NEWS FROM CARLETON CO.

Harland, Oct. 10.—A special meeting of the People's Union Agricultural Society was held at the office of Dr. Macintosh, the other evening, at which considerable business was done. The matter of bonded-mixed fertilizer was discussed at length and it was brought out during the talk that, where tried it had given excellent results. The president was authorized to make enquiries relative to securing a supply of the raw materials under the present market conditions. He will report at the next regular meeting, which will be held on Wednesday evening, October 21. Ways and means were discussed for working up a greater interest in the society and its work and getting it on a proper working basis. To qualify for the local government grant certain conditions must prevail and those present at the meeting were pledged to canvass others interested and work up a lively interest in the society. One of the benefits of membership in the procuring of pure bred stock and securing the government bonus. The prices of fertilizer and seed are also lower to the members of the society than to others. A rousing good meeting is expected on October 21st.

Shaw Bros., of the west side, are making extensive additions and improvements to their hogery, and when complete they will have model premises for the breeding and housing of their famous Berkshire stock. Mr. Russell Hatfield, of Middle Simonds, has donated a sufficient quantity of yarn to make 100 pairs of socks for the soldier boys who have gone to the front, and it is expected that the ladies of the neighborhood will do the knitting. A sewing class among the very poor girls of the parish and under has been organized by Mrs. George T. Baird, of Andover, with the object of making articles for the Red Cross Society. The little ones have been enthusiastically to the work and the results of their work will be very useful and much appreciated. The loss in the Centerville fire has been stated by insurance men to be $30,000, and the insurance totals about $14,000. On Wednesday, September 30, at Manse, Florenceville, Rev. M. H. Ward Hatch Tompkins, of St. John, and Miss Bertha Jalla Brooks, of River Bank. J. F. Donkin, the meat dealer, met with a rather serious accident, Wednesday, when he had his shoulder dislocated through the fractious actions of an unruly heifer which he was leading to slaughter. Mr. Donkin will be laid up for some time, but in the meanwhile D. E. Morgan will conduct the business. Carey Dickinson, of Middle Simonds, tells a potato story that will make many farmers envious. On two and a half acres of land, he has just dug 475 barrels of green mountain potatoes, which is a yield of 190 barrels, or 522½ bushels to the acre. The people of Harland have responded nobly to the appeal for clothing, and non-perishable eatables for the Belgians, and the ladies of the W.C.T.U., who have taken charge of the collection and forwarding of the shipment, on Friday shipped seven large cases of new and second hand clothing and bedding, and a quantity of canned goods. The people of Bath have taken up the work for the relief of the Belgian sufferers, and on Friday evening, the 16th, will hold a basket social in Seard's Hall to aid in the matter. Clothing and other goods can be left at Gallagher's and Tompkins' stores for the stricken people. The printed announcement for the basket social says: "Canada's courageous contingent and Belgium's brave battalions are blocks in New Brunswick's bulwarks against Germany's gigantic game. We must do our parts in providing the soldiers' wives and children against want."

URGES BOYS TO BE MANLY

Scotch Cadets parade to St. Andrew's church — Rev. Dr. MacVicar points to proper course.

"Like boy, like man," was the dominant thought in an address to the Cadets of St. Andrew's and St. Stephen's churches yesterday morning, delivered in St. Andrew's church by the minister, Rev. Dr. MacVicar, on the words, "Quit you like men." He pictured a boy of ten playing in the snow in the garden of an old country house in north eastern Germany, who had built a snow man in the garden from which, twenty years earlier the French had destroyed a statue. This white figure of his he pelted with snowballs, and finally hurled a stone at it so furiously that it fell to pieces.

"What are you doing, Otto?" asked an old servant. "I am overthrowing France," replied the boy. "That boy became the Iron Chancellor, Bismarck: like boy, like man." Unfortunately, Dr. MacVicar proceeded, the Germans of today had not acted on Bismarck's advice to make friends with the English, and still more unfortunately, in their treatment of Belgium, they had acted all too fully on Bismarck's counsel in regard to the invasion of an enemy's country. That it must be made so desolate that the inhabitants would have nothing but eyes to weep with and tongues with which to cry to their own government for peace.

