

FRENCH PARLIAMENT TO LEARN WHERE FRANCE STANDS ON GERMAN REPARATIONS

Poincare to Make Known What France is Prepared to Do in the Event of Germany Defaulting Payments Due on May 31.

Paris, May 26.—Parliament will be informed next week by Premier Poincare exactly where France stands with regard to German reparations and what France is prepared to do in the event of Germany defaulting the reparations payments of May 31.

The Premier announced this intention at today's session of the chamber, the stormiest in years when he interrupted Albert Payer, who was a minister in the Clemenceau cabinet, while he was in the midst of a speech advocating acceptance of a minimum amount from Germany to be immediately rather than insist on larger payments in the future.

"It is not in the court of an international tribunal that I declare my position, but I will do so from the Tribune."

"I have a deep conviction," he continued, "that I can settle the question of Germany's debt to France."

Washington, May 26.—While a great deal is being said unofficially with respect to an invitation to Canada to participate in the forthcoming conference of the Pan-American Union at Santiago, there are difficulties in the way of such an invitation, according to high authority here, which may preclude it. So far as the United States is concerned, there is no question it would be glad to see Canada represented at the conference, in fact, in the Pan-American Union itself.

The constitution of the organization, however, limits the membership to the republics of the New World. This has been true since the beginning of the organization. Under this constitution, the officials doubt their authority to extend invitations to countries other than republics.

Moreover, if Canada is included, there will arise the delicate question of what to do about some other countries, such as British Guiana, French Guiana and Dutch Guiana. Exactly where to stop at the policy of including republics only in the invitation is somewhat difficult to say.

Another phase of the matter is that there is some delicacy felt by the Pan-American Union about inviting Canada unless it is done through Great Britain. And here comes up the question as to how the British government would view the association of one of its great Dominions with an organization of republics.

In past years, it is learned, the question of inclusion of Canada in the Pan-American Union has been discussed unofficially by influential men in the organization and outside of it. Officially, however, it never goes anywhere for the reasons already indicated.

In view of the growing importance of Canadian trade with Latin America and with the United States, it has to be admitted that the panacea for including Canada is stronger now than many years ago, when the Union was formed. It would be entirely natural if the question should arise at Santiago of taking Canada into the Union.

While officials here do not say this will be done, there are substantial reasons why it should be a proper subject for consideration. Even though no invitation goes to Canada to attend the conference, it would cause no surprise if the conference should discuss the question of extending an invitation to Canada to attend future Pan-American Union gatherings.

Washington, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

The Berengaria, which formerly was the Emperor, was reported to have proceeded westward, sent a message saying that during the same period she steamed 574 miles which is her record run since she was purchased by the Cunard Line.

London, May 26.—The Cunard liner Aquitania sent a radio message from mid-ocean today saying that between Wednesday noon and Thursday noon she steamed 563 miles, establishing for herself a record day's run.

High School Grads. Of The U. N. B. Club

St. John and St. Vincent's Graduates Heard Addresses and Enjoyed Programme of Dances.

The graduating classes of the St. John High School, and of St. Vincent's High School, and the grade twelve pupils, were the guests of the U. N. B. Club of St. John at an enjoyable assembly held in the High School auditorium last evening.

The affair which was inaugurated last night, was largely attended by the members of the U. N. B. club as well as its unaffiliated supporters. Its continuation as one of the traditional High School festivities, and there is but little doubt that it will promote a friendly feeling towards U. N. B. in the graduating class. Col. E. C. Weyman, the president of the local U. N. B. Club, presided at the function, and introduced the two speakers of the evening, A. N. Carter, U. N. B. Rhodes Scholar, and Chief Justice, Sir Douglas Hazen, both graduates of the University of New Brunswick.

Following their addresses the evening was given over to an enjoyable series of dances. The grand march being led by Col. and Mrs. Weyman, and by the Superintendent of the City Schools, Dr. H. S. Bridges, and Mrs. Bridges.

In introducing the two speakers of the evening, the chairman took occasion to express the gratification it afforded the U. N. B. club in welcoming the graduates of the two High Schools, and to promote the interest of the graduates in the U. N. B. club. He thought was one step in the fulfillment of the second objective. He regretted that the Lt. Governor, A. N. Carter, was unable to attend and then introduced Mr. Carter, who he said did honor to St. John High School, the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Mr. Carter in a brief address spoke of the two most distinguished men who had graduated from the High School, in his time, "Anglin, the most accomplished essayist, and Walsh, the peerless mile runner." He also referred to the graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, when the university had graduated, Sir George E. Foster, Lt. Governor Pugsley, Chief Justice, and Sir Douglas Hazen, all of whom he mentioned as graduates of the University of New Brunswick, and of Oxford, from all of which he had been graduated.

