The Floor Covering Ideal for Hot Weather

Rugs of Grass Fibre and Rush, Closely Woven in Harmonious Colors, Make an Interesting and Practical Carpet for the Porch or Sitting-room

COOL-LOOKING, clean, and of a goodly appearance withal are the rugs which have the high-sounding name of "Cret de Luxe." They happily combine the workaday virtues which appeal to the housewife with the decorative qualities of one's desire.

Deep bands of solid color and borders of conventionalized flowers or geometrical design characterize them, and all the most summery shades of rose, leaf green, brown, deft blue and grey may be found. Sizes and prices run thus:

3 feet x 6 feet, $4.75; 6 feet x 9 feet, $13.75; 4 feet 6 inches x 7 feet 6 inches, $10.50; 8 feet x 10 feet, $26.00.

Visions of the reedy marshes suggested in some Chinese painting float into one's mind at the sight of these rugs plaited of rushes in distant Formosa. The perfect handiwork of the East is their distinguishing mark. Woven in squares—each one separate from the other, they are dyed in colors of green and black, blue and brown, or tan and brown. The sizes and prices are as follows:

5 feet x 8 feet, $13.75; 6 feet 6 inches x 9 feet 9 inches, $22.00; 8 feet 2 inches x 11 feet 6 inches, $38.00.

Reed and Rattan—the Furniture for the Open-Air Living-Room

Preserving the Art of Informality and Ease, This Willow Furniture is Ideal for the Verandah

EXTRAORDINARY the effect upon one's well-being in these dog days of a cool-looking, secluded retreat, which offers restful chairs and dispenses hospitality! A table holding books and magazines, and the tea-tray at the appointed hour, low reed chairs, softly cushioned in chintz, a fernery reminding one of the cool, mossy depths of the woods—and behold the verandah has become a veritable bower of luxury, and all through the magic aid of this furniture of reed and willow.

In that soft French grey finish which is so restful there are chairs and settees of fine reed. Fine, sweeping curves are characteristic of these beautiful pieces, and they are cushioned in the new chintz, striped in black, with stiff little posies. Deep side-pockets for magazines appeal to all book lovers, and an old ivory finish vies with the grey for your approval. Prices are as follows: Settee, $69.50; arm chairs, $45.00 each; table, $28.50. The chintz cushions, with Marshall springs, are priced $34.50 for the three.

The day couch, in its lines recalling the Empire, may be found in old ivory enamelled fibre, closely twisted so that the surface is very even. Birds of strange plumage and blue roses mingle on its cushions, and the price is $45.00. Then there are others at $34.50 or $29.50 in brown reed. Ferneries in brown or bronze, with metal holder for the plants, are $9.75, and trays of rattan, in ivory finish, with handles, side pockets for spoons, etc., and a glass covered chintz top, are priced at $12.00. Brown rattan arm chairs offer themselves for the more sober schemes of furnishings. They have spring seat, upholstered back, a loose cushion of chintz, in various designs of mulberry and blue, and are priced $15.25.

An apartment de luxe for the favorite canary hangs above a stand of ferns, and the price for bird-cage and fernery complete in the old ivory finish is $40.00.

Freshly Taken From Their Wrappings Are Curtains From Paris

Fine as a Spider's Web of Cobwebby Filet and Sheerest Linen, They Are Devised by French Fingers to Dignify the Windows of Your Home

PICTURE them in a dining-room of the Jacobean period—these long curtains—or a French drawing-room with tall windows would be a fit setting for their intricate beauty. Squares of filet lace bearing heraldic devices, or strange birds and beasts, traceries and wreaths of cut work, inserts and edgings of Cluny of guipure—manifold, indeed, are their attractions, and being of French origin the needlework is perfect in its nicety.

These curtains have been long awaited, but the coming of peace and the release of shipping have made possible their timely appearance. The prices range all the way from $12.50 to $60.00 each, varying from simpler designs to most elaborate conceptions.

Inset with squares of hand-made filet, with guipure lace motifs and edging, the whole effect lightened by lines of drawnwork, is a sheer linen curtain priced at $12.50.

Tiny tassels are bob about in the breeze are an interesting border to a curtain of fine mull. Delicate vines of cutwork trail about amongst the insets of filet and Cluny lace on its surface, and it is priced at $27.50.

Cupid riding bravely on a dolphin's back is shown in an oval panel of filet lace on a curtain priced at $47.50. Dragons and flowers rival him in interest, and motifs of Cluny give richness to the design.

Filet panels, cutwork, Cluny insets, dancing tassels—these are the ingredients of a truly magnificent curtain, which is priced at $60.00, but the successful result of the recipe depended on the deft fingers of the French needlewoman.

Jottings from Jubilee Park

We watched and savored the other day in Jubilee Park, and truly it was a delight to see mothers and children of all ages and sizes sitting down under the trees in pure enjoyment of their surroundings.

Feet and hands kept time to the music, and songs—especially the old favorites—are listened to with breathless attention. "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," sung by Mrs. Ruthven Macdonald, wins all hearts.

White tears are furtively wiped away after "Loch Lomond" or "I Love a Laddie."

Then there are happy family parties sitting round the tables, father and mother, auntie, sister and the littlest one—all enjoying Jubilee Ice cream. Over by the lagoon stands a crowd all a-gazing, while anxious mothers wait on the lawn.

