

JAMES DURLING (p. 149): Pifer in Capt. Vancleve Moore's Company, New Jersey Militia.—Pension Office.

JOHN DORLAND (p. 245): Private, Capt. William Steele's Co., 5th Battal., 1st Brigade, Pennsylvania Militia, commanded by Maj. William McFarland, Sept. 1, 1814—Mar. 5, 1815; enlisted from Chester Co.; at Camp Springfield, near Baltimore, Md., Oct. 11, 1814; previously and subsequently at York, Pa. Spelled Darling.—Futhey and Cope's "History of Chester Co.," 129.

MOSES DURLAND (p. 59): Sergeant, Capt. John D. Wood's Rifle Co., Col. Varian's New York Inf. Regt., Brig.-Gen. Haight's Brigade; enlisted Aug. 18, 1814, in Greenville, Orange Co., N. Y.; discharged at Brooklyn, Nov. 18, 1814; stationed at Fort Green, Brooklyn Heights.—Pension Office.

SAMUEL DORLAND (p. 243): Private, Capt. Robert Wilson's Co., 5th Battal., 2d Brigade, Pennsylvania Militia, commanded by Maj. William McFarland, beginning Sept. 8, 1814; enlisted from Chester Co.; at Camp Springfield, near Baltimore, Md., Oct. 11, 1814; previously and subsequently at York, Pa. Spelled Darland, Darling.—Pa. Arch., 2d ser., xii, 522; Futhey and Cope's "History of Chester Co.," 128.

SMITH DURLAND (p. 173): Private, Capt. Skidmore's Co., New York Militia, Sept. 2—Dec. 3, 1814; enlisted at Jamaica; discharged at Fort Green, Brooklyn Heights.—Pension Office.

THOMAS DORLON (p. 81): Private, Capt. Samuel Mott's Co., 2d (Bedell's) Regt., New York Militia.—War Dept.

THOMAS DURLAND (p. 172): Private, Capt. Leonard's Co., U. S. Light Art., June 4, 1812—June 13, 1815; enlisted in Queens Co., N. Y.; incurred injury to back and loins at Fort George, Upper Canada, opposite Fort Niagara, July 16, 1813.—Pension Office.

WILLIAM DORLON (p. 77): Private, Capt. Richard Carman's Co., 100th Regt. New York Militia, 22d Brigade, 1st Division; enlisted Sept. 2, 1814, at Hempstead; discharged at Fort Green, Brooklyn Heights, Dec. 1, 1814; served at Fort Green, under Capt. Samuel Mott, Col. Daniel Bedell, and Gen. Jeremiah Johnson.—Pension Office.

to return to encampment. They (the Americans) all appeared in high spirits and anxious to get over—victory appeared to them in view."

This attempt to invade Canada was a flat failure through the incompetency of Gen. Alexander Smyth, commanding, who was dismissed the service in disgrace. The troops seem to have been spoiling for action, but Smyth delayed from day to day, and contented himself with issuing extravagant proclamations, until the Canadians, under command of Lieut.-Col. Bishopp, were enabled to prepare for the contemplated attack. See Lossing's "Empire State," 402-3.