To all liberated women: welcome to a man'sworld!

The women on the women's liberation committee do not want equality with men, but rather they want to be men (barring physiological differences of passing importance). This is their right. But, portance). This is their right. But, should they so wish, they must should they so wish, they must realize that they cannot have their realize that they can cake and eat it too.
Children today are alienated to varying degrees from school time on. Few students dispute that. But, the larger part of a child's personality is already developed by the time he is five Can there be a better coup de grace than to be a better coup de grace than to take a child from birth to five years of age, and have him and 40 other kids looked after by a professional nurse for ten hours a day (he sleeps the other 14 hours at home)?
Statistics show that children living in orphanages frequently develop severe emotional problems and below average intelligence.

These kids do not really know what love is, and often, they never will.
Working men cannot possibly have sufficient time to emotionally mature an under five-yearally mature an under five-year old child. Neither can working women. It therefore appears that women. It therefore appears that the goal of the women's liberation the goal of the women's liberation committee is largely to sacrifice committee is largely to sacrifice their children (no impropriety intheir children (no impropriety intended) in order to "liberate" tended) in order to "liberate" themselves (cop out of responsithemselve bilities).
Congratulations!!! They do not have a maternal bone in their bodies. I welcome them to the world of men. They should shake hands with their boyfriends (no more "good lays"). They are now good old drinking buddies. Only they must remember the world ${ }^{6}$ is sufficiently populated so that we can do without their emotionally crippled children. Bill J. Klaus sci 2

Another "classic bungle" at ol' U of A: it's not the principle--it's the 10 bucks

On Saturday morning, Jan. 20, (and a few hundred others) was a witness to another classic bungle at the $U$ of $A$.

The occasion was a psychologcal test in the basement of the Tory Turtle, to which I came beTory Turtie, to which I came because a friend of mine said there tached to the writing of it. Well,

Education Faculty Council is just dying for tenderlovin' care 'n all that stuff

Attention: All Students in Faculty of Education: You are most cordially invited to attend the next Faculty Council meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 3 at 3:30 p.m. in Room 200, University Hall. A visitors' gallery is situated near the north door of the chambers. Just feel free to walk in.

The last meeting (Jan. 13) dealt with the B.Ed. revisions. This order of business was passed. "This meeting, who knows what "goodies" will be discussed!
Why come at all? Student involvement in the functioning of a Faculty Council is a necessity. After all, you have as much right to "know" what is going on in this faculty as anyone else (or do you?). Policy is not decided by some unapproachable gods; it is every student's duty and responsibility to find out why certain decisions are made - especially when they do or will affect your livelihood and future education.

The issue is whether you have enough guts to show some interest in how you are "educated"-or isn't it worth the trouble?

C.B.C. BARBIBRS SIUDENI RAIIRS  CAMPUS TOW ER 8625-112 st. 439-2723

lo and behold, by $8: 15$ in the morning there were already about 200 people there and you had better believe that they didn't stop coming then.
Well, that's all right said I, as I had been informed that the people running the show wanted at least 600 persons. Ha, ha! When the place was filled to the roof with people, they came up with the golden statement that they had only 171 tests.

The people standing were told to leave. Not enough gone? Well then they told the people in the last two rows to "come back next time." Even so, when all the papers were passed out, about 50 75 more people still had no papers and they got the gate also.

During the aforementioned proceedings, the statement "why did you come" was directed at the people in the lecture room. Paraphrasing a poem by saying "The call of the cash is a wild call, a call that cannot be denied" should supply the answer to this perfectly asinine question.

And you said that you were "Oh so sorry," but you had better believe that I am more so. I strongly suggest that the persons responsible fix up the act in order to keep this sort of thing from being repeated. Sure, the printers didn't come through for you and you didn't have enough tests, but you didn't have enough tests, but as you were in charge it was your damn responsibility to co-ordinate things, so the blame rests with you.
I was fortunate to get car rides to and from the university on Saturday morning, but those people who started out at about seven o'clock and transferred about four times on the transit system as well as those who really need money as those wally need money about this time of year, can justifiably be madder than I am, and I am just plainly browned off.

Pilferers persist

in pinching posters

Students' Help, with its infinite ability to help, has been called upon to render yet another service. I refer to the design and supply of posters to "poster nuts" around the campus. We would be more than happy to sell-at cost price-posters to individuals who so require them. We're flattered to think that they are noticed and in demand. Unless your pad is a hangout for several hundred university students (which is possible) it's not only devastating to our budget, but also highly impractical.
On these grounds of poverty and group benefit we plead with you, poster-pilferers, to pilfer someone else's posters.
