WHAT IS A GENTLEMAN?

An Interesting Point Under Workmen's Compensation Act

Liverpool, May 30—An inquiry is being conducted here to determine the definition of a gentleman as contemplated by the workmen's compensation act. According to the reading of the act, anyone who earns more than $800 yearly and does no manual labor, is a gentleman. This definition, simple enough on its face, has caused dispute in shipping circles, and the Liverpool Steamship Owners Association are trying to solve the question by the present inquiry, but it is likely that whatever the decision, an appeal will be carried to the chancellor of the exchequer.

A prominent labor union official declares that the definition creates undesirable class distinctions in the mercantile marine. Under the existing ruling on big ships the captain, mate, second officer and everyone in the engineering room down to the sixth assistant are gentlemen under the act, but the line must be drawn at the seventh engineer. The steamship owners are saying that the amount of food and lodging allotted to their officers must count in determining their status under the act. On smaller ships the question is more acute, for only manual workers are receiving benefits, so no matter how low their stipend, the officers who do not work with their hands, do not profit by the act. Therefore the Gilbertian situation is created that if a man, though a manual laborer, do his manual labor, he at once becomes a gentleman. The quartermaster, steering the ship always qualifies under the act, but misses being a gentleman, although he may eat with the rest of the officers.

The question is of such importance, affecting as it does every British ship sailing from a home port, that some of the most eminent lawyers in the kingdom have been retained to conduct the inquiry.

THE BOGUS FUNERAL SURPRISES PICKETS AT GAMBLING HOUSE

Chicago, May 28—A hearse containing an empty coffin and with automobiles decked in mourning stopped in front of Wm. McGurn's road house and a thrifty crowd of mourners entered. Once inside the mourners suddenly became deputy sheriffs, and the house was quickly raided.

Complaints had for a year been received by Sheriff Zimmer, of the book-making and other forms of gambling which took place at McGurn's. More than a dozen pickets were continually on duty about the place. They had push buttons in fence posts, by which the house was notified when any person who looked like a deputy sheriff appeared. Chief Deputy Peters organized the funeral. The pickets were deceived, however, in the place, doors were broken down and racing charts, poker chips and dice were found. Seventy-five men were captured.

SON OF THE KAISER TO WED COUNTESS

Prince Oscar to Contract a Morganatic Marriage With a Premier's Daughter

Berlin, May 30—Prince Oscar of Prussia, the fifth son of the Kaiser, is about to contract a morganatic marriage. His engagement to Countess Ina Marie von Basswitz-Levetzow, daughter of the premier of the Grand Duchy of Mecklenburg-Schwerin and former maid of honor of the Kaiserin, is officially announced.

The Kaiser at first resolutely opposed his son's breach of the dynasty's tradition and a marriage below his rank, but the Kaiseress interceded successfully on Prince Oscar's behalf.

When the marriage takes place the Kaiser, in accordance with tradition, will confer a special name and title upon his daughter-in-law, which will give her higher rank than that which she now enjoys, although she will never be entitled to call herself a princess of Prussia or enjoy the privileges of a member of the royal family.

Prince Oscar is captain of the Potsdam Foot Guards, and will be twenty-six years old on July 27. His fiancée is six months his senior.

The prince first became acquainted with the countess while she was one of the Kaiserin's ladies-in-waiting.

NO BLAME ON CAPTAIN OR CREW

Quebec, May 30—When the collision started ramméd the Empress of Ireland, and sank her, a situation was created that tied the hands of the captain and the crew, and that will show them helpless to aid the hundreds of passengers. They even had but little chance to help themselves. That was why confusion reigned, and that is why more than 1,000 went down.

It may be that, at the investigation which, undoubtedly will be held, evidence will be produced that will show that those who died were not altogether the victims of cruel circumstances. However, that may be, the survivors, the majority of whom were seen yesterday had naught of blame to lay at the door of the captain or any member of the crew.

The outstanding feature of the statements made by almost everyone of the survivors was that there was no time to think or act. The passengers had been on the liner but a few hours, they were not familiar with its plan, they did not know where to find the life-belts, and in the darkness, they groped about their cabins.

In the darkness, too, they became confused in the maze of corridors, many never reaching the lifeboats, and those who did find that it was impossible to launch more than five lifeboats.

SEEK BARGAINS IN SLIMS.

London, May 30—Collectors and bargain hunters from the aristocratic quarters of the West End have found a new sphere of adventure. On a Friday, which is the day the rag and bone men of the metropolis display their wares for sale in the old Calcuttian cattle market, near Pentonville Prison, in one of the dirtiest slums of the city, wealthy collectors flock there to profit by the wonderful bargains offered.

It is known that many of the articles on sale have been stolen by the rag and bone men. The beggling but not ragged merchants and their wealthy customers is worthy of an Oriental market. Both men and women are playing the new game with the greatest zest.