Watching the children bravely sail about in bright canoes. They need have no fear, however, for that friendly gentleman, Mr. Bruce Hildnah, an expert canoeist, and the children are safe in his hands. Best of all, perhaps, the other day was the piper. One might well call him the "Pied Piper" though his kilts were of tartan, for at his heels followed every where a stream of unruly, solemn and serious, intent on the music and the march.

Do you wonder, then, that people love to find their way to this wonderful park? The concerts take place from 10 to 12 a.m. and from 1 to 5 p.m., and at any time you may order iced drinks, sandwiches and cake.

You were Inquiring?

"Perplexed"—Hearty approval of your jottings from the dining-room—blue curtains and blue rug against a warm-toned grey wall. A large patterned fabric would be best, considering the height to which the windows lower.

There are two or three glorious chintzes in which the blue is entwined with big shaggy purple petals.

Price, $1.50 a yard, 40 inches wide.

One of them shows as well a few dashes of Indian red and touches of golden brown. If the seats of the chairs are also done in the chintz—might have little loose pinafores of it covering the backs as well—the general effect could not help being charming.

Your deft blue rug and walnut furniture would be well improved with the general scheme. A grey paper can be had in oatmeal, stippled, plaiter or painted effects, priced from 15 cents to $5.00 a roll. The popular stippled papers are 80 cents and $1.50 a roll, and run 30 inches wide. How nice to have the old-fashioned chimney-piece!

"Boswell"—Verbalizing a high ceiling—and "Perplexed" are brothers in affliction. A "drop" ceiling should improve matters. If you are using a grey tapestry paper for the side walls, one would suggest that the ceiling paper be in the greyish tinge, instead of dead white. A blending of tones is infinitely preferable to a contrast.

M. K. Mc.—Yes, anything from a salt spoon to a coffee tin can be repaired. While definite quotations cannot be given until the articles are examined, approximate prices on things you mention are as follows: Cream Jug, $1.50; sugar bowl, $2.50; cake plate, $2.75; tea tray, $3.75 to $15.00, according to size; bread tray, $2.75. When you send the pieces in to be repaired, please clearly label them and mark the package plainly THE SHOPPING SERVICE.

"Bride-to-be"—Where are you going, my pretty maid? That's the real peg upon which wardrobe hangs. It's to be one of the big hotels, then you for muslins, silks and baronet satin, with endless rays of gingham and madras for the more informal moments. If it's a camp or boarding house, the gingham frocks, saberdine skirts and lingerie blouses will answer all demands for dress-up occasions, and the rest of your days may be spent in a khaki skirt, topped by smocks or sport skirts, which will do it bet.

The Store abounds in the variety of both sorts. Write again, sending along the necessary particulars, or since you live in Toronto, get in touch with one of the Shopping Service girls, and they will advise as to styles and assist in selection.

The Gracious Hospitality of Five o'Clock Tea

Tea Tastes Better Than Ever When It Is Presented to One in a Cup of Fine China Delicately Ornamented

The brief halting-place in a busy day is the tea-hour, lingered over and enjoyed to the full, and an attractive tea equipage and dainty china are very large factors in one's pleasure. The hostess will be interested in these china tea sets from England. Evoking memories of Pompadour silks is one adorned with trailing flowers and green garlands; it has a certain piquant daintiness which is most beguiling, and is priced at $40.00 for the forty pieces.

A hospitable tea pot which will hold four or five cups quite easily accompanies a set heavily banded in gold. The design is a bay wreath conventionalized, and richness and dignity characterize the whole effect. There are forty-two pieces, and the price is $60.00.

A. It may be named "Chin Chow," but little of the harsh severity that interesting gentleman "from China" appears in the merry little mandarin jigging up and down on this porcelain. We suspect they are but an excuse for a name, but the pattern itself is truly Chinese. Its hues of jade or Pekin blue. This is an Adelsley china and priced at $30.00 for the usual number of pieces—40. —Basement, Centre.

B. A very modern quality of elan and vivacity is the attraction of these pieces with their stripes of black and white. One can picture their solid colors of rose, dull blue or jade successful in a room of flowery chintzes, books, prints and feminine belongings. This set is priced at $35.00 for forty pieces.

C. Blue and a certain Chinese red predominate in the garlands of a pattern which is in a chintz design of Aynsley china. The tea cup has an aristocratic air with its high curved handle, which appears, too, on the sturdy little cream jug. The price is $60.00 for the forty pieces—cups and saucers, tea plates, cream jug, bowl, and two plates for cake.

Lightbearers for the Nursery Table

An Irreverent Modern Version of the Italian Cherub is the Portly Little Kewpie Who Serves as Guardian of These Lamps

THE children adore these chubby imps, and grown-ups conceal a sneaking fondness for their saucy expression and ample curves. The kewpie certainly adds to the joy of living, and as a dispeller of gloom one of these lamps on the table beside one's bed would be most effective.

There are small kewpies gambolling together round and round the lamp, or bigger members of the family eye one demurely and roguishly as they uphold the light, or sit lost in meditation.

The little "slaves of the lamp" are all color and in white and faintest pink. Some are garlanded with flowers, and to descend to prosaic details, they have cords covered in white silk, and are priced at $6.75, $9.00, $10.75, $13.00 and $14.00, according to size and the degree of elaboration.

Royal blue and gold, the Jubilee umbrella is a gorgeous coloring spring up like a brilliant mushroom in many parts of the city. It is the signal of displays of just the things you want for sports, outings and picnics. Whenever you catch this colorful gleam remember that it means an opportunity too good to be missed.