Determine British Golf Champion

Holderness and Caven Will Play Over Prestwick Links Today to Determine Championship.

Prestwick, May 26.—E. W. Holderness, of Winton, and John Caven, of Cochrane Castle, Scotland, tomorrow will play over the links here to determine who is to be British Amateur Golf champion for the coming year.

Holderness put William Hunter, the present champion out of the running in the semi-final, two up and one to play, while Caven eliminated Robert Scott of Glasgow by one up.

In the morning round Hunter accounted for Captain E. F. Carter, one up. Holderness defeated Harold H. Hilton, four up and 2 to play, Caven won from Willis Mackenzie at the twenty-second hole and Scott played a quiet level game against Withers who was erratic. Withers was four down at the turn but made a grand recovery. At the seventeenth, however, the crowd gasped when Withers again went off his game and missed an 18 inch putt which cost him the match.

The Carter-Hunter game was a tense drawn out struggle. Carter lost through bad luck and failure to close his last chances on the home green. Holderness in his play against the veteran Hilton, whose rejuvenation had been the feature of the tournament was bad at first. He lost the first three holes, but then recovered and Hilton became totally bunkered at the sixteenth.

That the proposed establishment of one central university in the Maritime Provinces under the Carnegie Fund at Halifax, would result in the deplorable effect of leaving no institution of high or learning in New Brunswick and was therefore a plan which could not be viewed with complacency by the people of the province, was the opinion voiced by Sir Douglas Hazen, Chief Justice of New Brunswick, speaking on behalf of the U. N. B. club of St. John to the graduating classes of the St. John High School, and St. Vincent's High School last evening.

The Chief Justice said that plan had grown out of reports submitted by experts from the United States, who after spending a few hours in the Maritime Provinces, had hazarded reports on the educational requirements of the three provinces. Reports, which he had been informed by the Chief Superintendent of Education for the province, and by the Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick were erroneous in many respects.

The proposed scheme, Sir Douglas said, was a retrograde one, as it would destroy the wealth of tradition that had grown up with the University of New Brunswick, founded as it had been by the Loyalists, in the early days of the province.

He doubted greatly if a State University supported by the taxes of the people of New Brunswick, could be transferred to Halifax and he did not believe the legislators or people of the province would approve of such a scheme.

That the proposed establishment of one central university in the Maritime Provinces under the Carnegie Fund at Halifax, would result in the deplorable effect of leaving no institution of high or learning in New Brunswick and was therefore a plan which could not be viewed with complacency by the people of the province, was the opinion voiced by Sir Douglas Hazen, Chief Justice of New Brunswick, speaking on behalf of the U. N. B. club of St. John to the graduating classes of the St. John High School, and St. Vincent's High School last evening.

The Chief Justice said that plan had grown out of reports submitted by experts from the United States, who after spending a few hours in the Maritime Provinces, had hazarded reports on the educational requirements of the three provinces. Reports, which he had been informed by the Chief Superintendent of Education for the province, and by the Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick were erroneous in many respects.

The proposed scheme, Sir Douglas said, was a retrograde one, as it would destroy the wealth of tradition that had grown up with the University of New Brunswick, founded as it had been by the Loyalists, in the early days of the province.

He doubted greatly if a State University supported by the taxes of the people of New Brunswick, could be transferred to Halifax and he did not believe the legislators or people of the province would approve of such a scheme.

That the proposed establishment of one central university in the Maritime Provinces under the Carnegie Fund at Halifax, would result in the deplorable effect of leaving no institution of high or learning in New Brunswick and was therefore a plan which could not be viewed with complacency by the people of the province, was the opinion voiced by Sir Douglas Hazen, Chief Justice of New Brunswick, speaking on behalf of the U. N. B. club of St. John to the graduating classes of the St. John High School, and St. Vincent's High School last evening.

The Chief Justice said that plan had grown out of reports submitted by experts from the United States, who after spending a few hours in the Maritime Provinces, had hazarded reports on the educational requirements of the three provinces. Reports, which he had been informed by the Chief Superintendent of Education for the province, and by the Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick were erroneous in many respects.

The proposed scheme, Sir Douglas said, was a retrograde one, as it would destroy the wealth of tradition that had grown up with the University of New Brunswick, founded as it had been by the Loyalists, in the early days of the province.

He doubted greatly if a State University supported by the taxes of the people of New Brunswick, could be transferred to Halifax and he did not believe the legislators or people of the province would approve of such a scheme.

That the proposed establishment of one central university in the Maritime Provinces under the Carnegie Fund at Halifax, would result in the deplorable effect of leaving no institution of high or learning in New Brunswick and was therefore a plan which could not be viewed with complacency by the people of the province, was the opinion voiced by Sir Douglas Hazen, Chief Justice of New Brunswick, speaking on behalf of the U. N. B. club of St. John to the graduating classes of the St. John High School, and St. Vincent's High School last evening.

