POOR OUTLOOK FOR CANADIAN WOOL

Many people, store-keepers and others, throughout our country districts, having seen reports of an advancing tendency on the part of wool are apt, it seems to us, to arrive at wrong conclusions from the premises. At least, they are likely to look only at the wrong premises and to argue from those. It is true that the London auctions of colonial wools opened firm for merino cross-breeds showed a decline of from 2 to 7-1/2 per cent. Since the opening, there has been keen competition for the finer grades at prices which showed a slight advance, but medium and coarse cross-breeds are selling at lower prices than ever known in the history of the trade, and they form the bulk of the offerings. This is just the point we wish to make. Those wools in which an advancing tendency is apparent are not such as affect the Canadian market in the slightest degree; whereas the coarser grades, such as are produced in the Northwest, are precisely the kinds which, as stated, are to-day selling at the lowest prices known to the trade. A large English house, referring to this subject in a letter recently sent to this city, says "The English wools are, for the time being, a dead letter—clean knocked out by these cross-breeds." They add that they "hate to say it, but the outlook, instead of improving, does the reverse."

The cause of this state of things is not far to seek; it simply hinges upon the changed conditions in the chief wool-producing countries of the world. Ten years ago, the chief and desired at by sheep breeders in such countries as Australia, Cape of Good Hope and the Argentine Republic, was the production of wool. Since then, however, cold storage has become general; more profit has been found in shipping mutton than wool. The result has been that the two products have changed places in relative importance, and now the wool is looked upon as a comparatively side-issue. Formerly, when the reverse was the case, a small kind of merino sheep was grown which yielded a fine grade of wool. Now, however, that meat is the primary object, the merino is neglected, and a larger, cross-bred, animal is in favor—an animal which produces a coarse grade of wool. This in the ordinary course of things comes into competition with Canadian wools and explains the low prices obtaining for the latter, or rather the utter absence of demand. Fortunately, things have a habit of adjusting themselves after a while; not only does a demand bring about a supply, but supply creates a demand. Possibly this will be the case in the present instance, and we may see the fashion veer round in favor of goods made of these coarse wools. But it is of no use to disguise this fact that such an evolution is but a slow process, and that a long time may elapse before it is brought about. Such a change can hardly be said to have begun yet. Judging from pres-

TEARFUL,

Trembling, frightened, she knows not why. Between her sobs she tells her husband of her misery. It is not enough for the husband to comfort her in this condition, she needs help. In those early days when the shadow of maternity first begins to fall upon the woman she is often nervous, sleepless, without appetite, and full of vague fears.

The help needed by women at this crisis is fully furnished by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It nourishes the nerves and soothes them. It restores the appetite and induces refreshing sleep. It gives physical strength and mental buoyancy to meet the trial of motherhood, and makes the baby's advent practically painless.

"I will be very glad to say a few words for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. P. S. Douglas, of Mansfield, Brome Co., Que. "During the first four months when I looked upon becoming a mother I suffered very much from nausea and vomiting, and I felt so terribly sick I could scarcely eat or drink anything. I hated all kinds of food. At this time I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he told me to get a bottle of his 'Favorite Prescription' and a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I got a bottle of each and when I had taken a few days I felt much better, and when I had taken hardly three parts of each bottle I felt well and could eat as well as any one, and could do my work without any trouble (I could not do anything before). I feel very thankful to Dr. Pierce for his medicine, and I tell all who tell me they are sick to get these medicines or write to Dr. Pierce."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels.

ent indications, large quantities of last season's Canadian clip are still held by country dealers at prices considerably above an export basis. The situation may be briefly stated in the words of a Massachusetts dealer representing probably the largest mills in the world: "I have been offered Canada fleeces wool in Boston for the past month at 25c, 26c, 27c, and have not bought it because I do not want it. I have bought a deal of bankrupt wool in Philadelphia and Boston — Kents 25c; selected Irish hogs 26c; superior Irish hogs 27c, superior Shropshire hogs 27c all delivered at Boston, 60 days. A week or so ago a Boston firm sold me 120,000 superior Irish hogs at 27c—60 days to close it out as they did not want to carry unsalable stock. I cannot buy Canada wool." The above prices, allowing for duty, freight charges, etc., represent or less to the farmer. — Monetary Times.
