An Act of Love

The editor of American Magazine asked Private Peat one day to tell him the most tender, gentle thing he ever knew a soldier to do. He answered: "After the attack at Ypres, in April, 1915, I was knocked out for a while and was in the clearing station at Merville. One day when I was lying there on a stretcher a poor, miserable soldier came in. He was covered with mud and blood. He was minus his overcoat and his tunic was torn by shrapnel. He was soaked to the bone, for it was raining, and he was shivering with cold and pain. The nurse hurried to him and asked him what had become of his overcoat. 'Oh, he gave it to me,' he said. 'I was afraid he ain't going to make out this fella at all,' the mistress sighed. 'I allow that was purty good pay,' replied the host. 'Well, it would be ordinarily the mistress admitted, 'but Tommy jest went upstairs to tell him dinner was ready, an' found him sharpenin' his teeth.'"

The German Taint

"At last my dream of freedom has come true and it does not seem right to have a German head at my heels all day long. Never allow any one who is tainted with one drop of German blood to speak to you or you. It is beautiful here and the people are very kind and friendly. I am quite happy. Love to all."

Freed from Germany after three years of such imprisonment as is known to other lands only from reading between the lines of scant messages sent by the victims, Pte. Percy A. Dunbar, 15th Battalion, in these words writes to Mrs. Scanlon in Toronto from Fort Flix, the Hague, Holland. The writer is a second cousin of the late James J. Hill, the American railroad king.

Pte. Dunbar went overseas, in 1914 with the 48th Highlanders, since known as the 15th Battalion, and was taken prisoner at St. Julien along with many of his comrades in April of the next year. He was in prison camp until sent over the Netherlands border.

SUGAR FOR CANNING SEASON

Sufficient Supply Will Be Available, If Economies Are Exercised.

The sugar situation so far as Canada is concerned in the light of the hands of the public itself. Transportation conditions have been bad, but with the restrictions which have been imposed by the Canada Food Board on bakers, confectioners, eating places, candy manufacturers and on private households, so far as the use of cane sugar in icings on cakes and the making of candy for private consumption is concerned, a very large saving will be effected. If this saving is increased by all possible economies in private households and by curtailed consumption of candy, it is certain that there will be a sufficient supply of sugar for the canning and preserving season. The Food Board has been successful recently in securing ships to carry raw sugar to Canada and these supplies have definitely improved the situation. With continued care, there is now no danger of anything in the nature of a sugar famine and, if the public will do its share, there will be no shortage for the canning and preserving season. Continued economies are necessary, however, and the Food Board's regulations must be strictly observed.

The International Sugar Commission of New York and the Royal Commission of London, working in co-operation, virtually control the raw sugar of the world. The International Sugar Commission allocated to Canada an additional 70,000 tons against 400,000 tons last year. Our exports of refined sugar last year amounted to about 55,000, so that the net shortage for Canadian consumption is about 150,000 tons, or approximately six per cent. The International Sugar Commission, however, expected to be able to locate an additional 70,000 tons to Canada, which would have given us a net surplus over last year of 45,000 tons.

Transportation difficulties became unexpectedly acute and sugar receipts in Canada fell far below schedule. Arrangements were almost completed for ships to bring raw sugar direct to Canada, but these had to be dropped because of transportation difficulties made necessary by the Canada Food Board. They will have the effect of building up a reserve stock for canning and preserving period. To accomplish this to the extent that is desired, so that no part of our fruit or stock yards this morning was weaker and lighter rather slow, prices remained about steady.
