HOLDEN'S STORY TOLD

And a Very Interesting Recital it Proved to be.

FARE'S STATEMENTS WELL BACKED UP

It Was the Crown's Day in the Bank Case at Napanee.

Holden Proved a Thoroughly Interesting Witness, and the Situations Were at Times Dramatic, Even Pathetic—If These Two Acknowledged Criminals Can Be Believed, Ponton Has Not a Bright Outlook.

Napanee, Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Over the Crown's side of the case hung to-day the sign, "This is our busy day." As predicted in to-day's World, Holden took the stand in the afternoon. He told a sensational story. Fares used up most of the morning. Holden, examined by the Crown, went along smoothly, but when Mr. Porter took charge of him he was refractory and positively abusive.

Holden, by his own confession, would have lived an honest life, but he was hounded from pillar to post by free-lance minions of the law. He is a first-class mechanic and engineer of ability, a plumber, a gasfitter, a competent electrician, and got good money wherever he worked, yet no matter how good a position he obtained, and no matter what satisfaction he was giving, there was always the man in the grass to whisper into his employer's ear, "He is an old fall-guy."

This was the old story of "a dog with a bad name." He declared, with great vehemence and more than a show of desperation, "I was out of work for two weeks. If I remained without work another week I knew I would have to go to jail as a vagrant. There was a chance to go to Napanee and break the bank. I had to choose the job or jail. I took the job."

A strong personality has Holden—a jaw of iron, a lionlike cast of countenance, an eye that can look murder and flash arrows of hate; a clear head, a steady wit, and a temper born of regions infernal. Holden is a lion; Fares is a cat.

The Crown feels sure of its case, and, viewed in certain ways, it does look overwhelmingly strong.

The defence place much stress upon certain discrepancies that appeared to-day. Fares said it was 5 p.m. when Ponton was given his money in Belleville. Holden says it was 9.30 a.m., and he had his watch with him. In his preliminary examination Fares said he was in the bank only three times—on Aug. 5, 15, 27. This morning he said he was in the bank five days before his arrest on Aug. 22. Fares swore he was never during the summer beyond Belleville or Kingston. Holden swore this afternoon that Fares and he spent from July 30 to Aug. 2 in Montreal. "The interest to-day was at white heat. The audience fairly hung on the words of Holden, and, when it was suggested at 6.05 that it was time to adjourn, Judge Ferguson said: "Is that so? I was so interested in the case that I barely noted how time went by."

There will be another anxious week spent.

HOLDEN'S STORY.

The Admitted Burglar Tells His Tale and Backs Up Fares in Good Shape.

Sharp at 9 o'clock Mr. Porter recommenced his cross-examination of Fares. The court room is very draughty, three jurors sit with fur coats on. Everyone shivers, yet the room is always crowded.

"Did you carry a gun?"

"Yes, I carried it to protect myself. I was prepared in case of surprise to fight my way out. Holden had one, too. I carried my gun only the three times I went into the bank."

The witness admitted that he turned his head away from the woman he met on Ponton's stairway.

"Do you not like to look at a lady?" asked the judge.

"Oh, I ain't ticklish about that," said Fares, in a sheepish way, while all the court broadly smiled.

The witness stuck to his story about a compound engine. He saw it passing by and it was daylight.

Mr. Porter's endeavor all through his cross-examination was to get Fares to tell a different story from the one he told at the preliminary examination three months ago. In a great measure he was successful.

The subject of the bundle of $50 bills was gone into. When Fares got the bundle on the night of the robbery he thought they were fifty. He wanted to-day to hedge on this point.

The return of Fares to Napanee, when Ponton's first trial was concluded, was gone into. He was on his way to Detroit.

The Alleged Conspiracy.

Questions concerning the alleged conspiracy mentioned by Fares in his letter to Mr. Porter were asked. Witness said he saw Detective Wilkes' name in La Presse, but not Detective Dougherty's. He did not know how he got Detective Dougherty's name. The names of Eddie Mackay and Jimmy Jones, the two crooks who came to Canada with Fares from Detroit, were conjured with.

