

SAY FAREWELL TO ARTILLERY DRAFTS

Men Going to Eastern Point Take Leave of Friends and Relatives.

AT EXHIBITION CAMP

Gen. Logie Inspects Base Hospital and Is Pleased With Institution.

Artillery Park was the centre of interest Saturday, when a large number of friends and relatives visited Exhibition Camp to say farewell to the men of the artillery drafts from the four batteries of the Toronto brigade. Coming, as the warning for overseas did, late Friday afternoon, it threw quite a scare into the batteries, and there were very few idle moments Saturday and today getting the men fitted out for their trip to a point east. The officers who will take the fifty men from each battery are: Lieut. J. E. Green, 71st Battery, who has been adjutant of the brigade and will be in charge of the complete draft; Lieut. D. Deeks, 70th Battery; Lieut. E. L. Green, 69th Battery, and Lieut. J. W. Wright, 68th Battery, were busy straightening details out. Late on Saturday, no definite hour of departure had been set, but it is expected that this warning will not be of long duration. Confinement to barracks will continue until the warning is either lifted or a definite departure hour is set. The departure of this commanding officer of the batteries, Lieut. McCullough will step into the shoes of Lieut. Wright, as O.C. of the 68th Battery.

Logie Inspects Hospital.
Major-General W. A. Logie inspected the base hospital on Gerard street on Saturday morning, and he was very pleased with everything there. He expressed the opinion that the system was as efficient as it could be. A fire alarm was turned in, and the work of getting the patients out and other details were carried out with great precision. The inmates of the "upper ward" are cheerfully enduring their lot, and no complaint is being registered in that quarter.

Sergeant W. Turley of the Great War Veterans' Association held some fine recruiting meetings on Saturday afternoon on Yonge street. He also assisted in a meeting at a munition factory at noon, when eight recruits were secured for the 10th Regt. Struck Off.

Thirty-seven members of the 218th American Battalion were struck off the strength as "absentees without leave" on Sunday, March 4, 10 a.m. The O. C. Artillery Brigade will meet the G.O.C. on arrival at brigade headquarters.

The riding or driving of horses and transport wagons, etc., over the lawns in Exhibition Park is becoming a common practice, and considerable damage is being done to the lawns in the park. Camp orders say this practice must cease immediately, and officers commanding units will see that specific instructions are given to all ranks to see that this order is strictly enforced.

— WANTED IN GALT.

Samuel Sanabel and Reuben Moses, wanted in Galt on a charge of fraud, were arrested here Saturday night by Detectives Young and Twigg.

CANS NO GOOD.

The Red Cross "waste" department (Mrs. F. A. Mulholland, chairman) desires to inform the public that after making most minute enquiries in Toronto and Ottawa, they find that no possible use can be made of old tin cans.

OPEN BANK BRANCHES.

A branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce has been opened at Balm Beach, Toronto, in charge of Mr. J. S. Greenhalgh; also a sub-agency at Cobble Hill, B.C., under the supervision of the Duncan Manager, Mr. A. J. Marlow.

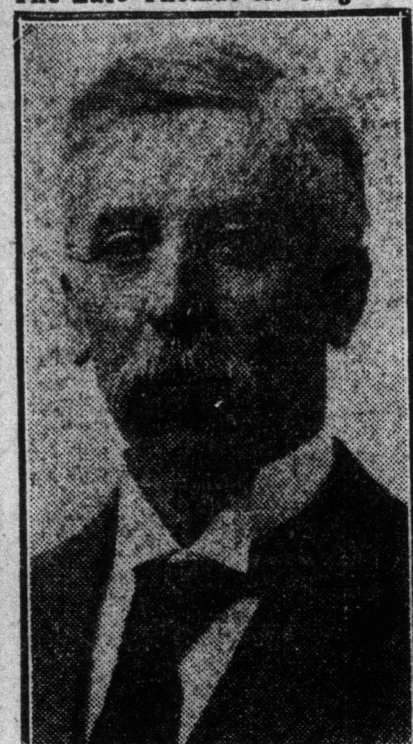

FUNDS FOR THE BOYS OVERSEAS

Torontonians wishing to send their soldier men in England or France small remittances, can secure both English and French paper money for this purpose, at the office of Messrs. A. P. Webster & Son, general steamship agents, 53 Yonge street.

LEAVES MUNITION WORK.

Miss Wiseman, who for some time was in charge of the women's department of the Imperial munitions board, has returned to the insurance company with which she was connected before taking up munition work. Her place has been taken by her assistant, Mrs. Frederick Fenton, who has had personal experience of munition work in a factory and is also well-known for her patriotic work along other lines.

