Nugget For The Admiral

Citizens Present the Departing Officer With a Tangible Token of Esteem.

Throng of Citizens Attend the forget you and Mrs. Beaumont. Eve Farewell Function in the Buildings.

A unique ceremony took place yesterday afternoon in the legislative chamber, when the citizens of Victoria took formal farewell of Rear-Admiral Beaumont and Mrs. Beaumont, who leave in a day or two for England, en route for the new command, of the first named, with the Australian squadron. The little cere- lections of Victoria will be equally mony was hurriedly prepared, owing to the short time in which the civic officials had to arrange the details, but this gave to the function a suggestion of spontaneity which it might not otherwise have possessed.

Chief Langley and a large detachment of his force in full dress took up their position on the steps leading to the main entrance, while the naval and military officers of both the regular and militia forces were present in uniform.

The Admiral and Mrs. Beaumont arrived promptly on time, and were met at the door by His Worship the Mayor and His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, and escorted to the dais. The party having been seated, His Worship the Mayor, who was suffering from a severe cold, expressed in a short address the feelings of regret felt in Victoria at the departure from our shores of Admiral and Mrs. Beaumont. He also expressed his gratitude to them for their kindness in attending the reception, notwithstanding the demands upon their time. He then October 18th, and the combined force the formal address as published in last night's issue of the Times. It was beautifully engrossed by Chas. Budden, the Government street artist.

To this address Admiral Beaumont replied as follows:

Mr. Mayor:-It is only in a few simple words that I can attempt to reply becomingly to the address with which you have honored me. I find myself in too new a position in speaking before such a distinguished assembly to be able to do more than express my heartfelt thanks for the esteem and regard which you have shown me, not only here to-day, but ever since I came among you.

It is seldom that an admiral is so fortunate as I am, for I attribute this kindly and courteous act to me from you, Mr. Mayor, on behalf of the municipal council and people of the city of Victoria, in a relations which have ever existed between this capital and the navy. If I read your hearts aright, you have been predisposed by your knowledge of the worth of Her Majesty's naval officers and men and their known sentiments of appreciation for Victoria and her citizens, to do special honor to their commander-in-chlef, and in their ompany, who have been so loval to me. and who have made my service so pleasant, I gladly accept your words of praise and the assurance that in representing them and the glorious service to which we belong, I have been courteous and sympathetic in my relations to you. It is quite true that I have been, and shall continue to be, interested in the progress of your city; for, apart from the kindness and attention which have been so freely extended to me, it would have been impossible, as an Englishman, to have remained unmoved or held aloof from a Westminster, where the nomination community which showed such splendid stands. attachment to the Empire and such devotion to the cause which we believe to be the destiny of our race to secure for all men-that they should live in freedom under a Christian rule—and that spirit which was brought out so strikingly by the Boer | feet | digestion | perfect | digestion | means war-that spirit of loyalty to the Queen and to the great principles of our English institutions is seen in all that you do in your daily life, and stamps the character of Victorians with honesty, hospitalty and charity-veritably the three graces. Your congratulations to me and your interest in my new appointment are very pleasant to me, and I shall carry away the remembrance of them to lighten the labors of what may prove to be a difficult task. It would be very agreeable to me to think that your flattering interpretation of my appointment to the Australian command was the right one; but in any case and I recommend this attitude of mind to all young men starting in life as the result of my experience-I will take pains to do my best, and if it is possible earn the high distinction of a satisfied
