The War Loan.

The decision of the British Government to raise money by the flotation of loans at 4½ per cent., with the issue price at 100, shows the effect of the war on money. Considering the ensity of the war and the hugeness of the expenditure, the interest points to the confidence of the Government in the financial resources of the old land. The cost of money rose from 1897 to 1913. Consuls in the stock, while in 1913 the same stock yielded £3.8.0¼, showing an increase of one per cent in these sixtees. of one per cent. in those sixteen years. If we attribute the difference between $\mathfrak{L}_{3.8}$ and $\mathfrak{L}_{4.10}$ now offered wholly then addressed the people and in a £3.8 and £4.10 now offered wholly the war, we see that the effect is £1.2 per cent. This naturally confirms our doubts as to the wisdom of the Newfoundland Government at the session just closed in authorizing the issue of a loan at four per cent. Mr. Lloyd asked the Prime Minister if the Government had consulted the financial agents of the Colony as to the terms of the loan contemplated and was informed that the Government had not done so. The unwisdom of taking up a financial matter in these days blindly was apparent in the face of it. Now it is more apparent. If the British Government and the strongest of the Colonial Governments, such as Canada South Africa, Australia and New Zea land find it necessary to attract in vestors by floating loans at 41/2 per cent. the lack of financial foresight in putting through a loan at four per cent, and without the consulting of l aspect of the matter, almost passes the Governor Visits . Ferryland

On Wednesday morning at o'clock, His Excellency Sir W. E. Davidson, arrived at Ferryland, accompanied by Lady Davidson, Miss Davidson, and Hon. A. F. Goodridge, they were met at the railway station by Rev. Fr. K. Vereker, Dr. R. J. Free-bairn, S.M., besides every resident of the place, who turned out in fine style to honor and bid welcome to the worthy representative of our Sover-eign Majesty King George. Shortly after their arrival the Vice Regal party drove through Ferryland to the Court House, and were greted all along the road by volleys of musketry, beautiful arches, and at every residence, and at every vantage point flags party were introduced to the people of Ferryland by our popular Magistrate, most patriotic manner explained to th Wales offered a loan of £5,000, such an important part in this the at 4½ per cent. but 62 per cent. of world's greatest struggle. He also spoke of the historic traditions of Feryland which could boast of being the oldest settlement in the Colony, be Sir David Kirke who claimed to be its first inhabitants. His Excellency was greatly applauded by his hearers and cheered to the echo.

Our worthy and esteemed Magis trate, Dr. R. J. Freebairn, then arose and thanked the Governor for his beautiful address, but could not re-frain from expressing in well chosen words the patriotic sentiments which he felt, he reminded His Excellenc, that when the call came for volum teers, the boys of the bulldog breed were not behind, twelve of them re sponding nobly, a showing which can compare with, if not surpass, any ther settlement in the Island according to the population. He said, though being born in Scotland, he feels that he is more of a Newfoundlander being in this country for upwards of twenty-seven years, having during ter attention had been directed to this that time made hosts of friends. He has one son Buchanan with the 1st belief and certainly passes under-standing.

McKENNA'S APPEAL FOR WAR

To the holders of the old war loan we say: If you bring one hundred pounds to invest in the new war loan we will take over your old loan at par and offer you four and a half instead of four per cent. After ex-plaining the proposal that if higher rate interest should be offered to subsequent loans, the holders of the forthcoming loan should receive a higher rate, McKenna continued: This is a great national appeal to every class for a great national pur-pose. The Chancellor then proceeded to explain the method by which he intended to let people utilize their savings. He said that while the minimum subscription through the Bank of England would be one hundred pounds, the Government had in view of these methods of issue to meet every class and purse, first through the Bank of England; second, the sale of £5 to £25 bonds through the Post Offices: third the sale of war loan youchers for five shillings and multiplies thereof. These vouchers will be offered for sale at Post Offices, Trade Union headquarters, etc. The will carry interest at the rate of 3" per annum for every complete calen-dar month. Vouchers, when a total of £5 have been purchased, will be exchangeable at the Post Office for a £5 bond. This arrangement gives the working class every advantage accorded to others. Our requirements are great. Every effort made now is an effort not only necessary to enable us to carry on the war, but to enable us to maintain our financial pre-eminence after the war. He who subscribes now is doing an act of mercy both for himself and his country. He who subscribes now and saves in order to subscribe, will be thankful for the efforts made to help himself, but still dearer to him must be the knowledge that every aid he gives himself will be multiplied for his country, and his country will bless him for his providence and gen-

REDEMPTION OF WORLD IN

LONDON, To-day. Lloyd George has returned from a week end visit to Boulogne, where he consulted King Albert. Thos. French, Under Secretary of War on the Muni-tions questions is forming committees in London as well as in all manufac-turing towns to take advantage of every possibility for increasing the production of munitions, which is the gravest problem confronting the Al-lies in all the theatres of war. The Times prints a despatch from its correspondent in Eastern France who as serts that if French troops are to drive home their offensive in over whelming force, they must use a tre mendous increased bulk of ammun tion. The same lesson came for England from the front, he points out while the retreat of the Russian armies in Galicia hammers it home again. The correspondent says the daily output of shells certainly is much larger than it was four months ago, and it is possible that a reserve of ammunition s being built up much more rapidly than is apparent at the front, but he adds what we have come to is the re demption of the world by shells.

RUSSIA LOOKS TO HER ALLIES. LONDON, To-day. Discussing the reception in Petro grad of bad news from the Galician front, the Daily Mail's correspondent in the Russian capital says: An appeal to the country to maintain calmness, signed by the Russian General Staff, is posted in public places throughout the city, giving assurances that the whole truth is given in official communications and that the wild rumors which are being circulated in Petrograd are unfounded. The military view the situation without alarm, although admitting it may be some time before the Russians again is able to resume a vigorous offensive. They assert that Russia has borne for ten months, the burden of war, suf-fering the greatest losses, and materially improving the situation in the west. While she is reforming for the renewal of the battle. Russia looks to the Allies to carry the war forward and give Germany no rest.
