or to abide the and exceptional peal, then upon A writ of Error from judgments pectively, in any of the Common ppeal Courts in is therefrom in possible, in con-gland. ention to appeal, side, and a copy led from within it to the Appeal the decision apto, to be allowed and of oral arguy thereof to the furnishing the right of reply: urnished to the thereon in like rovinces to be conclusive, unconstitutional retained. mportant prinof the suitors, decision of the Court composed nal judgment, may be had of me reasonable. Judges—with ratively light. it has been for actory arrange-prove too bur-adgments renis, and unsetirt of original Judges of the utionality and roper and unit execution of ower no doubt confusion, and ning the Local conflict of authority, and at the same time essential to the efficient working of the general Government.

My strong opinion of the grave importance of this measure, must be my apology for my great prolixity. The objections I have suggested are conceived in no captious spirit, but are prompted solely by a desire for the general good.

Whatever legislation Parliament in its wisdom may adopt, I shall, so far as I can, cheerfully and loyally give effect to, in the Court over which I have the honor to preside. I am quite alive to the fact, that in the words of an English Jurist, "my duty is plain—it is to expound and not to make the law, to decide on it as I find it, not as I wish it to be."

W. J. RITCHIE,

Fredericton, 1st Feb. 1870.

Chief Justice.