EXPLOSION IN BRUSH FACTORY

Night Watchman O'Neil Had Just Built up Fire—An Explosive in Coal?

An explosion early this morning in the boiler house of the Canadian Brush Company's plant has resulted in the death of a night watchman and the destruction of the boiler house. The explosion occurred at the end of Duke street, where the factory is situated.

About five o'clock the night watchman James O'Neil of Gilbert's Lane, had gone into the boiler house to do his duty. After filling the fire bed with coal, he turned away and was just opening the door to go, when a blast started by a loud explosion from the boiler. Fortunately for him he was near the door and very little steam was on.

The face plates of the boiler were broken, the brick work of the base was loosened and some wrenched from their position, the smoke-stack which stands about forty feet, swayed and the top capping is now leaning considerably to one side. Windows were blown out.

The cause of the explosion will not be known until the boiler inspector arrives. The insurance is carried with the Boiler Inspection Company, with head office in Upper Canada.

One in authority in the firm speaking to a Times reporter this morning said that, in his opinion the explosion was caused by a piece of explosive being in the coal, probably a small bit of dynamite. The accident has caused the suspension of operations with the exception of a few machines on the top floor being operated by a motor.

The watchman escaped with only a few burns about the face.

The Canadian Brush factory concern feel the effects of the setback already as there were some rush orders on hand, but it is hoped by them that the damage will prove light and that complete operations will be resumed soon.

KIDDIES TOO LATE TO GET THEIR FRIEND INTO THE SHOW

Two small urchins with ragged clothes and faces not of the cleanest entered the dog show this morning with a great big towering canine at the end of a cord. The kiddies looked about for a moment and then said that they wanted to enter the weird looking creature in the show. Disappointed indeed were they when they were informed by a kindly disposed gentleman that the entries were closed and that they could call around next year with the dog.

Many of the owners of dogs in the show were busy this morning getting their favorites to look their best in anticipation of coming before the judge this afternoon. Judging in several of the classes will be resumed this afternoon and some important prizes awarded.

POLICE COURT

In the police court this morning, three persons were fined $8 or two months in jail for drunkenness. William Hearn in on charges of drunkenness and interfering with people in the public street, was given nine months in jail.

Jeremiah Hurley was before the court on charge of persistently hanging around the I. C. R. station. I. C. R. Policeman Collins said that he went there about a week ago and has been continually in and out since, although warned and ejected forcibly several times. It is said that the man has relatives at Frederick Junction and is living on a pension from the American government, but has not received his checks of a recent date. He was sent below for further inquiries.

Flo. N. Charoyukina, a Russian soldier, formerly of the 149th Battalion, was charged with being drunk and causing damage to property in the Union depot to the extent of $10. The soldier, who could talk very little English, said that he was just out of the hospital and could not proceed overseas with his battalion. According to police books, he is now in the 165th Regiment. The automobile cases were dismissed.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. EDWARD McSWEENEY IN BOSTON

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Quinn of This City Passed Away Yesterday

St. John friends will be shocked to hear of the death of Mrs. Edward McSweeney, Jr. in Boston yesterday. News reached Moncton in a telegram from her brother-in-law, Eugene McSweeney and also came to relatives in this city. Death was sudden.

Mrs. McSweeney was Lillian Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Quinn of St. John. She is survived by her parents and two sisters, Mrs. Henry McCullough and Miss May Quinn. She spent some weeks here this summer, returning to Boston only recently. Her husband has for some time been prominent in the financial life of Boston, being secretary to Thomas F. Lawson. Deep sympathy of many friends will go out to the bereaved. A Moncton despatch says:

"Much regret was felt here on receipt of news of the sudden death of Mrs. Edward McSweeney, Jr., in Boston on Wednesday. Information reached here in a telegram from her brother-in-law, Eugene McSweeney, who was in Boston when her death occurred. The deceased lady was Lillian, second daughter of P. J. Quinn, formerly of Moncton, now of St. John. Mr. Quinn for many years conducted a dry goods business in the Caledonia Block here."

