Paint and Paint Mixing.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—On the high interest founded in reading Canon Lockyer's articles on Trinity, I had long ago promised to write him of my own experience with paint mixed with sea-water and other things of a like nature. Now I have decided to write the Telegram instead.

Canon Lockyer is quite right about the mixability of paint with sea-water. I have been doing this occasionally for the past twenty years and making comparisons with other mixtures from time to time. I find that paint so mixed has very little, if any, advantage with regard to durability over other paints. If there is any difference it is to be found in the paint applied since the war. This might be easily explained by the fact that we have drifted past the days of genuine linseed-oil into the period of make shift where anything is sold as such that gives off even a counterfeit odor of the genuine article.

With regard however, to the weather-resisting qualities of any paint, there are different things to consider. First of all, it can be taken as certain that a house painted after a wet spell will become shabby looking much earlier than if it were painted after a fine spell of sunshine because it absorbs much easier and therefore retains the ingredients of the paint much longer. At the same time sea water mixed with oil from the livers of dog-fish. This also thickens very much after mixing and the further use of this oil for the purpose of thinning increases its preserving qualities. If dog-fish oil is drawn as it comes from the liver it is practically odorless and white, and will dry readily if a small tea-cupful of beef

Men Like Happy Women

Which is the best ingredient a woman can provide towards the making of a happy marriage?

"Clever housekeeping," one woman remarked. Another joined in the discussion with the opinion that common sense was the most necessary ingredient. "A sweet temper," "an understanding of men," "femininity," were suggested.

Then one man present gave his verdict.

"What men like best in women is happiness," he said.

There is a profound truth behind these words, casually uttered at a tea-table discussion.

Unhappiness in marriage rarely comes to a happy woman. The high spirits, the merry smile, the alert contentment of the happy woman are far removed from the superficial vivacity of the sparkling woman with no inner reserves of strength.

To be happy is to have a certain self-reliance, and it is the quality of independent happiness, which men delight to have in their wives; that makes, beyond all other things, for happiness in marriage.

It is the woman who knows how to be happy without a husband who is going to be the most happy with a husband. It is the woman who knows how to be irritable, full of grievances and exacting demands, without a husband who is going to be exactly the same woman after marriage as she was before.

Men dislike scenes. They are frightened by hysteria. It is an immense relief to any man to know that in his wife he has a happy-hearted woman who will not become sunk in melancholy if his business takes him away for several weeks, who will not tell him that her evening has not been spoiled because he comes home late from his work.

Beauty, intellect, personality, youth itself are nothing beside this rare and beautiful gift of simply being happy.

The "interesting" woman, with her moods, her emotional demands, her insistence that she must be all in all to the man she loves, often brings disaster to marriage. But the happy woman gives of her own happiness, it is infectious.

PETERING-OUT.

Here is a home-made remedy which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and the usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat ticks, bronchial asthma or winter cough.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a 10-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use distilled molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept any other else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.