The Late Thomas H. Cleghorn

Well known Toronto produce merchant who died in Rochester on Thursday last.

THOMAS H. CLEGHORN DIES IN HOSPITAL

Well-known Toronto Business Man and Member of One of the Oldest Families.

Thomas H. Cleghorn, 106 St. Vincent street, died Thursday night at Mayo Brothers' hospital in Rochester, Minn. The remains arrived in the city Saturday night, and the funeral will be held from St. Luke's Church at 2:15 Monday afternoon, to St. James' Cemetery.

The late Mr. Cleghorn was a member of one of Toronto's oldest families, and was proprietor of Cleghorn and Co., wholesale produce merchants, 106 St. Vincent street, and other details were carried out with great precision. The inmates of the "upper ward" are cheerfully enduring their lot, and no complaint is being registered in that quarter.

WOMEN RETURN THANKS FOR RIGHT TO VOTE

Toronto Suffrage Association Passes Resolutions Commending Those who Helped.

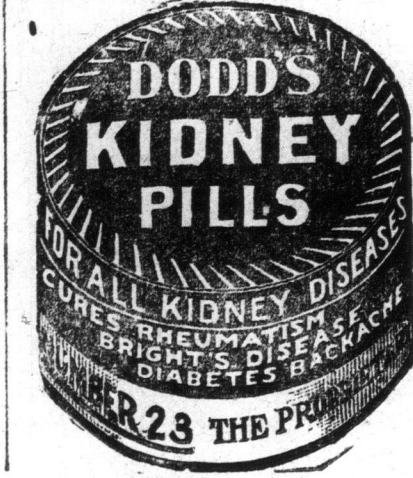

The executive of the Canadian and Toronto Suffrage Association met at Dr. Margaret Johnston's and the following resolution was passed and sent to Premier Hearst and his government:

"The National Canadian Suffrage Association, with its affiliated branches, including the Toronto Suffrage Society, being assembled, in session, desire to express their deep appreciation and extend thanks to Premier Sir William Hearst and the members of his government for the espousal of the principle of justice (which is the fundamental basis of all democracy), and that you and your government, realizing the ethics of equality, so ably and expeditiously extended to the women of this province the right to vote for the benefit and service of our country."

Resolutions of thanks were also sent to N. W. Rowell, M.L.A., and the members of the Toronto Suffrage Association, and that you and your government, realizing the ethics of equality, so ably and expeditiously extended to the women of this province the right to vote for the benefit and service of our country."

INFANT FATALLY INJURED.

Curson Ewart Henderson, aged 3 years and 4 months, son of Dr. Ernest M. Henderson of 345 West Bloor street, was fatally injured Saturday afternoon when he fell from the verandah railing outside his home to the lawn. The boy was carried into the house, where it was found that he had fractured his skull and died shortly after the accident.

OFFICERS TO JOIN AVIATION CORPS

Canadian Militia Regiments to Be Represented in Royal Flying Corps.

HONOR MAJ. THOMPSON

Increased Medical Inspection of Troops While in Training at Camps.

Canadian expeditionary force officers who desire to enter the Royal Flying Corps, which is now being organized for training at Camp Borden this spring by the Canadian department of militia, have been notified to resign their appointments with active service units, and be appointed to the aviation corps they will be gazetted as transferred from the militia regiments to which they belong. This will enable the home regiments to receive recognition when officers are referred to in despatches from the front. It is expected that a large number of regiments from all parts of the Dominion will in this way be represented at the Camp Borden aviation grounds.

The medical officer of every unit of the Canadian expeditionary force in Toronto Military District now makes a monthly medical inspection of the troops of which he is in medical charge, and upon the last day of each month compiles for return to headquarters a report on the physical fitness of his unit.

Owing to train delay the California Boys' Band concert for the 10th overseas draft which was held tomorrow afternoon, instead of today, in city hall square.

Thirty-three members of various units have been appointed to the charge owing to medical unfitness. Thirty-seven members of the 218th Battalion have been struck off owing to illness.

Officers commanding units at Exhibition Park Camp have just received specific instructions to see that horses and transport wagons are not driven over the lawns. The order points out that considerable damage has already been caused by this practice.

SERBIA SUFFERS AS NEVER BEFORE

Refugees Tell of Terrible Flight From Butchery by Teuton Invaders.

War is no new thing to Serbia. For centuries she had had to battle to hold her own. But now she is suffering from the physical suffering has been on the field of action—the non-combatants bearing their burden in their homes. To look on Serbia in former wars and then to have seen her plunge into action against those in this conflict in whom she saw the greatest of all menaces to her liberty is to admit that her gallant spirit, her ardent patriotism, her glorious sacrifices.

