Sangster has published a pamphlet, in which he pretends to give a full and true history of all his family troubles, and seeks to secure the sympathy of the teachers and the public by a recital of his sorrows, and representations which would lead the casual reader to the conclusion that he was a much injured man. Among other documents which he gives in this pamphlet in his own defence, and in vindication of his conduct, is an opinion which he alleges he obtained from Mr. John H. Cameron, to the effect that the divorce he obtained in the States against his wife was valid, and also that his second marriage was valid in the States and in Canada. Mr. Cameron, however, in a letter published in the Toronto papers on Saturday, distinctly denies the truth of the allegation. He says:—"My opinion was never either asked or given in such a case, but it was asked for, given on a decree of divorce, obtained on the petition of his first wife against Dr. Sangster, on a statement of facts submitted therewith; and as only part of it is set out in the Globe article it does not show my view on the case really sent to me, and has no application whatever, as stated, to a divorce obtained by Dr. Sangster."

From the above it will be seen that Mrs. Sangster obtained a divorce as well as Dr. Sangster; that the opinion as to the validity of the divorce obtained by her was given by Mr. Cameron, and not as to the one obtained by Dr. Sangster, although in his pamphlet he makes it so appear, and in doing so commits a fraud on the public, and seeks on false pretences to secure popular favour and sympathy. The fact that such a divorce was obtained by Mrs. Sangster is studiously kept out of Dr. Sangster's pamphlet, and we are therefore left in the dark as to the grounds on which she obtained it. It opens up a new phase of this wretched history which we fear—if all was known—would be as little creditable to Dr. Sangster as that which we already know about his family troubles. In bringing his case before the public Dr. Sangster thought to justify his conduct by parading Mr. Cameron's opinion, which that gentleman now disowns. His case was bad before, but now he is utterly left without defence, and moreover stands before the world of having sought to gain public confidence by fraud and falsehood. What will his defenders and apologists now say? What will the teachers who have been fooled and hoodwinked by him now say in his favour? If any of them are yet foolish enough and impudent enough to support him, they will assuredly lose the respect of their constituents, and all who value truth, honor and morality. In this connection we think the Globe, in persistently opposing the conduct of Dr. Sangster, in the interests of public morality, has done the country a service which deserves every acknowledgment and commendation.

An Exciting Bear Hunt in Garafaxa. On the evening of the 26th ult., Mr. John Turner saw a very large bear crossing the 11th line of Garafaxa between lots 4 and 5. Bruin was going from the bush towards the open country at the time, and probably was out upon a foraging expedition, but the appearance of Mr. Turner had the effect of turning it back to its native forest. The war cry was at once sounded, and preparations immediately made for a strong expedition starting out next morning. By noon not less than thirty hunters went out, armed with rifles, shot guns, pitch and dig forks, and other deadly weapons too numerous to mention, followed closely by a noble band of ladies who formed themselves into a commissariat, and supplied abundance of rations in the shape of cake and milk to the gallant hunters. The bear was discovered in Donald Gibson's bush near where it was seen the previous evening, and James Richardson was fortunate enough to be the first to get a shot at it. But he had only a shot gun, and consequently if he struck his mark the shot had no other effect than that of tickling Bruin into good nature. The bear was then chased across the 10th line into about three quarters of an acre of swamp on Robert Simpson's farm, and the swamp being surrounded by hunters it was now considered that the game was as good as bagged. For some reason, however, Bruin did not voluntarily make a target of itself, and the men and dogs present had not the courage to enter the swamp and attack him in his native stronghold. A pair of hounds belonging to John and Wm. Redmond were then sent for, and they soon attacked Bruin and put him to flight, both of the messrs. Redmond getting a shot at him, with the same harmless result, however, as Mr. Richardson's previous bold attempt. The bear then ran down to the lower end of the bush and crossed into Jos. Turner's swamp, where those in pursuit thought he would remain; but instead of doing so he passed through the corner of it and took the cleared land, heading for the 11th line, which he crossed between lots 1 and 2, and was lost all track of for a time. He was afterwards scented, however, and found to have passed through a range of swamp which reaches almost to the 12th line; and darkness coming on he was left in Mr. Collier's bush for the night, the hunters returning to their several homes to recount the day's exploits. The hunt was renewed next morning, and the bear tracked through Samuel Woolner's orchard, but he was not sighted again, and so far as we can learn he is still at large and not a bit the worse of the protracted and long continued chase. He is described as a monstrously large black one, with a white breast. During the hunt several parties were quite near to him, Mr. Ezekiel Hays, who was armed with a stick only, being so close at one time that he could almost have kicked the brute with his foot. Those of the expedition who were properly armed kept at a safe distance, however, the bear either being afraid of them or they being afraid of the bear.—Fergus News Record.