"Were they two crooks? Didn't you say so before?"

"I said that to satisfy you," retorted the witness.

Eddie Mackay Got Some.

The witness acknowledged that Eddie Mackay got some of the money taken from the bank, and that he went with him to Manchester; that he saw in Montreal all the time Fares was in Napanee. The witness said that 31 unsigned bills were found in his trunk at Manchester. They were found by David Thornhill.

The witness admitted that the detectives in Manchester tried to "sweat" him after his arrest. His statement was made before the Pinkerton men and the counsel for the Dominion Bank, Mr. Davidson of Montreal.

"Have you any regrets for having confessed?"

"I don't feel any pleasure in it," said the witness.

The court thought it was needless to ask more questions, and Mr. Porter declared the pleasure had not yet come.

The witness claimed that he saw from Centre-street the night watchman looking into the bank. The defence claim that this is impossible, owing to obstructing sheds.

The witness was asked why he had

THE TREATMENT OF "HOSTILES."

Mr. Sifton: "Trouble with your Indians? Why, my dear Samuel, here is Big Chief Van, who used to be quite hostile to us, and we've placated him by simply giving him everything he asks."

MAY END IN MURDER.

Frederick Taggart, a Worthless Character, Makes a Brutal Attack on His Wife.

Actuated by a desire to get even with his wife for obtaining an order of protection against him, Frederick Taggart made a brutal attack on Mrs. Taggart in the yard at the rear of Thomas Foster's residence at 45 Seaton-street early yesterday morning.

At ten minutes to 6 o'clock Taggart opened the door at Wilton-avenue Police Station and told P. G. Jenkinson, the station duty constable, that he had killed his wife with a hammer. The constable at first did not believe the story, but, on seeing blood splattered on his hands, decided to hold him pending investigation. Patrol-Sergeant Archer and P. G. Allen were sent to 45 Seaton-street. They could not find Mrs. Taggart, but one of the children told the officers that they would likely find her in the rear of 45 Seaton-street. They went to the address and found Mrs. Taggart lying in a pool of blood. Her forehead was battered in and her face and clothing were covered with blood. She was unconscious. Beside her lay the hammer, smeared with blood.

Dr. Greig of St. George's-hospital was hastily called and he ordered her removal to the General Hospital.

Taggart has given his family much trouble. He exhausted all his wife's patience, and on Aug. 1 last he obtained an order of separation. Since that time Taggart has shown intense hatred towards her. Since the separation Mrs. Taggart has been carrying a sword for herself and three small children by day and night. She was in the act of supplying the Foster home when she was struck down by her husband. The prisoner is 37 years of age and his wife is some years younger. He has been working off and on recently for Brown's, stable, George-street. Taggart was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning on a charge of wounding. He would make no statement and was verbally remanded to await the result of the injuries.

Mrs. Taggart's wonderful vitality is a surprise to the physicians in attendance, but she is gradually weakening, and was very low last at an early hour this morning.

When Taggart appeared in court yesterday a second-hand dealer recognized him as being a man who had offered a set of harness for sale on Thanksgiving Day. Detectives Cuddy and Black investigated the matter and found that a set of harness had been stolen from Brown's livery stable, where Taggart was employed. The harness was found later in a second-hand dealer's store and it was taken to Police Headquarters. It is thought that Taggart used some of the money he received from the sale to buy the harness.

LAVIGNE GOT DECISION.

Even Fight to the Tenth, After Which Tracy Was Outpointed—Fought the "Limit."

San Francisco, Nov. 25.—Time was called in the Lavigne-Tracy fight at 9.21. The men idled for some time, Lavigne forcing Tracy about the ring. Lavigne led and reached the neck with left. He tried several hard lefts for the face, all of which were blocked. Tracy countered with a couple of good body punches and a left jab, which left its mark on Lavigne's eye.

At the end of the 20th round the decision was given to Lavigne.

Spain Must Give a Definite Answer by That Time.

