THE FIRST OF JUYENILE PERIODICALS

GOOD THINGS

FOR THE YOUNG OF ALL AGES. EDITED BY GEORGE MACDONALD,

 This Magaziae has hitherto been issued under the office of "GOOD WORDS FOR THE YOUNG." To mark the important changes and improvements which have been introduced, it has been thought well to ait; the name to the simpler and pithler one given above. Good Things will address itself to the young of all ages, from the little beginner, who can just read a picture, to the big boys and girls who study at the desk or shout in the playground; and so onwards up to the eterans who, after all their learning, turn to the children for a fresher wisdom, and after all their work, sit in the shady conner wisdom, and after all their work, sit in the shady conner and play the old games over again in their heads. "GOOD THINGS" hopes, as a periodical, to have its margins well thumbed and dog-cred, and when the binder has rimmed show and made it it for the library, the solume all try for a heel place there in good company. The avors of a multitude of assorted "goodies" cannot be ut into a prospectus; but the

THE ALDNE, while issued with all the regularity has none of the temperary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an olegant characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an olegant characteristic place of the start of pictures, the rarest specimen of artistic skill, in black and white. Athough each subceeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real vatu and beauty of THE ADLINE will be most appreciated after it has been bound at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and and original conception—about and unspreached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of nine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there are the chromos, besides i
