

Christmas Books

God Wills It

By William Stearns Davis

Excellent Illustrations

Cloth, $1.25

A tale of the First Crusade ; with an element of Oriental gold and glitter, a flavor of "The Arabian Nights," an air of Western feudalism, chivalry, a tinge of barbarism, yet a spirit of deeply religious faith pervading all.

Young Barbarians

By Ian Maclaren

Numerous Illustrations

Cloth, $1.25

Stories of schoolboy life in Muirtown, which cannot fail to fascinate boys of every age. Fresh, wholesome, stirring, touched with tender bits of childish romance, it answers that puzzling Christmas question : What shall we give the boy?

New Canterbury Tales

By Maurice Hewlett

Author of "Richard Yea-and-Nay"

Cloth, $1.25

A theme exactly suited to this great master of the brush of English. He has taken the famous Canterbury Pilgrimage as the scene of these tales, recently called by an eminent English critic—"exquisite cameos."

Shoes of Fortune

By Neil Munro

Author of "Doom Castle"

Cloth, $1.25

Relates the adventures of a young Scotchman, who has to leave his native land owing to a misadventure. He goes to the Continent, where his career is mixed up with the Jacobite plots in the latter days of the Young Pretender.
