BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, thickening of the skin, eruptions or blotches, sores in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogey" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakers. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. 25 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

FORMER NIAGARA FALLS.

The Mighty Cataract Will Soon Be Chasing Its Tail in a Turbine Wheel Like a Caged Squirrel.

Civilization is passing over the face of the continent as resistlessly as the movement of the glaciers, denuding it of forests, slaughtering its wild animals and birds, obliterating every touch of natural beauty, degrading the grandeur of nature's handiwork, straightening out streams, squaring ponds and bays, levelling hills and valleys, and diverting cataracts to power tunnels. Even the cataract of Niagara will soon be chasing its tail in a turbine wheel like a caged squirrel, says The Toronto Globe, as far degraded from the grandeur of its majestic plunging over the precipice into the roaring gulf as the squirrel with worn toenails and denuded scalp is degraded from the fascinating and graceful freedom in which he bounded and sailed from limb to limb. Pitfalls are opening for Niagara as traps are set for the squirrel, and in a little time the once majestic water will be running an endless race in the revolving cage.

Not Absolute Iconoclast Yet.

We have not yet reached that pitch of civilization in which the bronze that perpetuates beauty and power is melted and rolled into shoe-heels and window-fasteners. But hope springs eternal. Already we have learned to destroy the unapproachable and irreparable works of nature that they may grind pulp and run street cars. And progression is the law of the race. If the destruction of the Niagara cataract can make a town grow up that grew up somewhere before or would otherwise have grown up somewhere else, if it can so modify the struggle for existence that some will be able to lie a little longer in the morning while others will have to rise a little earlier, the achievement will be hailed as a success.

No Longer a Fool-Killer.

But how about the property rights of those who have gone over the cataract in barrels and through the whirlpool in fool-killers? That is the only claim or protest which can have any legal standing. The fame of those who went over the falls or through the rapids will disappear with the cataract itself, and their prospects as magazine writers and fall fair attractions will be blighted forever. They will certainly assume grounds for legal action on account of the destruction of the value of their property without compensation.

Protection for the Public.

The men who have bought cameras or invested in merry-go-rounds may also feel that they will have claims for damages. There may be some sympathy even for the few who like to hear the roar of the cataract and feel the presence of its majesty. But to avoid legal actions, or at least mitigate damage claims, it would be a stroke of genius to make provision for certain Niagara days in all future concessions. It would be a splendid thing to be able to announce that the Niagara Falls would be turned on from 8 a.m. till 10.30 p.m. on a certain date, when excursionists would have an opportunity of seeing the great wonder of nature in its original condition. Of course it would destroy all revenue from skating rink, stone quarry and other franchises in the bed of the river, but that loss might be no greater than the loss through damage claims if no provision were made for an occasional Niagara day. If all future concessions contain a stipulation that once a month the falls be closed and the great river made to pour over the American and Horseshoe Falls, there could be periodical Niagara days, and the glory of the barrel and boat heroes and heroines would remain undimmed.

Niagara Old Boys.

We could even organize a Niagara Old Boys' Association. At present the people who saw the Falls before the gorge was profaned by trolley lines are afraid to visit the place for fear the picture of their tin snail and the irreparable damage done to the river. But with a regular Niagara day arrangements might be made for the suspension of all concessions. The cataract could also be turned on to welcome and honor distinguished visitors. But, in spite of all these advantages, the value of the wasted power and the river bed concessions will no doubt outweigh all argument in favor of permanent Niagara days.

Macaulay foresaw the destruction of Britain and the naked fisherman washing his nets in the Thames. The cataclysm may come in another form, and instead of the barbarian fishing in the river of ten thousand masts, we may see the man wearing factory-made diamonds running his automobile along the ledge where once the Niagara torrent plunged over into the gorge.

Fame.

One thing is certain in regard to fame; for most of us it will be very brief in itself; for all of us it will be transient in our enjoyment of it. When death has dropped the curtain we shall hear no more applause. And though we fondly dream that it will continue after we have left the stage, we do not realize how quickly it will die away in silence while the audience turns to look at the next act and the next scene. Our position in society will be filled as soon as it is vacated, and our name remembered for only a moment—except, please God, by a few who have learned to love us, not because of fame, but because we have helped them and done them some good. —Henry Van Dyke.

The best way to back a horse is to tug at the reins. It isn't necessary to consult a bookmaker. That is certainly one way, but it is not the best way.