In contrast to this exaltation of brute force as the ideal of manliness the preacher urged the boys to aim at becoming men whose ambition would be to make their lives count most for helping, not for hurting, others. Thomas Hughes was once asked to endorse a movement amongst a band of young fellows to make them manly, in which it was stipulated that religion should be left out. Hughes refused to endorse such a movement and wrote instead a book on The Manliness of Christ. Christ was most manly when He gave His life for others. In the Peninsula war, when McQuade stepped in between his officer, a boy of sixteen, and received the bullets from two muskets levelled at the officer, he performed an act of Christ-like manliness.

Devotion to duty was another manly element. A captain of artillery at Waterloo when asked what he saw, replied he saw only dust and smoke; and when asked what he did, declared that he stood by his guns. Noble instances of devotion to duty, coupled with courage, were cited from the present war, and the speaker declared being given to the great Highlander who single-handed with a maxim held a bridge on the Aisne against the German army. The final mark of manliness was that, for which the British had long been conspicuous, in a high sense of Christianity, he assured the boys, requires us, if possible, to live peaceably with all men. But the turn of affairs has taken such a course that to live peaceably with all men, since we could not if we would; and the only thing now was, with courage, devotion and a strong stand for honor, to resist the onrush of brute force. The cadets, notwithstanding the heavy weather, marched in their kilts from the armory to the church, accompanied by the Caledonian Pipe Band, and Major W. C. Magee, Sergeant Vall, Captains Marvyn White, and Major Brown, and Lieutenants F. Welford and C. Ferguson.

DEMAND FOR SPRUCE DEALS INCREASES

England took larger shipments of spruce deals from Maritime Provinces in September than last year.

In notes on the British lumber trade for the month of September, 1914, Smith and Tyler of Liverpool say:

The special feature during the past month has been the endeavor to fill up the gap due to the difficulty of obtaining supplies from the Baltic and White Sea. To some extent this difficulty has been mitigated by the employment of neutral steamers from the Baltic and the immunity from capture enjoyed by steamers from the Northern Russian ports, but the various uncertainties involved have necessarily restricted those operations. The approach of winter has spurred on the activity, but, nevertheless, the supply for the season must be far below the normal. The war has done much to drag on for months, and it is beyond human ingenuity to forecast what new conditions will arise, to be met by new resources.

Spruce deals have moved actively and prices have been well maintained. A keen demand continues and the supplies during the winter are likely to prove inadequate. Birch, both logs and deals, has an improving tendency. Pine deals have been disappointing, especially on the better qualities. Hemlock is waking up again in sympathy with the improved position of spruce.

Alfred Dobell & Co. of Liverpool, under date of Oct. 1st, say:

Canadian woods—Waney board and square pine—The arrivals were on contract & Manchester timber market heavy. Oak—There was a moderate import and fair enquiry. Values steady. Rock Elm—Stock is light and price high. Birch—Logs—Arrived sparingly and met a steady enquiry at firm figures. Planks—Arrived much more freely. There was only a quiet request. Values are easier. Pine—The market is moderate. Request at firm figures. Stocks are ample. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia spruce deals—As compared with the corresponding month last year the import to the Mersey and Manchester is 1,570 Standards more, while the consumption is also larger. The combined stock stands at 22,570 Standards, being less by 10,740 Standards than that held this time last year, which fact, combined with the great restriction in the import of Baltic white deals, places spruce in a strong position. Values tend to increase.

Other market reports, dated Glasgow, October 2, say: Since our last report, this country has been plunged into the greatest depression since the war began. Consequent on this there has been a considerable dislocation of business, although conditions are now more settled. The demand cannot be described as active, although there are a few enquiries in the market. A few firms have been employed chiefly by government work. Cabinet makers report very dull trade.

BISHOP RICHARDSON HOME FROM THE WEST

With Mrs. Richardson was visiting at Winnipeg — Presentation to senior member of Post Office staff.

Special to The Standard
Fredericton, Oct. 11.—His Lordship Bishop Richardson and Mrs. Richardson who have been spending the past few weeks at Winnipeg visiting Mrs. Richardson's relatives returned on Saturday. Speaking of recruiting of volunteers in the Canadian West, His Lordship said: "No difficulty is anticipated in getting men all over the Canadian West. There is a tremendous enthusiasm everywhere in that part of the Dominion."

