Will History Repeat Itself?

The cabined news of last week that the Kaiser was about to return to Germany, followed by the statement of a high official of the British Government that "William Hohenzollern is still the Emperor of Germany and King of Prussia," because no formal abdication document has been signed by him, gives rise to the question, will history repeat itself?

So far no attempt has been made by any of the associated governments to put into operation machinery for the extradition of the Kaiser from Holland which country has afforded him asylum, and was declared quite recently by a prominent French jurist that it was exceedingly doubtful if he could be extradited at all. All this adds to the amazing disappointment which describes aptly the general feeling following the swift, dramatic conclusion of hostilities. And this feeling has not been ours alone. Other countries have experienced it. We had been looking forward to celebrating the victorious end of the war with every expression of gladness and every demonstration of enthusiasm, but when the end came with such striking suddenness we were bewildered and speechless, and subsequent events have not tended to diminish our stupefaction. We pause, and wonder if the war is really over. Even had we followed over the world with rapidity that we have begun to look upon them as only of ordinary everyday affairs. The real heart thrill that broke out into universal jubilation at the close of the South African War, could not be repeated, when the welcome news of Germany's surrender came over the wires. Cronje's capture by the late Lord Kitchener at Paardeberg on February 27th, 1900, was greeted with greater acclamation than the capitulation of Germany on November 11th, 1918, after a period extending over four years, during which battles unparalleled in history were fought. But there is a reason for this. The magnitude of the colossal conflict, but lately ended, so overshadowed the comparative insignificance of earlier battles (though the issues of some of these were of no less importance to the world) that the mind was incapable of grasping its titanic proportions. The world was so suddenly plunged into the maelstrom of striving nations, that it had no time to think of celebrating the victory. All the energies of the peoples were turned toward the one object, and even as a temporary peace was declared, hands and brains were still being revivified and newer weapons of destruction, and war problems were engaging the minds of rulers, statesmen and diplomats.

All of which brings us back to the query which is the caption of the article. The fall of the Kaiser is but a casual fate which overtakes the transgressor, but no punishment for him has yet been devised. It has been understood that so far as punishment is concerned he and his people must be one, and he and they have to suffer the penalty. No nation or ruler, ancient or modern, has escaped or been allowed to escape just punishment for offences committed against humanity. The great Napoleon, the man of destiny, was exiled to the island of Elba, following the battle of Leipzig. Wilhelm of Germany has not been exiled, but allowed to wander at will. Napoleon escaped from Elba, returned to France, gathered thousands of his former soldiers, who deserted the reigning powers en masse, entered Paris, overthrew the Bourbon monarchy, re-declared himself Emperor and started on the whirlwind campaign which ended at Waterloo. Wilhelm the bloodstained, according to the foreign despatches, is on the eve of going back to Germany, if he has not already done so. May he not, if this is permitted, act as did Napoleon in 1815, and by rallying around him, the myriads of Germans and Frusians, who to-day are proclaiming to the world, openly and unashamedly their everlasting hatred of England, once more make a bid for the power of which he has been divested? We are credibly informed that he still regards himself as Emperor of Germany and King of Prussia, and there are no inconsiderable few in Germany who would make a throw for a reclamation of the fortune which has deserted their reigning house. In the published despatches to-day, the Kaiser is proclaimed to be the emperor, comes the desire for revenge, which is being implanted already in the hearts of young children. Germany neither forgives nor forgets. The Germans have been beaten by England, and they will live and die to smother England, which country has never had a more deadly enemy than the new Germany. All parties, high and low, believe that they can play-off President Wilson and the United States against England. This report may be ultra sensational, but there is no doubt that a strong undercurrent of fact runs through it. The Germans blame England (The Empire) for their defeat, because they knew that the moment the Empire entered the war, there was no hope of success for either their army or navy. Hence their Hymns of Hate and their invocations to Heaven to curse the British. Patently there is no change in their minds, and they are bent upon the restoration of the hereditary rulers, in view of the peace settlement, Germany now and during the peace settlements will have to be carefully watched. History has the trick of repeating itself.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.
MORE COMPLICATIONS.
PARIS, Nov. 25. Notwithstanding the numerous desertions from the Austrian army and the organizations of Grenadier regiments, the Emperor does not commit any abuse of duty, such as would render hospitality detrimental to the interests of the Netherlands Government does not believe that foreign governments, whose subjects so often have had the benefit of Dutch refuge, will refuse to respect national tradition, or to remember instances when they themselves stood unflinchingly by the monarchs. In addition, the note says that the former Emperor has not in a single instance left the park of the Amerongen Castle where he is interned.

