their proceedings, applied to be released from his oath.

The other members of the association, fearing that he might betray them, pretended to agree to his demand, but required him before leaving their ranks to carry out a deed which would probably compromise him and thus prevent him from denouncing them. Thereupon, on the pretext of executing this deed two members of the association, students at the Military Academy of Medicine, accompanied him to the Plussa station, and thence to a neighboring wood, where they killed him, and subsequently out off his head and disfigured the features, at the same time stripping the bedy naked.

Provisions of the Bill of Injunction Which Comes Up for Argument on Wednesday—Trouble About a Painting.

CHICAGO, May 27.—The expected bill for an injunction to provent Sunday opening of the World's Fair was filed yesterday on behalf of the National Government by United States District Attorney Michrist in the Federal Circuit Court. The district attorney does not ask for a temporary injunction, and consequently the case will not be argued until Chief Justice Fuller arrives. It is understood the matter will come up for hearing on Wednesday at 10 a.m.

come up for hearing on Wednesday at 10 a.m.

The injunction bill.

The bill says the Chicago World's Fair Corporation at the dedication, Oct. 12, 1892, delivered the site and buildings into possession and contral of the National Commission for the United States. It was provided in the act of Au_k, 5, 1892, that all appropriations made in that act to the exposition were made upon the condition that the exposition should not be open to the public on the first day of the week commonly called Sunday, and that if the appropriations should be accepted by the exposition, it was made the duty of the National Commission to make such rules or modifications of the rules of the local corporation as would secure the closing of the exposition on Sunday. The bill adds that a Sunday rule made by the directory in October was modified by the commission and provided explicitly for the "closing of the exposition and the gates thereof" on Sundays. This rule, it is claimed in the bill, is still in force, and neither the commission nor the director together or severally have power to abrogate it. The bill says the contemplated opening of the gates "will be a great injury and a grievous prejudice to the common public good and to the welfare of the poeple of the United States."

One hundred and twenty-five thousand people came to the World's Fair grounds to day and drank in inspiring music and ieasted their eyes upon the artistic and natural beauties of the White City. It was the first open Sunday and it was a auccess. The Sabbath sun was but two hours old when the people began to come, but the masses did not begin to arrive until the afternoon. Beginning at 2 o'clock the multitude flocked into the grounds at every gate, and by 4 o'clock 60,000 people were inside the incloure.

TROPELE ABOUT A PICTURE.

Halsey C. Ives, the head of the art department, has roused the wrath of the gentlemen in charge of the French art exhibition at the fair and of A. A. Anderson, an artist New York, in particular. On the wall of one of the rooms containing the French pictures is one painted by Mr. Anderson. Its title is "A Woman Taken in Adultery." The picture is said to have taken medals at the Paris Salon in 1889 and in Berlin two years later. When Mr. Anderson offered it for exhibition in the United States arts department it was refused, the reason being given that it was immoral. The gentleman in charge of the German, Austrian and French exhibits at once offered Mr. Anderson space for his picture, and he accepted the offer of France. To-day Mr. Ives caused a crimson piece of cloth to be stretched before the picture, claiming that it was too immoral for exhibition. The French strongly objected, claiming that Mr. Ives has no more to do with the pictures in the has with those now on exhibition in the galleries of Paris and they threaten to take the matter into the courts and have Mr. Ives and his crimson cloth enjoined.

The report stated that the road in general was in a good state of repair, and the condition of the lands was all that could be desired. There were only six defective rails in the whole road; $1,700 would put the fences in good shape. The ties were in fair condition, but $3,800 should be expended in the purchase of new ones, $3,150 for spare rails and $150 on road crossings. The masonry and timber culverts, in many cases, renew ones, $3,150 for spare rails and $100 on road crossings. The masonry and timber oulverts, in many cases, required attention. Farm crossings are in good order. The street piling between St. Thomas and Kettle Creek should be strengthened. The bridges over the Thames and Kettle Creek were in good condition. Iron bridges should supplant the timber trestle structures, although the latter would be good for a few years. To put the freight shed, etation and truntable in as good condition as when the Great Western Railroad took the road would require $5,700. The turntable as Port Stanley should be everhanied at ones. The telegraph system should be renewed and strung on new poles.

Poet McIntyre Protests. To the Editor of the ADVENTISES:

I notice that Ald. Frankland has denounced as a piece of folly the manufacture of the manumoth cheese for Chicago Fair, as the money would have been better spent as the money would have been determined the peop, and avoiding this othe mammoth cheese for Chicago Fair, as the money would have been better spent in sasisting the poor, and avoiding this Barnum system of advertising the country. But according to Prof. Robertson's report the big cheese has been sold to a great English dealer, who will exhibit it at his own expense in Britain and Ireland after the Chicago Fair is over, and that the amount to be realized will repay this Province for the expense incurred. We have always contended that nothing can prove the great fertility of a country so well as a great cheese. Small samples of finest grain and roots and fruits might be raised on favored spots in barren districts.

But in conditions such as these You cannot make a mammoth cheese, Weighs o'er twenty thousand bounds. But where large fertile farms abound.

I am afraid I am somewhat to blame about this cheese. I have been sligging of mammeth cheese for over a quarter of a century, and I wrote a poem predicting the present mightlest of all cheese three years ago. I will give a few extracts:

Who hatb prophetic visions acca. In rature times a tenton cheese. More honer far than making gun Of mighty size and many it on. And we despair.

More bono' la' tan anany's top,
And we do not espair
Fint we will select at the World's Fair,
And will be people all agog so.
Excelet fresh conquests, queen of cheese,
Excelet fresh conquests, queen of cheese,
Where she will meet reception grand
From the warm hearts in old England. From the warm hearts in old England.

I regret deeply that Ald. Frankland thinks of bidding Canada adieu, as I consider him one of her noblest sons, and I bave endeavored to honor him in my book

Baron of butchers, burly, brave, Who shipped live bullocks o'er the wave, Baron of butchers, burly, braze,
Who shipped live bullocks o'er he wave,
And elevated the cheese standard,
May he still lead on the vanguard.
