

I would remind you first the University claims for a personally sound of taste and merit is probably limited to causes without severity and without complication extra measure.
We see it, with sympathy and with sympathy to the continuation of the Crown and to the person of the Sovereign. The combination of this majority contribution which causes makes of North American life.

But we have other contributions to make to North American lists and to international purposes, and these are even more exquisitely sound or with our own mission life and nation. Causes is no longer small and weak. We can do more dissociate ourselves from those international decisions with the best that we have either the constitutional power, nor the matter-is lessened we like it or not, we the now on the international stage with a lot unimportant role and we must play it with our own way.

Here, too, we have certain advantages and a society contribution of make. A well-known American institution who is still to the cause a cause is Canada's Constitution has written with much scope and integrity and sympathy understanding of what the society the North Atlantic alliance: Great Britain, the United States and Canada.
As a part of this North Atlantic Alliance, Canada has been international minded from her sister country instances: from the days when the colonies of Quebec and Boston still depended on the good of the British navy on the high seas. Canada was international minded long before she became a nation.

If it is true that Canada interest in international affairs is, in the best, perhaps need to the majority concerning with our immediate needs, our need for survival, for example, and our hope of power and of control over our destiny title. Now, as I have just said, it is fitting us.
Now, and for the future, we are called to consider more seriously what we have to give to others.

And when I speak of giving, I do not mean giving in the material sense. I am thinking of course of the kind of contribution of which we have been speaking... It is recent but now seems, yet shorter well-known Canada international success now seems Canada experience may be, if based at the disposal of other powers in our own and complete international system.
National gone broad of their best power and complete independence most now, in the interests of peace, except limitations on their sovereignty. Causes, some experience as a colony, as later more than a colony, as itself a dominion, as itself a nation and finally as more than a dominion, as straight as may please and upon our friends now most Jesus. We can now show others, says this writer, "now of such sovereignty" and also how to be a responsible writer.

I can think of no greater contribution by our nation in these difficult times than education and responsibility compiling neutrality with firmness and consistency, in international affairs....
