GOING BACK.

I wonder why I feel so sad—I wake up chirpy as a rule. Is it a nightmare I have had? I know! I'm going back to school! My play-box and my trunk are packed.

At ten fifteen I say "Good-bye," to try to blink that painful fact. Is useless, so I will not try. My mother tells me to be good. And careful to wrap up my throat. To learn my lessons as I should. And never venture in a boat.

My father gives me half a quid. With dubious hopes that I shall pass "Matric." as early as he did. I know he thinks his son an ass.

Then uncle pats me on the head—I wish he wouldn't, I'm fourteen—He'd better tip me well instead. A shilling seems so jolly mean.

Aunt Jane is better—she is good. Her half-crown, but she'll insist. On kissing me; I wish I could. Just hint a boy hates being kissed.

What's that? It can't be striking eight! Yes, there's the jingling breakfast-tray! Time was up!—at any rate I've had a rattling holiday! —Paul Blake.

A FEMALE DOCTOR

Fights Like a Tigress Against Officers of the Law.

The Battle Results in Several Persons Being Killed and Wounded.

Gilman, Ill., August 28.—Two men killed, three wounded—two of them perhaps, fatally—one woman wounded and her residence burned and the results of an all-night battle between a mob and Mrs. Dr. C. W. Wright, who was accused of the murder of Desse Salter, the 16 year old daughter of a citizen of Gilman, by malpractice. Mrs. Wright kept what she called a woman's hospital where the girl died.

Early Sunday evening the first act of the tragedy was enacted when Constable Nilstead went to the house on the outskirts occupied by Mrs. Wright, to serve the occupant a warrant sworn out after the coroner's jury had declared her guilty of murder. A number of deputies gathered in the street and accompanied Constable Nilstead. Mrs. Wright barred the door. In forcing an entrance the constables encountered unexpected opposition. They broke the door open and entered the darkened rooms. Michael Ryan felt his way across the first room and was about to enter the door of the inner apartment when a shot rang out and he fell dead.

The constable made a hurried exit and formed a pocket line around the building. At regular intervals they fired into the building and finally it was determined to set fire to it. The recent rains had so dampened its timbers that the fire would not catch and after burning some outbuildings the posse gave up the attempt and fell back to their original plan, that of drugging out Mrs. Wright. About 3 o'clock the family of Michael Ryan arrived. A mob of 250 people had gathered, most of whom were armed. The scenes of grief which followed the arrival of Ryan's wife and children fired the crowd with frenzy. They seized blocks of the building, straw, saturated them with petroleum, piled them against the front and sides of the so-called hospital, and applied the torch. In a moment the place was a mass of flames. Shots were fired from the upper windows and Geo. Willoughby, a local representative of the Standard Oil Co., fell with a bullet in the left side. The victim was Peter Hauer, a member of the attacking party. These casualties so angered the crowd that they volleyed the north as fast as they could load their firearms. No screams followed the progress of the flames and the mob began to think the inmates of the burning house had been cremated.

Suddenly from a bunch of timber in the rear, several shots came in the direction of the mob. They were answered, a hundred to one, and the fire was quickly silenced. Members of the mob carried her down town, jeering as they went. She was taken to the council chamber, and physicians set to work in an endeavor to bring her to consciousness. Up to 9 a. m. they were unsuccessful and it is probable that she will not recover. It has been reported that there were three women in the house beside Mrs. Wright, but no signs of them have been found. Mrs. Wright is about 50 years old. It is stated that she was formerly an actress. For some time she has been conducting a lying-in hospital on the outskirts of Gilman, wherein the death of Desse Salter occurred last Friday, and the verdict of the coroner's jury Saturday caused the issuance of a warrant for her arrest, which resulted in wholesale shooting and the probable death of the principal.

The affections themselves carry over that their strife against us may be an appetite to good, as reason doth; the difference is that the affection beholdeth merely the present, reason beholdeth the future and sum of time. —Francis Bacon.

There are some men like dictionaries, to be looked into upon occasions, but have no connection, and are little entertaining. Less judgment than wit is more skill than talent.

KRUGGER COINS DEAR.

Lord Roberts Gives "Tommy Atkins" His Choice—He Takes Boer Dollars.

Lord Roberts is giving his troops the option of being paid in British or "Kruger" sovereigns. Thrifty "Tommys" are taking the latter coins, and sending them home to their relatives, who are disposing of them at a considerable profit. The soldiers generally are procuring as many "Krugers" as possible, for the word has gone round the camps that they will be worth twice their face value in England.

The statement is not incorrect, and during the past few days a number of "Krugers" sovereigns have been sold privately for £2 and £3 each. A Daily Mail representative yesterday interviewed a leading London jeweler on the subject of these coins, and ascertained their present prices.

Kruger pennies are being sold at the large figure of from 7s 6d to 10s., the nimble three-penny bit of the Transvaal fetches 3s 6d., and a like sum is giving for the Transvaal sixpence. The larger South African Republic coins are not bringing such large prices. You can get a shilling for 2s 6d., a florin for 3s, a half-crown for 3s 6d., a half-sovereign for 15s., and a sovereign for 80s.

Questioned as to the remarkably high figures "paid for the smaller Kruger coins," the jeweler stated that they were due to the scarcity of these coins in London—London Mail.

The Way She Managed It. He was a timid young man, but she swung upon his arm with the ease and grace of a new gate on grassed hinges. He tried to think of something to say, for a lull in the conversation was to him as picking a boil with a dull pin. Finally, he made the same remark that every bashful lover makes. "I am made under similar circumstances, to wit, 'It's a nice evening.'"