BURIED TODAY.

The funeral of Matthew McGuigan took place this morning from his late residence, 73 Queen street, to St. John's Baptist church, where high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. E. J. McCreary. Interment was made in the new Catholic cemetery. Among the floral offerings were an anchor of roses from the city dock men and a wreath of roses from the William Thomson Co. steamship dock men.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary J. Lawton took place this afternoon from her late residence, 255 Washington road; services were conducted by Rev. W. G. Lane and Rev. Walter P. Dunham, and interment was made in the old Methodist burying grounds.

PREMIER TO BE NEXT GOVERNOR?

Some Problems Ahead For the Politicians in New Brunswick

There are several elements in the provincial political situation which, while not pressing for immediate attention, must be considered soon by the powers that be, and the moves which will be made are the source of anxiety in some quarters and the inspiration for hope in others.

The present lieutenant-governor, Hon. Josiah Wood, will conclude his term of office next March and his successor must be chosen. There are several who would be willing to accept the honor, but the Premier's claims have been recognized as the strongest by the party and he is the next occupant of the lieutenant-governor's chair. It had been reported that the Premier was long for a more permanent berth on the supreme court bench, but that his health has not been such lately as to permit of his undertaking the judicial duties. As his health also is regarded as standing in the way of any prospect of success in active politics and as his service to the party demands recognition, it is said that he will be Governor Wood's successor in office.

The problem of deciding upon the next Conservative leader in the legislature is one which is causing the party more worry. Hon. J. B. M. Baxter has been credited (or charged) with being the power behind the throne for some considerable time, and his friends are anxious to see him elevated to the post of leader. On the other hand, Hon. J. A. Murray is Dr. Baxter's senior in the cabinet and it is understood that he expects the honor. Then there is Dr. Landry, a member of the original Hazen cabinet and a leader among Acadians, whose claims will have to be considered. It was thought, a while ago, that the Premier would be advanced a step towards solution by the retirement of Hon. Mr. Baxter from active politics, but it is understood that the party leaders will not consent that he retire at present, at least not to the judgeship to which he is said to aspire.

That judgeship has been a source of more than a little trouble within the party, but it is believed that the choice of the new judge, who will take office when Chief Justice McLeod retires, has been settled. If reports are true it is another illustration of the old political adage that "a logical candidate is the candidate who is never chosen." As one vacancy after another has occurred the name of M. G. Trell, K. C., has been mentioned as the logical candidate, on account of his recognized qualifications, but each time the appointment has gone to some one else. This time some one else, it is said, will be A. Rowell, K. C., whose participation in politics, according to members of the party, has been on a scale to entitle him to first choice.

There still is the vacancy in the senate, caused by the death of Hon. John Costigan. There are other vacancies in the upper chamber also and, as the dominion government has shown no great hurry in filling the vacant seats, it cannot be expected that there will any delay in the appointment of the new senators. The next senator must be chosen some time, however, and the friends of various candidates are busy urging their claims. M. E. Agar of this province has been the unanimous support of the local patronage committee and good backing from other parts of the province. There is at least one barrier reported in the way of the confirmation of this selection, and that is an unpopularity that M. Burns of Bathurst has the promise of Hon. Mr. Hazen that he will have the first chance. Mr. Burns has a twice defeated candidate, is a brother of a former senator, and stands high enough in the councils of the party to be able to handle some consideration.

Then there are the five vacancies in the provincial legislature which must be filled some day. Hon. John E. Wilson and C. B. Lockhart of St. John, and Mr. Sheridan of Kent retired some time ago to accept dominion appointments; Hon. W. B. Dickson of Albert died in office, and A. J. H. Stewart was forced out of the legislature. No candidates have been named by the government party in these constituencies as yet, perhaps for the reason that there has been a possibility of being on the general election. Meanwhile the time for the opening of the next session is approaching with the prospect of there being five vacant seats when the session is convened.
