SYSTEMATIC WORK OF SALVAGE CORPS

How Canadian Organization Has Saved Many Thousands of Dollars.

Corps Made a Model for British, and French Are Studying the Methods.

With the Canadian Forces, Oct. 3.—From time to time a good deal has been written about the work of the Canadian Salvage Corps, which is the pioneer along this line in the armies of the allies. This organization has had the honor to be made the model for a similar organization for the British army, and French officers have studied its system and methods in order to establish a like corps for the French army. It has been the means of saving many millions of dollars that otherwise would have gone to waste. These have been garnered from the wreckage of the battlefields, and in due course what was conglomeration of broken material, has been passed back to the base, and converted into new stock for re-issue to the troops. The work at the bases, wonderful as are these factories of rehabilitation, has been described before. But perhaps novel interest attaches to the record of what has been done in three weeks by the salvage company of one of the Canadian divisions, this being the First Division. In that period British and Canadian material has been collected from the battlefields to a total value of over three-quarters of a million dollars. To this must be added an unestimated amount of enemy material.

Follows the "Kick Off." The salvage company follows right in on the "kick-off." The work is both arduous and dangerous. It is carried on under fire, and in addition there is the risk attaching to the search of enemy dugouts. The strength consists of an officer and sixty other ranks, all of whom are categorized "B." The first business is to establish a divisional dump, preferably on a light railway, with access to good roads. From there small parties under non-commissioned officers, fan out over the line of the advance, searching trenches and collecting everything portable except "duds." Nothing is allowed to go to waste. The company in question, for instance, turned in during those three weeks, half a ton of cotton rags, valued at $55, as much black rag, worth $10, and 800 pounds of woollen rags, worth $12. The stuff is collected at small dumps and then is carried to the divisional dump, where it is sorted, sacked and labelled before despatch by train to the base. But everything of our own fit to use—as the rifle of a casualty—is at once released. All Boche material goes to the base. One of the most valuable items of salvage is ammunition. This company turned in 550,000 rounds of small arm, valued at $17,500; 24,000 rounds of 10-pr. shell, $300,000; 60,000 shell casings, $125,000; besides vast quantities of Boche ammunition of all kinds, including gas shells and hand grenades.

Accept Reduced Rations. The home taxpayer may rest assured that there is no waste in the Canadian corps. If anything, supplies are run on a parsimonious basis. Bread and meat are both scarce. It is only by rigorously limiting the ration that there is enough to go around. In this respect, however, we are immensely better off than the enemy. Prisoners welcome our rations. In fact, a bunch of Boches "interred" in the corps cage who were fed their own rations, of which a large supply was captured, became quite indignant. In surrendering they had a vision, no doubt, of fuller bellies. They are very badly off for bread—abominable in quality—and for meat. A tin of "bully" is a luxury for them.

MEETING OF PARLIAMENT NOT BEFORE JANUARY

Overseas Happenings Indicated Along Present Lines May Delay the Opening.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—While the possibility of the summoning of parliament being either hastened or delayed if the end of the war comes soon is a matter of some speculation in political and official circles at the capital, statements as to the intentions of the government are based on speculative surmises only. Up to the present time there has been no official intimation of any kind, and the government's course will, of course, depend upon the developments in Europe. In this connection it is pointed out that until a treaty of peace is actually signed the measures and instruments enacted and created for the purposes of the prosecution of the war will remain effective. When it was assumed that the war would last at least until the spring months the expectation was that parliament would meet about the middle of January. It is considered improbable that any overseas happenings will cause it to be summoned earlier. If they are along the lines indicated by recent momentous developments it is probably more likely that the meeting of parliament may be somewhat delayed. An authoritative statement as to the government's intention will undoubtedly be made when it is definitely known whether or not Germany will accept the armistice proposals now being framed at Versailles.

ARMISTICE PROSPECTS AFFECT WAR RATES

New York, Nov. 4.—Prospect for an armistice with Germany had a visible effect on the war risk insurance market here today. Under contracts made today by insurance men, if a vessel previously insured sailed after an armistice had been signed, one-half of the premium collected will be returned. Rates quoted today to British ports for armed belligerent ships are 1 1/2 per cent, against the previous rate of two per cent. War risk insurance for coastwise sailings today came well within the rates asked for ordinary marine risks.

SIXTY-EGH DEGREES, TEMPERATURE LIMIT

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—The temperature in all buildings must be kept down to 65 degrees at most, is announced by C. A. Magrath, fuel controller. The fuel situation has become so critical that it is urgently necessary to avoid waste, and a conference called by Mr. Magrath has just been held, at which ways and means of saving on limited supplies of hard coal were discussed with the fuel administrators for the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. It is the duty, therefore, of owners of large buildings of all kinds to place thermometers in prominent positions, along with a notice specifying the maximum heat allowed, in view of the urgent necessity for fuel conservation. It is equally important for the householder to keep within reasonable limits the temperature in his home. The issuance of specific regulations on the subject is still under consideration.

CANADA SHOULD DEMAND BILLION FROM GERMANY

Peace Conference Should Enforce Its Payment, Says Member of Dominion Senate.

A member of the Dominion Senate said yesterday that the Canadian Government should demand an indemnity of a billion dollars or more from Germany and that the peace conference should enforce its payment. The war will cost Canada possibly three or four billions before it is over, and Germany should be made to pay some of that cost. He also gave an instance where the agricultural implement manufacturers of Canada had from five to ten millions owed to them in Germany and Russia for agricultural machinery the day the war began, and none of which had been paid.
