LOST FOR FOUR DAYS IN WOODS

Indian Guide Was Successful in Finding John West of Grand Falls, But Just in Time.

Special to The Standard.
Grand Falls, Dec. 4.—After trailing a lost man for four days in the dense woods near Salmon River in Victoria County, "Billy Fly," an Indian guide, was successful in locating the whereabouts of John West, a resident of Grand Falls. Mr. West, in company with two sons, left Grand Falls on Saturday last to spend a day in the woods hunting. At Salmon River he left the two boys at the camp and started out alone. Not returning on Saturday night nor Sunday the boys and the men at the camp became anxious, and the Indian was put on his trail. The guide had no trouble in tracing his route for the first day, but the heavy fall of snow on Tuesday and Wednesday blocked him. The guide heard three revolver shots and replied, but apparently Mr. West started out the wrong way, and instead of travelling towards the Indian he went in the opposite direction. After travelling about three miles, the Indian found him at Jardine Brook. Mr. West froze one hand and a foot. It is understood that when he left the camp he only had with him two slices of bread and when found was almost dead from hunger.

GERMAN SUBS FOR AMERICA

Six of Surrendered U-Boats Are Being Brought Across the Atlantic for Show Purposes.

By Arthur B. Draper.
(Special Cable to The N. Y. Tribune and The St. John Standard.)
London, Dec. 4.—Six surrendered German submarines are shortly arriving in America for show purposes. Others are being sent to France and Italy, and the remainder to various parts of England. Four submarines and one of the latest mystery boats will be exhibited among other things. British naval men estimate that the total bill against Germany for sinking merchantmen will amount to 800 million pounds, whereas about one-half represents cargoes and one-half hulls. Germany's merchant marine is estimated to be worth approximately 500 million, and this is totally inadequate to meet the obligation. It is suggested that Germany run the merchant ships in bond for the Allies in order to pay the interest on the debt and when the war is over, to pay the capital by devices. Under this scheme the Allies will use the ships for their own purposes, telling Germany that if she requires food she must fetch it in dismantled battle-ships which she will retain. That portion of the imperial fleet which still remains in Germany is considered to consist of quite obsolete ships, quite worthless for war purposes, which according to reports from the German admirals, were volunteered to surrender to Admiral Beatty if he wished. It is stated that the armor could not be removed from the German vessels, and that it would be uneconomical to run them as cargo boats, but it is argued that Germany deserves no consideration. It is suggested that some boilers could be removed to make more cargo space. It is reckoned that the surrendered German ships also, approximately, will suffer losses in naval units, but whereas most of the Allied losses were old and comparatively obsolete craft, the German war ships are of the latest and most powerful types.

HARDEN TELLS THE BITTER TRUTH

A Vivid Picture of Germany Before and After Hostilities Were Ended—True State of Affairs.

London, Dec. 4.—Maximilian Harden, in his paper Die Zukunft, gives a graphic picture of Germany in the days preceding and following the armistice. In August, he says, the late Albert Ballin, director of the Hamburg-American line, was called in by the military men as the only German who could tell the emperor the truth. "There was a terrible scene," he continues, "as today's fan threatened the shipowner. There was a second interview, but nothing came of it, and the facts suddenly burst upon Germany with the redoubtable general Ludendorff, which came with the violence of an unexpected thunderstorm." Herr Harden bitterly denounces the sudden conversion of all the junker elements to democracy and to support of the new government. "Yesterday," he declares, "they were bloodthirsty with the will of victory. Today they are the knights of the spirit, raising a discredited civilization up to pure glory." He tells the German people that their paper money and loans are worthless and "only the labor of our sons and grandsons can give them value."

Honor the Dead.

Winnipeg Free Press: Georges Clemenceau, Premier of France, supplies the motto which should inspire all the fighting participating in the great struggle in the stupendous tasks of rehabilitation and reconstruction which lie before them. "The grandest monument to those who have made the great surrender will be the grateful appreciation by posterity of the meanings of their sacrifices."

SAYS EXCHANGE OF STUDENTS IS WISE

Pres. Hadley of Yale Believes This is More Important Than Swapping Professors With British Colleges.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 4.—The free interchange of students between British and American universities was declared to be of far more importance than the interchange of professors by President Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale, speaking at the opening session of the 20th annual conference of the Association of American Universities here today. Seven members of the British educational mission were in attendance.
President Hadley expressed the belief that exchange students should be allowed to go to the university of their own choice. He said the mental difficulty was that they were subsidizing Oxford University. Exchange professors also, he thought, should visit universities.
Dr. Arthur E. Shipley, vice-chancellor of Oxford, also thought that students should have freedom in deciding what university they should attend. The financial proposition might be taken care of by the universities themselves and some aid, he said, might be expected from the Rhodes trustees. He favored a paid secretary to oversee the plan.
Sir Henry Myers, vice-chancellor of the University of Manchester, said he believed that few undergraduates in his country would come here for the present, but he believed the exchange idea offered a great opportunity for the American teacher to go to England.
Norton Hero Honored.
Norton, Dec. 4.—Pte. Harry Griffith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. H. Griffith, of this place, returned home from overseas on the night of December 3. He was met at the station by friends who escorted him to the town hall, where a large gathering of friends awaited him. After congratulations and speeches, music followed. He was then presented with a smoking set, after which luncheon was served, and a very enjoyable evening spent by all.
Pte. Griffith enlisted with the "Fighting 26th" in February, 1915, going overseas in June, and across to France in September, seeing twenty-seven months of actual service. He was wounded once and gassed once. His friends are glad to see him looking so well, despite his many hardships.

THINK WILSON'S PLAN A GOOD ONE

Paris Newspaper Believes His Presence at the Peace Conference is the Right Idea.

Paris, Dec. 4.—"The President comes from a sense of duty just as the American fighters came," says the Temps in commenting on President Wilson's visit to France. "He seeks to sustain in the peace negotiations the same cause of justice and liberty which his compatriots defended on the battlefield. He comes as the representative of the whole of his country, and he carries the national flag."

MINE WORKERS HOLD ELECTION

Sydney, N. S., Dec. 4.—With eight or nine boxes still to hear from the election is conceded of Silby Barrett, president, Robert Baxter, vice-president, and J. B. McLachlan, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Mine Workers of Nova Scotia. The doubtful boxes are in Cumberland and it is stated that they cannot change the result. Each of the union officials have between 1,600 and 1,700 majority. Despite a greatly increased membership, the vote was much lighter than last year.