At the post office on Saturday E. W. Vavasour, senior member of the staff was presented with a gold pocket watch by Postmaster Bliss on behalf of the staff in recognition of Mr. Vavasour's sixtieth birthday and long service as a member of the staff. In December next he will complete forty-two years of continuous service in the post office.

C. A. McVey and R. A. Malloy of provincial public works department are engaged in making a survey for a new bridge across the Nashua River at what is known as Covered Bridge. The new structure will replace the old one, which is in a state of decay in the province, the present one having been built sixty-eight years ago.

Dr. A. Crockett arrived here on Saturday morning from St. John in his power yacht, the Meredith, accompanied by John Tiltson of St. John. The friends of Robert Wisely turned out in large numbers to see the world series baseball games.

THRILLING MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY

Cabinet supposed to contain famous Hargreaves' Millions picked up from bottom of sea by ship's anchor.

All on board the good ship Alice B. were in a state of excitement for orders had just been given to lift the anchor, and once again the sturdy old vessel would plough through the mighty seas. A startled oath escaped the lips of one of the crew as looking over the deck he beheld suspended from the anchor a large cabinet, with the name, Stanley Hargreaves plainly written in golden letters on the cover. The box was speedily raised to the deck and the excited crew tried vainly to pry the lid. Through a most startling and rather weird chain of circumstances, the cabinet found its way to the bottom of the sea, and through a decidedly mysterious chain of events was returned to the butler of the Hargreaves home, and from there to the desk of the conspirators and through a discarded well, by a hand whose owner could not doubt solve the Million Dollar Mystery. The introduction of a new character in the special installment of the serial "The Elusive Treasure Box" at the Unique today and tomorrow perhaps will offer a hint to the solution of the problem. In any event this chapter is one of the most important of any yet seen. Other numbers on the programme have been selected with a special desire to cater directly to holiday audiences.

WOOL EMBARGO AND EFFECT IN CANADA

Canadian dealers worried — If supply of raw material from Great Britain is cut off Dominion Mills handicapped.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—Local wool dealers are much concerned over the proclamation of the British War Office placing an embargo on all raw wool. First, advising stated, that the exportation of wool from the United Kingdom to other than Russia, Belgium, France, Spain and Portugal was prohibited, but private advice later stated that the embargo extended to all countries, on crossbred wools, although merinos were not included so long as the buyer guaranteed that the wool is not for the enemy.

If Canada is included in the embargo, woolen manufacturers here are placed in a most serious position. Very large Government contracts have been and are being placed for blankets and other clothing supplies for the British forces, as well as the Canadian contingent. The mills have accepted these orders on the assumption that unlimited supplies of wool would be available. Present stocks of domestic wool are estimated at about a quarter of a million pounds, while stocks of foreign wools in Canada are never large, especially when prices are at the high level obtaining this past year are more. Since the placing of the first Government contracts there has been much activity in the domestic wool market, the demand being very split, which proves the small stocks now on hand. Wool dealers, however, are not disposed to think that shipments of wool from Great Britain to Canada will be prohibited, although no advice have been received to substantiate that belief.

One large dealer stated this morning that: "In case we are unable to secure shipments we will have to dole out our present supplies as carefully as possible, giving our customers the preference, of course."

He was far from sanguine regarding the outlook. He added: "We have received our wool practically all together, in the past, through British houses, and it is safe to say, in view of the big demand for crossbreds in Great Britain, that all available supplies of crossbreds in New Zealand and Australia have been taken up by those houses so that the outlook for doing business direct is not encouraging. Much of our present business, however, is for supplies for British Government, so that it seems impossible that the proclamation would include this country. We are hourly awaiting some definite instructions from our British headquarters but in the meantime can only do business on the stocks we have on hand. The situation is most unusual."

Upward Trend of Prices
The first day of the present series of London wool sales saw prices on wools suitable for army clothing advance in the July series, while greasy crossbred were from 10 to 15 per cent higher. The buying was practically all for the home trade. Merinos were in poor demand and prices declined from 10 to 15 per cent. The embargo was placed on exports on that day owing to the fact that information was at hand showing that agents in neutral countries were making purchases destined for German woolen manufacturers. Yesterday, the second day of the series, saw opening prices well maintained under a spirited demand from the home trade for secured crossbreds and all parcels suitable for the manufacture of khakis and other army clothing. The present series is serving to set up a standard of values and will only last a few days as the trade is not able to move any great quantity in the present condition of trade.
