

This commandment received I from My Father."

If we consider His doctrine of Salvation we find the keystone of it all in the great word of assuring promise, "My Father which gave them Me is greater than all; and no one is able to snatch them out of the Father's hand."

When we think of Heaven it is in terms of the same great word which He gave when He said, "In My Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you."

In unveiling to men the essential and universal Fatherhood of God, Jesus gave the world its most comprehensive and redemptive revelation of the deity. It was the golden key with which He unlocked the heart of mankind for the incoming of God. He drew it from His girdle that day in the Temple when He was but twelve years old, and still, as the warden of souls, He is using it to open prison doors and give release to men made captive by sin. There is no other key that fits the human heart like this.

The doctrine of God's Fatherhood as Christ proclaimed it was distinctly new to the thought of men. Judaism had