Woman is often referred to by man as "doubling his joys and halving his sorrows." That may be complimentary but it would seem to be rather hard on the woman. For in plain terms it means that where things are going well with the man his wife makes them go better. But when things are going ill with him, he expects the wife to share half his burden. And there's more truth than poetry in this presentation of masculine selfishness. Men don't appreciate the fact that the strain of motherhood alone is a burden bigger than all the loads that rest upon male shoulders. They see the wife grow thin, pale, nervous and worn without a thought that she is overburdened. Among the pleasant letters received by Dr. Pierce are those from husbands who have waked up before it was too late to the crushing burdens laid upon the wife, and in search for help have found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a restorative which has given back to the mother the health of the maiden and the maiden's happiness. "Favorite Prescription" always helps, and almost always cures. It has perfectly cured ninety-eight out of every hundred women who have used it when afflicted with diseases peculiar to women.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CROMWELL'S DESCENDANTS

Several Well-Known Families in Which His Blood Still Flows.

It is a curious example of the persistence of the English governing families and of their close intermarriages, says Mr. Harrison in his "Cromwell," that the blood of Oliver Cromwell still runs through female lines in the veins of the following well-known persons: Marquis of Ripon, Earls of Chichester, Morley, Clarendon, Cowper, heir presumptive to the Earldom of Derby, Lord Amthill, Lord Walsingham, Countess of Rothes, Mr. Charles Villiers, M.P., Sir John Lubbock, M.P., Sir F. W. Frankland, Sir Charles Strickland, Sir H. E. F. Lewis, Sir W. Worsley, Sir W. Payne-Gallway, the Astleys of Checkers Court, the Polhills of Kent, the Tennants of Glamorganshire, the families of Vynor, Lister, Berners, Nicholas, Gossett, Prescott, Field, Mr. S. R. Gardiner, the historian, etc. During the past century at least seven persons descended from the Protector have held office under the Crown, including one Foreign Minister, Lord Goderich; one Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland and a Viceroy in India.

Among those who have married descendants of Cromwell are the Earls of Danby, Lytton, Lathom, Lord Stanley of Preston, Sir W. Harcourt, M.P.; Sir A. Brothwick, M.P.; Mr. Samuel Whitebread, M.P. The late Sir George Cromwell Lewis, the statesman and author, was a descendant of the Protector, and Lady Theresa Lewis, his wife, author of a work in illustration of Lord Clarendon, was a descendant of once of Oliver the Protector and of Edward Hyde, the Chancellor. — Harrison's Cromwell.

Our Queen's Good Father.

King Christian of Denmark is the most beloved of European monarchs. A story is told which illustrates the affection of his people, and at the same time the freedom with which they approach him.

The King was visiting a town in northern Jutland, when a peasant advanced to him on the street and asked him if he was the King. The monarch smiled, as he answered affirmatively, and inquired if he could do anything for him.

"No," said the peasant, bluntly. "I just wanted to tell you that you are a good King—one of the best we ever had."

The King laughed. "Do you think so?" he replied. "Well, perhaps it's a matter of taste; but then, I'm a poor judge in affairs of this sort."

That the peasant, however, was not far wrong in his estimation is evidenced by another story in which King Christian was the good angel. The story has been revived by the action of the King in placing a wreath on the grave of the wife of Jensen, the famous portrait-painter.

Jensen was a poor boy in whose career His Majesty took much interest. One day the King met the young man on the street, and impressed by his sadness, asked what was the matter. The young man confessed that he was in love with the daughter of a wealthy man, who would not let her marry the son of a poor tradesman.

"Oh," said the King. "Is that all? We must see what we can do." The very next day he called on the wealthy citizen, and argued the young man's case so successfully that all opposition was withdrawn. The King is a hard man to resist, and a King who uses his power wisely is a mighty instrument for good.

Lord Lister's Jubilee.

It is now fifty years since Lord Lister passed his examination and admitted a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons of London, says The London Chronicle. The members of his profession in England constituted a recent issue of their official organ. The British Medical Journal, into a Lister jubilee number, devoted to an apotheosis of the man during whose remaining years, at least, British surgery will continue officially to lead all Christendom. The number opens with a reproduction of the Lister frieze from the portico of the Polyclinic Umberto in Rome, and is devoted to a series of articles specially contributed by leading living surgeons from all over the world. Professor Chiene of Edinburgh, where Lister during an historic epoch taught and revolutionized surgery (1860-1877), is to-day teaching junior students by walking up and down his wards (once Lister's) and asking en route, "Who saved the man's life?" The answer is the same in Edinburgh Infirmary or a South African hospital.
