ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

MRS. WOODCHUCK'S PHOTOGRAPH.

Nick set a chair for Mrs. Woodchuck in front of a curtain. Happy Go Lucky Park was very popular. Nancy and Nick and Mister Zip were as busy as robins after a rain storm, keeping it in order and having things all spick and span when the wood folk and meadow folk began to arrive with their pennies and lunches to spend the day.

one day when he was taking tickets at the gate. "If there doesn't come Mrs. Woodchuck all dressed up in her Sunday best."

"How do you do, Mrs. Woodchuck. How are you today?" "Oh, I'm pretty well, thank you," said Mrs. Woodchuck breathlessly, for the groundhog lady was very fat and she had been hurrying. "Here's my 10 cents to get in," she panted. "But I didn't come to ride on the merry-ground or the roller coaster. I didn't even bring my lunch and I came off without the children because it's a secret."

"A secret!" exclaimed Nancy and Nick and Mister Zip all together. "Yes," nodded Mrs. Woodchuck. "A secret! The other day when I was here with Wally and the children, I saw a sign over there which said, 'Pictures taken while you wait.' That's why I came today. Could you take my picture while I wait, Mister Zip, could you?"

"Of course!" smiled Mister Zip. "I certainly couldn't take it if you didn't wait, could I? But what is the secret about, Mrs. Woodchuck? There isn't any secret about getting your picture taken, is there?"

"Oh, yes, indeed, Mister Zip. You see, tomorrow is Wally's birthday and I want to surprise him."

"I see," said Mister Zip pleasantly. "Well, we won't tell a soul, and Nick can take your picture. He is my general handy man, Nick is, and he can do everything almost."

"And I'll go with you to see if your powder is on straight and your hat is on your nose," said Nancy.

"What!" shrieked Mrs. Woodchuck. "My hat on my nose, indeed!"

"She means that she'll see if your hat is on straight and your powder on your nose," corrected Mister Zip. "She got her words mixed."

And so talking and explaining and apologizing and panting the Twins finally got fat Mrs. Woodchuck to the place where it said "Pictures taken while you wait!" And they went in.

Nick set a chair for Mrs. Woodchuck in front of a curtain and then went behind a big camera to see how she looked. He put his head under a big black cloth and said, "Turn your head a little, Mrs. Woodchuck. That's just right. Now smile a little and show your teeth. That's better. And now put your eyes up there where that little bird is."

"How can I put my eyes up where that little bird is when they're in my head, I'd like to know," demanded Mrs. Woodchuck.

It took a long time before Nancy and Nick could explain to the groundhog lady that Nick only meant for her to look at the little bird.

"Oh, is that it?" said Mrs. Woodchuck. "Well, go ahead then." And she sat down again in a better humor. (To be continued.)

Two notorious wolves have been destroyed recently by Federal-State hunters. In Montana a big female wolf, known as "Two Toes," was killed by J. J. Williams after being trailed through ten feet of snow. Ranging over a territory of 300 square miles, "Two Toes" had killed thousands of dollars worth of cattle in the last few years.

In 1923 she made her biggest known kill—twenty calves on two ranches—in one week. Her den was dug out and ten wolf cubs were taken alive and destroyed. The death of "Two Toes" marks the end of a long list of killings in the Highwood Mountains.

In Taney County, Mo., a destructive old black wolf, locally called "The Old Black Devil," was captured in April. For years past this animal had been a terror to the farmers of this country and of Boone County, Ark. He was caught last year in Boone county but escaped, leaving a toe in the trap. Caught later near Omaha, Ark., he again got away. During the past winter he was caught twice by W. S. Beeley, of the United States Department of Agriculture, escaping each time, but the third time, in April, was fatal for him.

Mr. Williams is employed in cooperative work between the Biological Survey and the Mountain State Fish and Game Commission, while Mr. Beeley is similarly engaged with the Biological Survey and the Missouri State Board of Agriculture.

Good Climate
Not everyone can choose the climate in which he is forced to live.
And Anytown was no balmy California or Florida town.
So the Manns, like most people, had to adapt themselves to the existing climatic conditions.
Climate, of itself, has been found to be a lesser consideration. What is important is that a person take advantage of the fresh air to be obtained wherever he or she may live.
The main advantage of fresh air may be had wherever you may live. Even in a large city outdoor air is, except in unusual cases, most invigorating.
The old cry of "it's too damp" is being downed by hygienic investigation. It is being found that prejudices against common dampness greatly exaggerate the evils. It's healthier to live in damp or foggy air than to remain a shut-in.
Those who react to dampness, drafts and all such changes are quite likely to be the people who spend great portions of their time shut up in rooms and offices.
So don't worry about climate. If you can afford to go to one that pleases you more, go right along. If you can't, get acquainted with the air at home.
Instead of trying to make a roll-on hem on dollies and centerpieces, that are to be finished with lace, it is a good plan to have the edges picoté as they will be much neater and flatter when laundered.

When you buy lettuce you make sure it is fresh and crisp and tender.

Do you also make sure that the vinegar, which gives the salad its flavor, has a flavor to give?

For a fraction of a cent more per salad you can have Heinz Pure Cider Vinegar, made from the first pressing of whole sound apples, then aged to develop that wonderful flavor and aroma which brings out the best in vegetables and fruit.
