

MANY HELP IN RED CROSS WORK

Local Branch acknowledges aid for good cause from many quarters.

The heads of the knitting committee, Mrs. E. H. Robinson and Mrs. A. W. Adams desire to thank the following for donations of knitting: Mrs. S. Holly, Miss E. Tapley, Miss Elizabeth Dodge, Mr. Thomas McAvity, Mrs. C. E. Fleming, Mrs. Potts, Miss Millidge, Miss S. Gregory, Miss Kate Fairweather, Mrs. J. MacLaren, Mrs. Cudlip, Mrs. A. O. Skinner, Mrs. Pusey, Mrs. J. Carleton Lee, Mrs. Alfred Morrissey, Mrs. Reynolds, Miss McLean, Miss Ring, Miss W. McAvity, Mrs. J. L. Robinson, Mrs. M. Lordy, Mrs. C. W. Gorman, Miss Louise Parks, Miss Muriel Ford, Mrs. E. Appleby, Mrs. D. McLellan, Mrs. J. F. Roberts, Mrs. F. Stetson, Mrs. E. Fisher, Mrs. M. Murray, Mrs. R. Rea, Mrs. H. K. Bruce Weston.

The following organizations are also thanked for help: Patriotic League, per Mrs. F. S. Reid, 208 Florenceville ladies, per Mrs. B. McIsaac, Holyrover ladies, per Mrs. J. T. Crawford, Trinity church circle, per Mrs. L. R. Harrison, Women's Institute, Albert county, per Mrs. J. C. Prescott, Hopewell Hill Ladies' League, per Mrs. W. J. McAlmon, Ononnetta circle, per Mrs. Fred Elkins, Reading Club, St. David's church, per Mrs. A. R. Melrose, Exmouth street church, per Mrs. C. L. Bustin, Fairville Baptist church sewing circle, Knitting Club, Grand Harbor, per Mrs. Clarence Newton, Loyalist Chapter, I. O. E. D. E. per Mrs. George Bisset, ladies of New Jerusalem, per Mrs. Clarence Harrison, ladies of St. Luke's church, per Mrs. E. S. R. Murray, Charlotte street Baptist church, Centenary church, per Mrs. C. W. Pell, Stone church girls' club, St. Stephen's Ladies' Society, St. John's Ambulance Society, Welford Women's Institute, per Miss Dorothy Hayward, Good Cheer Club, Murray street mission, Fairville Baptist church sewing circle, Young Women's Missionary Society, St. David's church, Lancaster branch, Red Cross Society, per Mrs. Anglin, North End branch, Red Cross Society, per Mrs. Peter MacIntyre, per Mrs. M. S. Graduate and Pupil Nurses' Club, per Mrs. Addy, ladies of Upper Gagetown, per Miss Bessie Estabrooke, ladies of Lepreux, per Mrs. L. Cameron, Oak Point Reading Club, per Mrs. I. N. Inch, Girls' Club, St. Paul's church, per Mrs. Scott Gupit, Welford Women's Institute, per Mrs. W. H. Brittain.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The case of the King vs. Jeffers came up for trial in the Circuit Court yesterday morning before Chief Justice Landry and the following jury: Fred Emery, Fred R. Patterson, Richard Hunter, John J. Trainor, Beverly V. Millidge, R. N. Cother, William H. Sullis, G. D. Davidson, Harry N. DeMille, Robert S. Craig, C. Arthur Almond and Arthur G. Blackwell. There are three separate indictments against the defendant on different charges, though in connection with the same affair. The first charge being tried is that of robbing Hon Lee with violence. On account of failure to procure another interpreter, James Wong of Montreal was allowed to act. Further evidence was taken in the afternoon. Hon Lee and William Moon Hon gave evidence. The case will be continued this morning.

The defendant first elected to be tried under Speedy Trials Act, and on objection being taken by the counsel for the complainants, the Attorney-General decided that the case should be tried before a jury. On this point His Honor, upon hearing argument, has allowed the defendant a reserved case. J. A. Barry is the counsel for the defence, and G. H. V. Belyea for the Crown, with D. Mullin, K. C.

PATRIOTIC FUND.

C. B. Allan, treasurer of the Patriotic Fund, acknowledges the following contributions: Albert G. Ruddock $5.00, C. McN. Steeves for March 10.00.

BACKACHE

WAS SO BAD
COULD NOT SWEEP THE FLOOR.

For backache, lame or weak back, one of the commonest and most distressing remedies to equal Doan's Kidney Pills for taking out the stitches, twinges and twinges, limbering up the stiff back and giving perfect relief and comfort to all poor, suffering women who suffer so much from a weak lame back.

Mrs. Blackburn, R.R. No. 1, Fishburn, Alta., writes: "I take pleasure in writing you stating the benefit I have received by using Doan's Kidney Pills. About three years ago I was terribly afflicted with lame back, and was so bad I could not even sweep my floor. I was advised to try your kidney pills. Before I had used one box there was a great improvement as my back was much better. However, I kept on taking them until my back was completely cured. I highly recommend these pills for lame back."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

VICTORIA CROSS WINNERS MODEST ABOUT THEIR DEEDS

Michael O'Leary a real hero—Dr. Leake got V.C. in Boer war and added to distinction in fighting against Germans—Private Smith joined under wrong name afraid his parents would object.

The man who has won the Victoria Cross twice over, Lieutenant Arthur Martin Leake, of the Royal Army Medical Corps—he has just been granted a clasp to the Cross which he won in the South African war—comes of a family of heroes.

