RENNICK v. GALT, ETC., STREET RY. CO.

Negligence—Damages—Sufficiency.

The plaintiff, a married woman, who had to depend on her own exertions for her support and maintenance and that of her daughter, her husband contributing nothing, had striven to give her daughter a good education. The daughter was a little over seventeen years of age, and was just finishing her course at the Collegiate Institute, which would qualify her for a first-class teacher's certificate, and expected to be earning in the course of a year from $300 to $500. She was a strong, active girl and worked in the mill during the holidays, earning from $6 to $7 a week, which she gave to her mother, for whose maintenance and support she had often expressed the intention of providing. The daughter having been killed through the defendants' negligence, a finding in favour of the mother for $3,000 was upheld.