SPEECH FROM THRONE.
BRUSSELS, Nov. 25. Friday—King Albert having been received enthusiastically by the inhabitants of his redeemed capital, today made an important speech from the Throne in Parliament, his first utterance in the capital since the beginning of the war. Near the throne stood General Plumer, representing the British Army, General Pershing of the American army and other distinguished military and naval officers with members, and in the galleries were the diplomatic corps.

WHY SHOULD THEY?
BERNE, Nov. 25. Articles appearing in the German papers says the Erberger announcement relating to obtaining concessions in the terms of the armistice, are not at all in accord with the facts, but they are rather the opposite of the facts, in spite of the inconventient which are already apparent. In the acceptance of the severe conditions of the armistice, which has been imposed upon us, our adversaries have not shown the slightest consideration.

FOR MONARCHIAL RE-UNION.
BASEL, Nov. 25. The Bosnian National Government has addressed a note to Crown Prince Alexander Karađorđević, which has been forwarded to the Serbian king, under the sovereignty of the Karađorđević dynasty, which the Crown Prince is the ruling head.

THE DAY OF GLORY.
STRASBURG, Nov. 25. General Goudot entered the city to-day at the head of the Fourth French Army, amid the tremendous enthusiasm of the French people. Never did an army have such a triumphal greeting. "Such a spectacle repays all our sufferings," said the Echo de Paris, in a proclamation to the city beginning with the words of the Marseillaise, "The day of glory has dawned upon us." The day of glory was celebrated by the Crown Prince in the ruling head.

NO NONSENSE.
PARIS, Nov. 25. The mixed conference of the Allies and Germans, continue at Spa, the German headquarters. Discussions are often quite lively, according to the Echo de Paris, but the Allies imperatively put a stop to reminiscences, intended to reopen negotiations on the actual signing of the armistice.

REVOLUTION SPREADING.
ZURICH, Nov. 25. The counter-revolutionary movement in Austria is progressing to such an extent, that the National Council has discarded the streets, warning the public against it. It is said that the monarchists are resorting to all kinds of methods to excite distrust of the Council, and trying to frighten the people by the prospect of Allied occupation, according to a Vienna despatch to the Frankfort Gazette.

ACTS OF CRUELTY.
PARIS, Nov. 25. On the eve of the signing of the armistice, the Germans committed their usual acts of cruelty and pillage in the Mesieres-Charleville region, according to an interview with the French under-Secretary of State for the Interior, in the Temps. The former German Emperor and the former Crown Prince had their headquarters in the region of Mesieres for more than three years, and the district was intact until the morning of November 18. On that morning the Germans removed the inhabitants and carried out a systematic robbing.

The Labrador Boundary.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I have just read Mr. Morine's letter in to-day's Daily News. His communication is important and deserves every consideration. Not is the time for us to look to the future. Around the table in London will soon be sitting representatives of every Dominion of the Empire, and questions affecting each Dominion will be taken up and settled. Now there is one question mentioned by Mr. Morine which is most important and it is of colossal interest to every Newfoundland. I refer to the Labrador Boundary Question. This question affects us vitally and yet successive governments shelve it as often as it arises. Minerals are hidden under the earth and cannot be seen until exhaustive and expensive search has been made. The Labrador boundary is a perfect example of this. We know now of what value Labrador is to us. Timber will be in constant demand for building in Europe. England and Scotland have been denied of a great deal of timber during the past three years and people who are not in the habit of Russia under present conditions. Labrador has the timber and is as near to Great Britain and France as the Baltic Provinces and I have no hesitation in asserting that by proper management enough revenue can be secured from Labrador timber to pay off nearly the whole of our national debt in time. At all events the taxation on great men, women and children, Newfoundland could be cut in half and Labrador timber would pay for it. Quebec claims Labrador and will not give up her claim without a struggle because she knows the tremendous value of the country. What are we doing about it? As Mr. Morine says "Now is the time to move" to secure for ourselves the wealth of Labrador either by the purchase of the territory or by the purchase of the territory. It would be criminal to miss the opportunity and the statesmen who let Labrador slip through their fingers should be hanged on Signal Hill.

