QUEBEC WELCOMES "WIN-WAR" PEOPLE

ceive Triumphal Reception From Towns.

Canadians Should Unite.

Three Rivers, Que.. May 21. The 200 delegates from all parts of Canada to the national unity, of "Win the War" convention, whe gathered at Montreal this morning for the trip, arrived here this afternoon. Their automobile trip from Montreal was an eventful one, with demonstrations and receptions all along the way Buildings all along the route were profusely decorated with flags; at all the schools they passed, both public and private, the scholars were lined up to cheer the delegates onward; farmers in the fields waved a greeting as the procession of automobiles moved.

At Longue Pointe, the convention party was greeted by a demonstration with flags, songs and hand, by young men, boys, and girls, under Monsigneur men, boys, and girls, under Monsigneur Lapailleur. Further along there was a more informal reception at the Swiss Orphan Asylum. The 330 students at L'Assomption classical college accorded the delegates a smart and quite military reception. Lunch was partaken of at Berthierville and there the party was given a divic rethere the party was given a civic re-ception. At Joliette there was an im-pressive march past of collegians and school students under the Bishop of Joliette, Mgr. Forbes.

At Maskinonge the cars passed under a triumphal arch bearing the word "Bienvenu." Arriving there, there was also a civic reception, at which the provincial minister of good roads was one of the speakers.

A meeting of the national unity ex-ecutive was held later this afternoon, after which the 200 delegates reviewed the cadets at De la Salle Academy. That the paramount duty of all Can-adians is to see that the war is won and that in the winning of the war, as in everything of national concern, Can-ada can never realize her ambitions and possibilities if the two peoples of the Dominion do not develop in accord, according to their own racial night, wil genius and language, because only with morning.

The enemy placed such a high value on the lost hills that he immediately set in motion several a high value on the lost hills that he immediately set in motion several violent counter-attacks, but these broke down everywhere. The Germans left 800 prisoners behind them and hundreds of bodies on the ground and in the caves. After the failure of his infantry the enemy violently bembarded the lost positions today as a sort of parting shot.

the Austrians have begun to display a certain artillery and infantry activity in the Trentino, but whether as a mere demonstration or as a real offensive cannot yet be seen. The enemy attacked the Italians disastrously in the Trentino a year ago; he may, conceivably, lulled to carelessness by the superficial appearance of things, commit the same folly today. The Italians, meanwhile, are proceeding with their principal operations with success. They have just captured a hill between Palliova and Britovo on the Julian front, and have enlarged their captured ground on the Vodice. Austrian official communications refer to the plentiful supply of drafts and reserves behind the Italian armies. It is concelvable that General Cadorna is putting into effect the plan of invading Austria from drafts and reserves behind the Italian armies. It is conceivable that General Cadorna is putting into effect the plan of invading Austria from the Isonzo and Trieste.

Quietness prevails on the Russian, Rumanian, Macedonian and Mesopotamian fronts. The British expeditionary force to Syria is still halting before Gaza, the key to Palestine, awaiting the coming of the railway from the Suez Canal. In constructing this line the British engineers are probably having most difficulty with the procuring of an adequate water supply for the desert sections of the line. It is probably this factor that is retarding the line's opening. The Turks have also established strong fortifications at Gaza.

Instead of becoming better, as the German people were expecting, the food shortage in Germany has become much worse, and a German agricultural expert now advises them to eat grass like Nebuchadnezzar. The Berlin authorities warn the citizens that it may be impossible to supply everybody with five pounds of potatoes this week, but they will give cakes to those whom they cannot supply with potatoes. After Aug. 15 they warn the people to expect a reduction in the meat rations. In commenting on the German measures to prevent stavation and to regulate the price of foodstuffs, British experts had predicted that, by her stupid MOUNTED RIFLES. the price of foodstuffs, British experts had predicted that, by her stupid regulations Germany would do as she has done, effectually cut down production. In Germany and the territory in German occupation, she had enough fertile land to feed her whole population, agricultural experts in both Great Britain and the United States have declared, but by her overlondness of regulation she has regulated the German people to the point of starvation. The kaiser's subjects, however, have made up their minds that they will suffer all sorts of privations to win. Military men say that it will require a tremendous military defeat with a large permanent gain of German territory to breok down the German resistance.

ur Thousand Citizens He Touching Stories of Magnificent Work.

Stories vividly told, illustrating how the Y.M.C.A. workers of Canada bring cheerfulness and hope, often under heavy fire and at the risk of their lives to the Canadian boys enduring hardships and facing death in the trenches, brought comfort to the many mothers and fathers in Massey Hall last night when the Y.M.C.A. three-day campaign for $200,000 was launched before an audience of 4,000. Two speakers, Major G. W. Birks and Capt. W. A. Cameron, recently returned from the front, told of the work in its various departments. The appeal on behalf of those brave boys who, according to Capt. Cameron, "put the vim in Vimy Ridge" was one that found response in every heart. Capt. Cameron, who declared that he had never before pleaded for a cause with a clearer conscience, congratu-lated the government on the enforce-George Matthews, 66 years of age, of 6 Alcorn avenue, and Hilliard Cowan, Oaklands avenue, aged 8 years, are intended to take this action we would

Backbone of Army
The work of the Y.M.C.A. was the backbone of the Canadian army in Flanders, he said, and had a splendid moral effect. It provided not only for physical needs but for the spiritual welfare of the men.

Capt. Cameron stated that when men were away from home they were very responsive to the religious appeal, and responsive to the religious appeal, and if the chaplains did not win them to Christ they had themselves to blame. Life at the front took on a new per-spective, and the man in the front line entered into a deeper fellowship with his Maker.

Huts Power Houses.

Major Birks declared that the huts of the Y.M.C.A. were so many power houses radiating cheenfulness and hope among the boys in the trenches. He knew from experience at the front that the Considers were the first that the first that the huts of the first that the first t that the Canadians were the best served men in the armies of the world. To show how the Y.M.C.A. served the men he declared that a few minutes after the capture of Vimy Ridge the victors were being served hot chocolate on the crest of the hill.
J. W. Woods, who presided, also told of the work at home and overseas, and declared that the Y.M.C.A. was the finest recruiting agency in Canada. Miss Una Saunders, who presented the women's part in the war; Gen. Logic and Controller Shaw spoke briefly.