For it is not only the men who are suffering in this war. What the women, children and the aged men have gone through is beyond description, thousands having succumbed to the rigors of winter, typhus and the brutality of the Teuton hordes.

A letter from Madame Losenitch, wife of a professor in the University of Belgrade, a woman over 60 years old, describes the suffering in the flight over the mountains:

"These are the darkest days of our life, and I wonder why we still have hope, and where we expect it can come from. For two months we have been groping blindly from place to place. We had started, but we did not know what destination. The first night we passed on a verandah. Of course it was bitterly cold, and there was no sleep. We were walking very early, while the moon was still shining. I had to go to a little brook to wash before we started. We were walking now, climbing Mount Tchichak (6000 feet). The way was covered with snow. We staggered into the first doorway, and though there were only two benches in the room it seemed heaven. I shall never forget the distress of mind I felt when I woke in the morning and saw the snow falling, driven by a high wind and I knew we must go on."

And so the story goes on, day by day until the party of refugees got within a day's walk of Međina.

But there are no ships from Međina now. If only one ship would arrive for the women and children to save them from starvation, as food is very expensive every day we can buy less and less. I really don't know what will happen in a month."

Those who ultimately survived the journey are being no blanket in the allied countries, a work made possible by the administration of the Serbian Relief Fund.

THE FORMAN MYSTERY

By GEORGE HUGHES.

"Sorry! Why?" Warrenner, his nerves on edge, rose abruptly to his feet and glared at the other. "What the devil do you mean? Why should my love for Miss Forman make you sorry for me? Come—speak!"

But Mooney was silent. There was something akin to pity in his eyes as he gazed at Warrenner, which evidence of emotion only angered the latter the more.

"What have you against Ed—Miss Forman, that you should pity me for being in love with her? What do you know about her—you who only saw her for the first time today? Why shouldn't I love her? Tell me that!"

Thus speaking, he advanced menacingly upon Mooney. But the latter never budged. In his blue eyes there was no evidence of fear. When he spoke, his voice was firm and his tone emphatic.

"There is nothing on earth to stop you from loving Miss Forman, Jack," he replied. "But as love generally is the prelude to a situation more intimate, then I warn you to go easy. If you married her, you would never be happy. She is not a fit mate for you, and it would almost be a blessing were she to die before you arrive at the stage from which the divorce court is the only escape from an unhappy and ignominious union."

Mooney momentarily paused in his recital. Warrenner watching him, meanwhile with eyes that were murderous. Presently, he resumed, uttering each word with emphasis, "Look Warrenner, I'm going to tell you the truth! If you don't love me, then don't blame me for whatever evil befalls you in the future. You have asked for my opinion of Miss Forman's condition. Here it is—I believe Miss Forman to be suffering from the effects of over-indulgence in intoxicating liquor!"

VII.

Warrenner was momentarily stunned by Mooney's declaration. Every atom of color had rushed from his face, and left it as white as chalk. The flame in his eyes had died down, and they were now the hue of dead ash, and fixed immovably upon space. Temporary passing of coherent thought, save the one engendered by the pregnant phrase uttered by Mooney.

"Over-indulgence in intoxicating liquor!" The phrase recurred to him again and again with sickening repetition. It hammered with regularity and decision of a trip-hammer, each tap sending its message of agony until life became well-nigh unendurable. But Warrenner had strove to throw off the incubus that had seized upon him; but he could not. His brain had clogged, and the mental machinery refused to answer to the signals as before. It needed an understanding hand to lift it from the particular spot on the balance from where it could again take up its measured beat and continue its revolution.

It was left for Dr. Mooney to do this—and he was immediately sorry for it!

"I'm sorry, Jack," he began; but got no farther. Suddenly galvanized into action by the sound of Mooney's voice, Warrenner's brain became freed from the agony of it, and the fingers which gripped Mooney's thin shoulder with titanic pressure, Mooney bowed with the agony of it, and tried to break loose. But he might just as well have essayed to break the links of a steel chain, for all the effect his struggle had upon the power that held him. While Warrenner's burning orbs seared into his brain, he held there, immovable. Warrenner's face was now positively ghastly, and when he spoke it was with that passionless precision which only such awful will can exercise during such crises.

