TELL OF NEEDS IN MISSION DIOCESES

Four Bishops Preach in Toronto Churches on Their Work.

By an arrangement of the missionary society of the Canadian Church, four bishops of the Anglican Church of the northwest have been visiting this city and addressing church meetings. The bishop of Kootenay, speaking in St. Alban's Sunday morning and St. Simon's Sunday evening, made a strong appeal for the work of the church in British Columbia. This province, he said, was face to face with two heavy problems. One was the lack of men due to the enormous number who had responded to the call of duty. This threw the work of the church in the north and churches on those who were left, the old and the women, and in many cases they were barely able to make ends meet. The other was the oriental problem, one which no easterner could possibly understand. As the white men left for the front their places had been taken by the Japanese, the Chinese, and now a few have been coming from the western province of Canada who were fleeing from the ravages of the war.

The bishop of Edmonton gave stirring addresses to large congregations on the need of volunteer missionary work in the northwest, and also upon the need of an Anglican residence at the center of an Anglican life for the young men of Alberta. The bishop addressed the congregation of All Saints' Church in the morning, and spoke at St. Clement's, Jones avenue, in the evening. Training of Men. In the course of his address Bishop Gray dwelt at length upon the character of his diocese work, upon the ruggedness of many of those who were answering the call of the church in the northlands, and the need of not only more men for great missionary work carried on among settlers distributed over hundreds of thousands of miles of the finest, fertile lands in the world, but also of Anglican residences in which to train the young men.

The Bishop of Keewatin preached at the service of the Epiphany yesterday morning, and at St. Barnabas' Church, corner of Hampton and Danforth, Sunday last evening. In both cases he spoke on his missions in the Hudson Bay district, and large congregations were present at both services. Of Special Interest. In an eloquent sermon, Bishop Rev. Dr. Robins, Bishop of Athabasca, told the congregation of Grace Church yesterday morning of his work in the Peace River district, and also of the great growth of that section of western Canada. He said when he first went to the Peace River district, and even up to six or seven years ago, he rode for miles without seeing a white man, but now he could travel in a light motor car over the trails and pass for miles between solid wheat fields. Speaking of his labors among the Indians, he said the outlook was bad at present, owing to the difficulty of getting in supplies of clothing. He made an appeal for six fur robes for the Indian children of Grace Church immediately gave an amount to equal the cost of the robes, and enough to purchase the other two was also assured.

In the evening the Bishop of Athabasca preached at St. Clement's Church, Eglington, taking as his text, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." His references to the school at Whitefish Lake, where of special interest to St. Clement's congregation, because a bale of supplies is regularly sent to that school by the Women's Auxiliary of that church. He said the securing of both clothing and food for the Indian school was a serious matter, due to these supplies coming in only once a year, and to the fact that the cost of food had increased.

The National Interest

IN their enthusiasm to serve Canada, a number of men in Class One—bachelors and widowers without children (not otherwise excepted) who were 20 years old on the 13th October, 1917, and whose 34th birthday did not occur before January 1st, 1917—will desire to report for service, when in fact it is in the national interest that such men should continue in their habitual occupations. The purpose of the Military Service Act is to select the authorized 100,000 reinforcements in such a way that the industries essential in the national interest be not handicapped unnecessarily. With this in view, the privilege is extended to employers to claim exemption for men referred to in the first paragraph.

This course obviates the possibility of requiring that men be returned to civilian employment after months of military training—a waste of time and money for all concerned. The grounds upon which exemption may be claimed, of special interest to employers, are:

- (A) That it is expedient in the national interest that the man should, instead of being employed in Military Service, be engaged in other work in which he is habitually engaged.
(B) That it is expedient in the national interest that the man should, instead of being employed in Military Service, be engaged in other work in which he has special qualifications, and for which he has special qualifications.
(C) That it is expedient in the national interest that, instead of being employed in Military Service, he should continue to be educated or trained for any work for which he is then being educated and trained.

The Employer's Statement

Where an employer claims exemption for an employee on the ground that it is expedient in the national interest that the man should continue in the work in which he is habitually engaged, he should prepare for the tribunal a statement and schedule as follows:

Total number of employees, grouping them according to their respective occupations and qualifications, and stating the number in each group. Indicate the possibility or otherwise of replacing the labour of Class One men with the labour of those not in the statutory class called up; also the extent to which the withdrawal of men in the statutory class would affect the business, the reasons for considering that the carrying on of the business is in the national interest; and such other facts and circumstances as may appear to be relevant.

The Employer's Schedule

This should state the names, ages and occupations of all Class One men employed, and the medical category in which those who have been medically examined have been placed. There should also be noted against each name whether or not claim for exemption is being made and whether in the employer's opinion exemption, if granted, should be conditional on the man's continuing his present occupation, or whether it would suffice if exemption were granted for one, two, or more months, as the case may be.

BOYS' WORK CONFERENCE.

Special Mass Meeting Heard Addresses On What is Being Done.

Yesterday was the last day of the boys' work conference which has been holding sessions since Friday evening in College Street Presbyterian Church. In the afternoon a mass meeting was held when over 300 delegates, together with the groups of older boys from different churches in the city, heard an excellent address by R. A. Waite, associate superintendent, secondary division, International Sunday School Association, on physical, mental, social and religious tests for Christianity in connection with the Canadian standard efficiency tests. The closing session and farewell ceremony took place in the evening, led by Taylor Statten. At the conference supper held Saturday evening an interesting program was rendered, when addresses were given by W. H. Vaughan, R. A. Waite, and W. R. Cooke, who spoke on "Soldiers of the Soil." Great success attended the conference, which was one of the best ever held. Both national and international leaders were present, and the whole proceedings were carried out in co-operation with the various denominations.