COUNTER PROPOSALS FOR SETTLEMENT

But There Is a Wide Difference in the Ideas of the Commissioners.

Russia Promises Not to Raise a Finger Against American Occupation of the Philippines—King Menelik of Abyssinia on the March with 100,000 Men—Cable News.

The latest phase of the peace negotiations at Paris is not of a character to encourage hope of a settlement of the troubles. Spain is talking about an offer to cede the Philippines for $100,000,000, or $50,000,000, provided Spain is allowed to hold the Island of Mindanao. The United States offers $20,000,000 cash for a settlement, which gives the whole Philippine archipelago to the United States. Whether the wide chasm will be bridged remains to be seen. It is said Spain, as a last resort, will offer an alternative in the way of a cession of the Caroline or Canary Islands, to be under American control, in addition to the Philippines, provided Spain is allowed to retain her nominal sovereignty over the Philippines. Meantime the United States proposal, which is practically an ultimatum, is to be answered by Monday, at the latest; therefore, Monday will be awaited with a good deal of interest.

RUSSIA WILL DO NOTHING

To Prevent the United States From Taking Possession of the Philippines.

Berlin, Nov. 25.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt says: A Russian diplomatist, in the course of an interview, has declared that Russia will not stir a finger to prevent the United States from occupying the Philippines, but he said he was unable to conceal his conviction that the injustice of America's attitude presaged the termination of the friendship which has hitherto existed between Russia and the United States.

FRANCE WILL FORTIFY NOUMEA.

Sydney, N. S. W., Nov. 25.—The French Government has decided to make Noumea, capital of the French colony of New Caledonia, its naval headquarters in the Pacific. A large dock and naval works will be constructed there.

The German and British warships have made a combined demonstration against Muluin in Samoa.

ITALY-ALARMED.

Emperor Menelik on the March With 100,000 Men and a Numerous Train of Artillery.

London, Nov. 25.—The Rome correspondent of The Daily Mail says: The Government is alarmed at the receipt of reports that Emperor Menelik of Abyssinia is advancing on Bora-Moda with 100,000 men, armed with rifles and a numerous train of artillery. It is believed that the objective of the Negus is the Bahrel-Ghazal basin, and he will attempt to force a definite boundary settlement.

A DISASTROUS PANIC.

Paris, Nov. 25.—There was a very narrow escape to-day from a repetition of the terrible disaster of the Charity bazaar here. While a religious ceremony was in progress in the vestry room of the church of St. Germain des Pres, where many girls from the schools were in attendance, the cinematograph lamps were suddenly extinguished and a fearful panic ensued, everybody instantly forgetting the Charity bazaar. The priests finally succeeded in allaying the panic, but not before forty girls were more or less seriously injured by trampling.

PIQUART CASE CAUSES COMMOTION.

Paris, Nov. 25.—The Piquart case seems in the way of raising even a greater storm than the Dreyfus affair. The papers favorable to the general staff are dumb in the face of the bare-faced decision of the Military Governor of Paris, General Zurlinden, to try Col. Piquart by court-martial, while those favoring the decision are furious at this new attempt to defeat justice, and protest against the court-martial being ordered.

Nobody believes that Piquart is guilty of any crime except a courageous desire to render justice to Dreyfus, but on all sides it is recognized that, in a practically secret trial, he may be condemned on some technicality, thus attaining the apparent object which is to throw doubt upon his depositions before the Court of Cassation in the Dreyfus trial.

THE MOHEGAN INQUIRY.

Captain Urged Crew to Look After Women and Children—Their Conduct Excellent.

London, Nov. 25.—The inquiry into the circumstances of the loss of the Atlantic transport line steamer Mohegan, which was adjourned on Nov. 12, was resumed yesterday. Quartermaster Juddery testified that he steered the Mohegan between the Isle of Wight and Portland, the course being west three-quarters north. He gave the same course to the man who relieved him at the wheel. It was impossible, he said, to light the oil lamps after the ship struck, as the lamproom was submerged. Quartermaster Juddery said he saw Captain Griffiths come out of the wheel house at house when the ship was off Eddystone Light and heard him say "All right."