"Mooney," he declared, "you lie!" As he uttered these words his strong fingers bit deeper and deeper into Mooney's cringing flesh, and his staring eyes became more menacing. All at once, however, he bared, and changed; his white teeth became freed from their victim with a vehemence that made his teeth rattle and left him as weak and trembling as a reed. The last stages of nervous collapse, he said to Mooney, "lie, lie, when you hear me, Mooney!" he roared. "I say that you lie—lie, lie, when you say that Edith Forman is suffering from an over-indulgence in liquor! You lie if you say that she was ever addicted to its use. Your diagnosis is all wrong—and you know it! You've seen ulterior motive for making such a statement—some motive of your own—for making Miss Forman out as an imbibing drunkard. And whatever it is, Mooney, I'm going to know it before you leave this room! Do you understand?"

The LUX Bath

To-night—sprinkle 2 or 3 spoonfuls of LUX into the bath water. Stir it about. What happens? The LUX flakes dissolve instantly, making the water as soft as that from the old time "cistern" or rain-barrel on the farm—do you remember?

Soft as Summer Rain

Becomes the water into which you have stirred a few LUX flakes—pure essence of soap. An exquisite, soothing and refreshing quality is given the bath, or shampoo, and what's more, no further soap will be needed.

LUX

It's the modern, quick way of using soap—and it's by far the best way for the bath. Use soap in the ordinary way and you rub or force some of it into the pores. Now, the little silken LUX wafers dissolve so completely that not a trace remains to clog the skin—yet it is thoroughly cleansed and toned.

There's a new bath luxury waiting for you in LUX. Try it.

SERGT. SAM LANDERS IN CHARGE

Has Number Seven Platoon of 256th Construction Battalion.

Sergeant Sam Landers, former editor of The News in Hamilton, has been placed in charge of No. 7 Platoon of the 256th Construction Battalion, as the battalion will do light infantry training. They may leave during this week, as over 100 men were transferred to the Forestry Battalion the other day, the 256th being much over strength.

Sergeant R. Rogers, another Hamilton man, a returned soldier, is also in charge of a platoon. In France, Sergeant Rogers has been advised that he will have charge of a construction gang, he being an experienced old railway construction man.

FOR AID SOCIETY.

Donations to the work of the Franco-British Aid Society received this week are: Mayflower Chapter L.O.D.E., Halifax, $10; Mrs. H. T. Rance, Clinton, Ont., $10; anonymous, $3; Mrs. Gordon Hoskin, $1; a child's copper collection, Margaret Pleasance, $1. These amounts have been forwarded for blinded soldiers in Brittany.

RETURNED MEN AT CHURCH.

Thirty returned soldiers from the convalescent home attended service at St. Peter's Church in a body yesterday. At the conclusion of the service, the choir and congregation sang "God Save the King." The soldiers were afterwards given a dinner by Mrs. Ambrose Small, assisted by Mrs. Redout Milne, Mrs. W. A. Kavanagh and Miss M. L. Hart.

Frequent Headaches Much Pain Through Back

Kidneys Were Deranged—Digestion Was Poor—Had Weak Spells—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Made Cure Complete.

Brookville, Ont. Feb. 15.—Persistent headaches and pains through the small of the back are well-known symptoms of kidney disease. The skin gets dry and hard, you lose flesh and weight, and digestion is usually deranged.

Any derangements of the kidneys are sufficient cause for alarm, for the usual result of neglect is the development of Bright's disease, hardening of the arteries and dropsical swelling. To guard against such serious diseases Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills should be used at the first indication of trouble. Read how Mrs. Noyes got cured.

Mrs. Frank Noyes, 9 Stuart street, Brookville, Ont., writes: "For years I was afflicted with kidney complaint. I became very nervous, was easily worried, and had frequent headaches and neuralgia pains, especially through the back. I had indigestion, poor circulation of the blood, and often was bothered with weak spells. I commenced using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and had only taken two boxes when I felt greatly relieved. I continued the treatment, however, until I was completely cured. In all I took about ten boxes, and have not been troubled in this way since. I highly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I think also that the Plasters and Ointment can't be equalled."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are considered a household necessity wherever their value has been proven as a means of regulating the liver, kidneys and bowels, and thereby preventing serious disease. One pill a dose, 25c a box, 5 for $1, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates and Co. Limited, Toronto.

The Marguerite Clarke Fund

On Saturday afternoon a girl came into The World office, to which it was quite evident, she was a stranger. She said she wanted to give something to the Marguerite Clarke Fund, and, opening her purse, she took out three dollars. When asked what name, she merely said "Country." She came from near Brampton, and had seen the paper in The World, and it had struck her as a most worthy cause. Responses such as this are most touching.

Again we have the parliament buildings to the fore with twenty additional quarters, making 184 quarters in all that have been collected for the little blind girl among the employees at the seat of the provincial government. To these and our other contributors we are every day more and more appreciative. We are getting nearer the $2000 mark.
