Apart from the consideration that such a franchise, even if only self-sustaining in its early years, should be held by the city, in order to secure for the citizens the best possible service, I beg to submit a few reasons from a financial standpoint, against the city again parting with this franchise, and in support of the bylaw respecting civic in support of the bylaw respecting civic street lighting.

Firstly, The slight public discussion of this question that has taken place (first opened by Alderman Burns, to whom the public is greatly indebted therefor), has already caused the company having the franchise to reduce its price per lamp from $108 to $74.825, a difference of about 45 per cent, or $43,127.50 per annum, certainly a very large reduction, especially in the face of former statements that the old or current price was a very low one. This sum amounts was a very low one. This sum amounts to 4 per cent on $1,078,187.50; in other words, the saving thus far secured, amounts to 4 per cent, on a debenture debt of $1.078.187.50.

This means the large saving to the city of $104,386.09 for the short term of five years for which it is expected the contract may be renewed should the ratepayers vote down the bylaw respecting civic lighting. This is shown as follows:

In view of the great importance to the citizens at large of having under the city's immediate control all the gity's franchises, affecting the public health, comfort, convenience and welfare, an opportunity will be offered to the people on June 1 next to recover one of these important and very valuable franchises, that of lighting the streets of the city.

This franchise is now held by the Toronto Electric Light Company, whose stock stands at 160, and whose contract expires next year.

According to The New York World, Amy Thill, who was murdered in West Thirty fourth street, in that city, a few days ago, was none other than the original of some of Charles Dana Gibson's most popular drawings.

The pictures of the murdered girl are beautiful in themselves. They are particularly interesting because of the unbappy model, and because of the unbappy model, and because of the artist's wide popularity.

Beart Disturbance

There is more heart disturbance now than ever. Present day modes of living, hurry, excitement, worry, promote it. You needn't have heart trouble, because you can keep from having it.

Palpitation or fluttering of the heart, smother ing spells at night, swelling of the feet and ankles, shortness of breath, pain in the left side, fainting spells, mean that the heart is oppressed—circulation is out of order.

DELAY IS DANGEROUS

Note the papers daily chronicling the demise of some one by neglect of these warningsresult, total heart failure. Scott's Sarsaparilla cures heart disturbance by equalizing the circulation, restoring nerve power, supplying pure blood and relieving the heart of its burden.