The witness described the conduct of everyone after the accident as excellent. He heard the captain cheering the men and urging them to ease for the women and

THE ALLEGED CONSPIRACY.

Questions concerning the alleged conspiracy mentioned by Fares in his letter to Mr. Porter were asked. Witness said he saw Detective Wilkes' name in La Presse, but not Detective Dougherty's. He did not know how he got Detective Dougherty's name. The names of Eddie Mackay and Jimmy Jones, the two crooks who came to Canada with Fares from Detroit, were conjured with.

"Were they two crooks? Didn't you say so before?"

"I said that to satisfy you," retorted the witness.

Eddie Mackay Got Some.

The witness acknowledged that Eddie Mackay got some of the money taken from the bank, and that he went with him to Manchester; that he saw in Montreal all the time Fares was in Napanee. The witness said that 31 unsigned bills were found in his trunk at Manchester. They were found by David Thornhill.

The witness admitted that the detectives in Manchester tried to "sweat" him after his arrest. His statement was made before the Pinkerton men and the counsel for the Dominion Bank, Mr. Davidson of Montreal.

"Have you any regrets for having confessed?"

"I don't feel any pleasure in it," said the witness.

The court thought it was needless to ask more questions, and Mr. Porter declared the pleasure had not yet come.

The witness claimed that he saw from Centre-street the night watchman looking into the bank. The defence claim that this is impossible, owing to obstructing sheds.

The witness was asked why he had

THOUGHT THE BONDS WERE NOT IN THE BANK.

When there was an entry in the books. The witness could not offer any explanation, yet the judge thought it was a natural inference.

Legal Lights Confend.

Mr. Oster claimed Mr. Porter was reading only half an answer, and it was not fair. Mr. Oster read the whole question, and the judge maintained the witness must make in the grass to whisper into his employer's ear, "He is an old fall-guy."

This was the old story of "a dog with a bad name." He declared, with great vehemence and more than a show of desperation, "I was out of work for two weeks. If I remained without work another week I knew I would have to go to jail as a vagrant. There was a chance to go to Napanee and break the bank. I had to choose the job or jail. I took the job."

A strong personality has Holden—a jaw of iron, a lionlike cast of countenance, an eye that can look murder and flash arrows of hate; a clear head, a steady wit, and a temper born of regions infernal. Holden is a lion; Fares is a cat.

The Crown feels sure of its case, and, viewed in certain ways, it does look overwhelmingly strong.

AT THIS POINT FARES FORGOTTEN.

At this point Fares was forgotten, when Mr. Porter asked for the statement that was taken down by Mr. Herrington from the words of Prisoner Fares.

Mr. Oster objected. The Crown upheld the objection. Mr. Porter left the witness to Mr. Holman. The wire key for working the combination was exhibited and Fares was asked to produce it.

"What did the man who sold the wire look like?"

"He looked healthy," said the Frenchman.

Then followed a rapid fire of minute questions, leading to no particular end. Asked what time he left on a freight from Belleville for Napanee on Thursday before the robbery, the witness said, "Then freights ain't no time tables." Everybody laughed.

The witness was in a merry mood this morning.

"Why didn't you travel on passenger trains?" was asked.

"The freights was cheaper," the witness smiled and said.

It Was a Slip.

Fares said that he saw in the Winnipeg News an account of Ponton's acquittal. This was the first witness had heard of the acquittal. Then, in a moment, he checked himself and said, "I was here at the acquittal."

He did not remember sending out for any papers with reports of the acquittal. The witness admitted that in Napanee he had better than ordinary fare; it was provided for by his lawyer in Manchester.

"Including the fruit and flowers?" asked Mr. Holman.

"The what? I never heard of any fruit or flowers," returned the witness, completely mystified.

To Mr. Holman the witness said that there was a party of five who left Montreal when he came west to aid in the robbery.
