The fact that most of the passengers were below on account of the heavy weather, seems to account for the heavy loss of life, as the steamer sank so quickly that there was little chance for those under decks to escape.

LAWYERS GET FAT FEES OUT OF THE WALLACE WILL CASE

Thirty Thousand Dollars to One Firm—Sale of Jewels to Pay Off Some of Her Husband's Debts

New York, July 15—Mrs. Frances L. Wallace, wife of Allen Wallace, great-grand Commodore Vanderbilt, has obtained permission from Supreme Court Justice Govegan to sell many of her husband's jewels to pay some of the debts that have piled up against his estate.

The elder Wallace had a deep seated enmity for his daughter-in-law, Allen's wife, who wrote into his will a clause which excluded Mrs. Wallace from ever obtaining any share of the $700,000 trust fund in case she survived her husband. This so nettled Mrs. Wallace that she engaged attorneys to break the elder Wallace's will on the ground that its terms were void as being against public policy.

The lawyers engaged by Mrs. Wallace put in bills for large fees. To help pay the bills she decided to sell her husband's jewels, some of which have come down to her from the Vanderbilt line. The fight to break the will has been suddenly terminated by a compromise which permits Mrs. Wallace to share in her husband's estate.

THE ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE REVIEWED IN LONDON

WILL MAKE FOR PEACE

Times Sees Answer to Those Who Attack England's Party System—Chronicle Sees Cause For Nothing But Congratulations

London, July 15—The editorial views of the London morning papers on the modified Anglo-Japanese alliance are colored by their attitude towards the Anglo-American arbitration project. The Morning Post opposes the latter, subjects the revised treaty to severe criticism. It says, in regard to the fourth article of the revised treaty, that when a third power proposes to enter either the alliance, its first step would be to make an arbitration treaty with the other ally. The same procedure could equally be employed if either ally desired to evade its obligation, and in either case an arbitration treaty made in such circumstances would be an act of bad faith.

The Chronicle, on the other hand, sees cause for nothing but congratulations. It regards article four as the happiest possible laudatory because it shows that Japan sees no reason for contemplating anything but the maintenance of friendly relations with the United States, and further because it proves that Great Britain over-comes dominion accept the Japanese alliance as best for the common interests of the empire.

The other papers, while expressing doubts on the advisability of the prolongation of the alliance, which has never been popular, all agree in congratulating the government on the removal of the special danger of Great Britain becoming involved in a quarrel with the United States, and heartily welcome the new treaty as paving the way to the conclusion of an Anglo-American arbitration treaty.

The foreign office publishes the notes exchanged between Great Britain and Japan prolonging for four years article five of the Anglo-Japanese commercial treaty of 1904. In these notes it is agreed to continue the most favored nation treatment between Japan and Canada as regards customs duties and other matters.