NOT UNCRECOW.
MADRID, Nov. 23. The German and Austrian Ambassadors here have ceased to represent their respective countries, according to the newspapers.

MORE ARMENIAN OUTRAGES.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 18. (By the A.P.)—Attacks on the Armenians have increased in the district of Erzebidjan, on the border of the Caucasus, by Turkish troops, under the leadership of Nour Pasha, brother of Saver Pasha, former Minister of War. Nour Pasha declares that he is outside the authority of the present Constantinople Government, and that he has been delegated by the Moslems of the district to suppress the revolt of the Armenians. His attacks continue British warships will be sent to Batum.

OUR DEMOCRATIC ROYALTY.
LONDON, Nov. 23. (British Wireless Service.)—There were scenes of wild enthusiasm in Hyde Park today during the King's review of the "Silver Badge" men. Those men have served in the forces and since have been discharged on account of wounds or other physical disabilities. Afterwards King George, with the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, General Sir William Robertson, Commander of the Forces in Great Britain, and the Staff Officers rode past the line of men forming three sides of a square. When the King reached the third section, the men suddenly broke ranks and crowded about his hands. Others surrounded the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught, and shook their hands. In the meantime another crowd of discharged soldiers gathered around the carriage, in which were the Queen Mother, Alexandra and the Princess Victoria. The men climbed on to the footboards and the King, who was in the front of the carriage, so that the men might pull themselves up by the hands. The King then rode to the saluting base, and the men marched by.

GERMAN BRUTALITY.
PARIS, Nov. 24. (Havas.)—Released Allied military prisoners continually arriving at the station and all give evidence of having suffered greatly from lack of food, while in German hands. Among the military prisoners are French, British, American, Belgian and Italian soldiers. There are also English and Canadian soldiers, who appear to have undergone more hardships than the soldiers. The British soldiers, it appears, were subjected to more "treatment" than the others, and they aroused the compassion of some of the more fortunate military prisoners, who gave them their clothes with the British who were in rags.

A SECESSIONIST.
LONDON, Nov. 24. William Bruce, Minister of Home Affairs, and Labor Member of the House of Commons, speaking at Drumilly, Ireland, today announced that he would accept office under a new coalition government.

FOR MONARCHIAL RE-UNION.
BASEL, Nov. 25. The Bosnian National Government has addressed a note to Crown Prince Alexander Karađorđević, which has been forwarded to the Serbian king, under the sovereignty of the Karađorđević dynasty, which the Crown Prince is the ruling head.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I have just received the following cable from London, showing that our 1st Battalion has been accorded a high place of honour in the triumphant entry of the King of the Belgians into his capital city, "Brussels," on November 22nd.
"The Times" of November 23rd states that a composite British Battalion, composed of equally English, Scottish and Newfoundland troops, accompanied His Majesty the King of the Belgians into Brussels, November 22nd. The Battalion was led by General Plumer, Second Army, General Jacone, Second Corps. The "Times" comments on the Newfoundlanders well earned place of honour by the sacrifices they have made. The British Battalion together with French, Americans and Belgians made a brilliant group around the King at the reviewing stand. Mail comments on reception as overwhelming.
I would thank you to publish this gratifying news in your valuable paper.
Yours faithfully

Mr. Cook at once got in touch with the authorities and with the consent of the Commander of the Briton, patrol boat P.V. 1, was ordered to proceed to Cape Race, getting away from port at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The patrol boat came to the assistance of the vessel, but without accomplishing anything, having seen nothing of the vessel's whereabouts. However, not satisfied, the patrol boat returned to the search. (Capt. Wes. Keen, owner of the vessel went in the patrol boat on both occasions.) The vessel was towed to port at 7 o'clock this morning with the "Little Stephano" in tow. The latter was put on the quarantine grounds and Dr. Gemmill upon visiting the ship pronounced smallpox aboard. One of the crew had already succumbed to the disease, while another was reported ill, and had to be removed to the fever hospital immediately. The sick man was brought ashore by the patrol boat, and the large attendance of the crew are also slightly ill. The "Little Stephano" was 30 days out from Oporto and brought a cargo of salt.