He is one of six brothers serving the Flag. One, Captain Francis Martin Leake, was captain of the Pathfinder when that vessel was blown up, and is now in charge of a flotilla of destroyers. Another brother, Lieut. P. S. Martin Leake, of the Royal Engineers, lost his life when accompanying Lieut. W. P. MacCaulfield on a balloon ascent in 1907. The ascent was made in the presence of King Edward, and both aeronauts disappeared, their bodies being subsequently picked up at sea.

Lieutenant Arthur Martin Leake, V.C., is an old boy of Westminster School from which he proceeded to University College Hospital. During the South African war he joined the Hertfordshire Yeomanry, and gained the Cross, but lost the use of an arm. Afterwards he went to India as a doctor on the railway service, and when the Balkan war broke out he joined the Serbian forces. When that conflict was over he returned to India and took up his duties again as medical head of the Nepal and Bengal railways. On the declaration of war with Germany, Dr. Leake at once went to Paris and volunteered his services, joining the R.A.M.C.

Two other brothers, Major Stephen Leake and Captain Richard Leake, are with the new army.

From Roughriders to V.C. Michael O'Leary, another of the V.C. heroes, is very popular among his comrades of the Irish Guards.

O'Leary, who was promoted sergeant on the field for distinguished service has an excellent regimental record. He is only 24, yet has been a private in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, a body which can tell stories of cattle raiders, border thieves and Indians.

O'Leary was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Dr. Leake was rough-riding off the prairie when the Irish Guards reserves were mobilized. He at once took ship for England, and was attached to the First Battalion of his regiment as lance corporal.

Drummer (now lance corporal) William Kenny, of the Second Gordon Highlanders, makes light of his acts. He is now in hospital at Newton Abbott, having come over from France on Sunday in consequence of a broken wrist sustaining by falling.

Kenny was born in the army at Malta, his father serving for twenty-three years in the Gordons.

His parents are Irish, and now live at Drogheda, but he has spent the greater part of his life in India, South Africa and Egypt.

Was There for the Jobs. He explained that he was a non-combatant, and his duties were to pick up wounded and carry messages and such-like things.

I simply took my orders from an orderly like any other fellow would do, and carried them out as anybody would.

Kenny seemed to think he had done nothing in any way.

"What about the five wounded you brought in?" Kenny was asked.

"I saw wounded men lying about, and I simply went and brought them in. It was the same with the guns."

"The maxims had to be brought in, and so I went to get them and succeeded."

"I was there for those sort of jobs."

Although reticent about his own doings, Kenny was ready enough to talk about the war generally, and said the allies had enough men to keep the Germans back, but not sufficient to drive them out of France and Belgium.

Many of the Germans were excellent fighters, and the British respected the Prussian Guards.

All through the war he has been in the thick of the fighting. He seemed to regard his accident as a great hardship after having dodged shells and bullets for so long.

Why He Joined as "Smith." Private Smith, a Border Regiment V.C. is a Workington man, unmarried, and 34 years of age. He enlisted when he was seventeen, and served through the Boer war.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

His real name is Glinn, but he joined the army under his mother's maiden name, fearing that his parents would refuse to allow him to embrace soldiering as a career. He was in employment at Middlesbrough when the war broke out.

SUNDAY SELLING CASE IN POLICE COURT

Special Policeman Acted as Spotter and Secured Beer

The case of Frank Van Hedeigian, charged with selling liquor, disclosed one of Chief Simpson's fly cops in the light of a spotter. Officer Hunter testified that he had gone into the defendant's store on Sunday morning, March 7, and purchased a bottle of "Peptonized Porter." He had at first asked for a bottle of ale, but was told that it was not sold there. He brought the bottle to the police station and handed it to the chief. Cross-examined by U. J. Sweeney, counsel for the defence, he said that he was not sworn in as a police officer at the time he made the purchase, but had simply been sent out by Chief Simpson. He had had no previous experience, and was in no way qualified for detective work. He took a drink once in a while. He did not know whether the bottle of beer he bought was a temperance drink or not, but thought that it was. He did not know who laid the charge against the defendant.

M. V. Paddock testified that the percentage of alcohol in the beer was two per cent, while the law allows two and one-quarter per cent. of alcohol in soft drinks.

Chief Simpson testified that he had taken the bottle to Mr. Paddock to be analyzed. He did not lay the charge. He did not think Hunter was a competent special officer. He did not lay the charge and did not know who did.

Mr. Sweeney moved that the case be dismissed on the ground that the defendant had been charged with selling liquor, and it was proven to be only beer. His Honor did not think the case should be dismissed as the sale took place on Sunday and the Liquor License Inspector was not in court.

In the course of Mr. Sweeney's cross examination it came out that the officer had no reason to suspect that liquor was being sold on the premises and that he had simply been sent out by the Chief to secure some evidence against any beer seller. The case will come up on next Wednesday morning.

In the course of Mr. Sweeney's cross examination it came out that the officer had no reason to suspect that liquor was being sold on the premises and that he had simply been sent out by the Chief to secure some evidence against any beer seller. The case will come up on next Wednesday morning.

In the course of Mr. Sweeney's cross examination it came out that the officer had no reason to suspect that liquor was being sold on the premises and that he had simply been sent out by the Chief to secure some evidence against any beer seller. The case will come up on next Wednesday morning.