

THE BEACON

Interim Issue

St. Andrews, N. B., Saturday, July 12, 1919

MY OWN FOUR WALLS

THE storm and night are on the waste
Wild thro' the wind the herdaman calls.
As fast on willing nag I haste,
Home to my own four walls.
Black, tossing clouds, with scarce a glimmer,
Envelop earth like sevenfold palls,
But wifekin watches, coffee pot doth
simmer,
Home in my own four walls.
A home and wife I, too, have got,
A hearth to blaze whate'er befalls;
What need a man that I have not,
Within my own four walls?
King George has palaces of pride,
And armed with grooms must ward
those halls,
With one stout bolt I safe abide
Within my own four walls.
Not all his men may sever this,
It yields to friend's, not monarch's, calls
My whinstone house my castle is—
I have—my own four walls.
When fools or knaves do make a rout,
With gignen, dinners, balls, cabals,
I turn my back and shut them out,
These are my own four walls.
The moorland house, though rude it be
May stand the brunt when prouder falls:
I will screen my wife, my books and me,
All in my own four walls.

THOMAS CARLYLE.

BEACON AGAIN STOPPED

While printing last week's issue, and before the run was completed, the press broke down. The damage, while not very serious, was such as to make it necessary to send the broken part to the makers, R. Hoe & Co., New York, to be repaired. It was shipped by Express on Monday morning, but through some unexplained delay had not reached New York on Friday. Thus it is that we are unable to complete the issue of July 5; and can only to-day print this best containing the local news and some of the correspondence that came in during the week. We sincerely hope, though we are not certain, that the broken part of the press will be repaired and turned to us in time to get out the issue of July 19 on its due date. And for the sake of our readers and advertisers, as well as for our own, we hope that we shall soon have our printing office again in condition, as to staff and machinery, to get out our paper in the usual form and on the regular dates of issue.
