FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

PRICES WERE FIRM IN EVERY LINE

Slump in Live Hogs Came to an End On Market This Morning.

READILY SOLD

Prices Ruled From $14 to $15 a Ton-Oats Are Declining in Price Just Now

Prices were firm in every line at this morning's market. The same prices prevailed in hay and live hogs, the features of the Monday market, as last week.

Between 10 and 15 loads of hay sold from $14 to $14 per ton. The supply of hay from now until the new crop comes in will probably be scarce. The farmers are getting down near the bottoms of a their mows, and a poorer quality is betheir mows, and a poorer quality is being offered.

Live Hog Prices.

Live hogs have been dropping for the last few weeks, but no further decline was noted this morning, last week's figures of $9 per cwt being the ruling price. Oats are also steadily declining in price. Only one load was delivered this morning. It was of very choice quality, but sold for no higher than $1 15 per cwt.
