BIOGRAPHY OF THE CHRISTMAS TREE

Until sixty years or so ago, there were very, very few Christmas trees in America outside of the homes of Holland-Americans. The Pennsylvania Dutch cherished the custom long before it was adopted in New England and Canada.

The Dutch got the idea of the Christmas tree from Germany, where the lonely fir first became an emblem of Christianity, and spread the custom in England and America.

The tradition of the first Christmas tree is a pretty story, handed down from the eighth century.

It was a bleak, cold, December night when St. Boniface, wandering through the wilds of what is now Germany, came upon a band of pagans who were in the act of sacrificing a boy by fire at the foot of the "thunder oak," sacred to Thor.

Breaking through a thicket, St. Boniface confronted the astonished pagans and liberated the captive. With strong blows, he chopped down the oak, and confronting the pagans, he told them of the new religion—Christianity—and made them his converts.

"And here," he said, his eyes falling on a young fir tree standing straight and green, with its top pointing toward the stars, amid the divided ruins of the fallen oak, "here is the living tree, with no stain of blood upon it, that shall be a sign of your new worship. See how it points to the sky! Let us call it the tree of the Christ-child. Take it up and carry it to the chief's hall, for this is the bright light of the White Christ. You shall go no more into the shadows of the forest to keep your feasts with secret rites of shame. You shall keep them at home with laughter and song and rites of love."

Curious substitutes have been made in all countries for the Christmas tree. One of these, in the Berlin provincial museum, is a framework of wood from which the presents were suspended. A still more primitive substitute consisted of a wooden stump with projecting pegs, from which, presumably, presents were hung.

HIS OLD-TIME CHRISTMAS WAY
When my hat you see me lift,
When it's Christmas Day, You know
That means my Christmas Gift
An' I ain't go time ter stay!

It's des my Chris'mas way,—
It's all de word I say;
My hat I lift
Fer my Chris'mas Gift—
It's des my Chris'mas way!

My white folks knows me fur an' nigh—
De young an' ol' an' gray;
Dev never pass de ol' man by,
Fer day knows his Chris'mas way.

It's des my Chris'mas way,—
De'n nuthin' mo' ter say,
My hat I lift
Fer my Chris'mas Gift—
It's des my Chris'mas way!

The New Mother Comes
I had a little husband,
No bigger than my thumb,
I took him out up'n a tree,
And there I made him grow,
I named upon his foot a nail,
And taught him to say "mama" to me,
Our propensities taught.