She said: "Yes, it is truly delightful, but then I think the company one may chance to be in has a great deal to do with the atmosphere." He threw his eye along the garden path to the end of the market house and said he'd be there would be many a good steak and soup bone sold in that building. She said she had no doubt but there would be, and went on to remark that it would be a nice thing for newly-married people to get their marketing at a newly-finished market house. Then, after a pause, she told him of the funniest dream she had the night previous—she dreamed somebody had proposed to her!

He replied that he believed that dreams were nearly always caused by eating too much supper; but he hoped hers would come true, providing it was himself that did the proposing. This took her so completely by surprise that she said she'd have to give her a week's time to think about it. And the young man is now undergoing all the agonies of suspense, fearing his forwardness has left him a bride.

A Bird's Awakening. A contributor to The American Sportsman tells an interesting story of a humming bird. "In front of a window where I worked last summer," he says, "was a butternut tree. A humming bird built her nest on a limb that grew near the window, and we had an opportunity to watch her closely. In fact, we could look right into the nest. One day when there was a heavy shower coming up we thought we would see if she covered her young during the rain. 'Well, when the first drops fell she came and took in her bill one of two or three large leaves growing close by and laid this leaf over the nest, so as to completely cover it. Then she flew away. On examining the leaf we found a whole in it, and in the side of the nest was a small stick that the leaf was fastened to or hooked upon. After the shower was over the bird came back and unhooked the leaf, and the nest was perfectly dry.'"

Bananas Are Wholesome. Banana-lovers will be delighted to know that their favorite fruit contains 72 per cent of water, 2.14 per cent of nitrogenous matter and 22 per cent of saccharine substances. It is the 22 per cent of "sweets" in the banana which makes it a nutritious food. A Mexican chemist has been comparing bananas with wheat and potatoes for food, and has arrived at the conclusion that for the same space and under the same conditions of cultivation the production of bananas is 40 times that of potatoes and 100 times that of wheat. He has figured out that an area of land which will raise enough wheat to feed six men will produce enough bananas to feed 150 men.

How to Clean Oil Paintings. Artists sometimes use a raw potato for this purpose. Cut off the end of the potato and rub the painting very gently with the cut end. As fast as the potato becomes soiled cut off a thin slice and continue to use it until the whole surface is clean. Another method is to rub the soiled surface with the finger wet in warm water. If the dirt is very hard and old use oil instead of water. Let it rest for a few hours so that the dirt may be softened, then wash off with a sponge and tepid soda. —Ladies Home Journal.

Goldfish in Glass Bowls. A scientific man says there is cruelty in the keeping of goldfish. Half of such captives die from sheer want of rest. "A fish have eyes so formed that they cannot endure the light, in a glass vessel they are in an entirely wrong place, as is evident from the way in which they dash about and go round and round until fairly worn out."

He Admitted It. "A man," she said, "never knows when he is well off." "True," he replied, "and it's a mighty fortunate thing for women who do not care to be old maids that they don't." —Chicago Post.

In The Summer

Of life a woman may find herself fading and failing. She doesn't understand it. She goes to doctors, who treat her for this or for that, but she gets no better. She grows frail and pale. She can just "drag about the house," but has no pleasure in life. Many such women have taken advantage of Dr. Pierce's offer of free consultation by letter, and have been restored by Dr. Pierce's treatment to perfect health. There is no more wonderful medicine for women than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Its action upon the womanly organs is at once apparent in the decrease of pain and the increase of strength. It cures female weakness and such diseases as take away the strength and beauty of women. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Before I commenced to use your medicine I was in a bad condition (for eight years) and four doctors treated me," writes Mrs. Lettie Asher, of Garysburg, Northampton Co., N. C. "They, of course, gave me at the time some relief, but it did not last long. I was some days in my bed and some days I dragged about the house. I have used five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and four vials of the 'Pellies.' Now I feel like a new woman, and I want the world to know it."

High Court Weighing off Prisoners at Johannesburg.

A Kaffir Shot for Assault—Former Boer Policeman Sentenced to Seven Years.

Johannesburg, Aug. 28.—The High Court, of which Major O'Brien is president, has tried 272 cases since last June. Fourteen of these were for murder, eight for criminal assault, and forty-nine for concealment of arms. In the case of a Kaffir, convicted of assaulting a Boer woman, the death sentence was pronounced on Monday. Lord Roberts confirmed the sentence and the man was shot.

A former zarp (policeman), who was found guilty of breaking his oath of neutrality in collecting parties of burghers and leading them outside the military lines, where they could join Boer commandos, was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment. Another charge against him was that he furnished the Boer commandos with provisions. The military court is rightly enforcing the law and the sentences imposed are very severe. One good effect of this is that the illicit liquor trade has been almost entirely extinguished.

Kieck, a Johannesburg chemist, was arrested at a point about eight miles toward Moselekatz Nek. He was traveling in one of the British ambulances. He told the driver that he belonged to Roberts' Horse, that he had been sick and had just been discharged from the hospital, and that he was anxious to rejoin his regiment. He was dressed in khaki uniform and thirteen despatches for the Boers were found on his person. He was on his way to see Commandant Grobler when arrested.

The affair is regarded as very serious and the police are concealing the details. The prisoner admitted that he bought the British uniform for 40 shillings, and said he would make a clean breast of the whole affair.

Furs put away for the summer should be kept in light-tight-fitting tin boxes, being first cleaned and dried and wrapped up in newspapers. In the boxes should be placed small linen bags filled with camphor or pepper. Once a month or so the furs should be taken out and carefully examined and well shaken, and hung for an hour or two in the open air.