The Chief Justice said that plan had grown out of reports submitted by experts from the United States, who after spending a few hours in the Maritime Provinces, had hazarded reports on the educational requirements of the three provinces. Reports, which he had been informed by the Chief Superintendent of Education for the province, and by the Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick were erroneous in many respects.

The proposed scheme, Sir Douglas said, was a retrograde one, as it would destroy the wealth of tradition that had grown up with the University of New Brunswick, founded as it had been by the Loyalists, in the early days of the province.

He doubted greatly if a State University supported by the taxes of the people of New Brunswick, could be transferred to Halifax and he did not believe the legislators or people of the province would approve of such a scheme.

That the proposed establishment of one central university in the Maritime Provinces under the Carnegie Fund at Halifax, would result in the deplorable effect of leaving no institution of high or learning in New Brunswick and was therefore a plan which could not be viewed with complacency by the people of the province, was the opinion voiced by Sir Douglas Hazen, Chief Justice of New Brunswick, speaking on behalf of the U. N. B. club of St. John to the graduating classes of the St. John High School, and St. Vincent's High School last evening.

Sir Douglas Hazen Addressed Graduates Lumber Industry On North Shore

Business is Very Encouraging, is Reported by W. G. Miller, of C. G. M. Staff.

Business conditions, especially in the lumber industry, are very encouraging along the North Shore of the Province, according to W. G. Miller, of the C. G. M. staff, who returned to the city Thursday night from Campbellton, where he has been engaged for the past two weeks overseeing the loading of the steamer Canadian Trooper. Mr. Miller said that the lumber mills along the North Shore were working full time, and that indications pointed to a busy summer. A large amount of lumber is being shipped overseas as is evidenced by the fact that, in the last few weeks, seven steamers of the C. G. M. fleet alone have docked at different ports on the North Shore to load cargo for the United Kingdom.

Part of the lumber that is being shipped overseas belonged to the Imperial Government, and consisted of stock that had been purchased at various times.

a scheme, but would rather rally to the support of the old school, and strengthen it to meet the demands made upon it in this present age.

Sir Douglas thought that even if the scheme went through, it would result in the students of New Brunswick turning towards the universities of Montreal and Toronto, rather than towards Halifax, and in closing expressed the hope that the friends of the University would rally to its support by opposing the fallacy of the proposed scheme.

That the proposed establishment of one central university in the Maritime Provinces under the Carnegie Fund at Halifax, would result in the deplorable effect of leaving no institution of high or learning in New Brunswick and was therefore a plan which could not be viewed with complacency by the people of the province, was the opinion voiced by Sir Douglas Hazen, Chief Justice of New Brunswick, speaking on behalf of the U. N. B. club of St. John to the graduating classes of the St. John High School, and St. Vincent's High School last evening.

The Chief Justice said that plan had grown out of reports submitted by experts from the United States, who after spending a few hours in the Maritime Provinces, had hazarded reports on the educational requirements of the three provinces. Reports, which he had been informed by the Chief Superintendent of Education for the province, and by the Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick were erroneous in many respects.

The proposed scheme, Sir Douglas said, was a retrograde one, as it would destroy the wealth of tradition that had grown up with the University of New Brunswick, founded as it had been by the Loyalists, in the early days of the province.

He doubted greatly if a State University supported by the taxes of the people of New Brunswick, could be transferred to Halifax and he did not believe the legislators or people of the province would approve of such a scheme.

That the proposed establishment of one central university in the Maritime Provinces under the Carnegie Fund at Halifax, would result in the deplorable effect of leaving no institution of high or learning in New Brunswick and was therefore a plan which could not be viewed with complacency by the people of the province, was the opinion voiced by Sir Douglas Hazen, Chief Justice of New Brunswick, speaking on behalf of the U. N. B. club of St. John to the graduating classes of the St. John High School, and St. Vincent's High School last evening.

The Chief Justice said that plan had grown out of reports submitted by experts from the United States, who after spending a few hours in the Maritime Provinces, had hazarded reports on the educational requirements of the three provinces. Reports, which he had been informed by the Chief Superintendent of Education for the province, and by the Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick were erroneous in many respects.

The proposed scheme, Sir Douglas said, was a retrograde one, as it would destroy the wealth of tradition that had grown up with the University of New Brunswick, founded as it had been by the Loyalists, in the early days of the province.

He doubted greatly if a State University supported by the taxes of the people of New Brunswick, could be transferred to Halifax and he did not believe the legislators or people of the province would approve of such a scheme.

That the proposed establishment of one central university in the Maritime Provinces under the Carnegie Fund at Halifax, would result in the deplorable effect of leaving no institution of high or learning in New Brunswick and was therefore a plan which could not be viewed with complacency by the people of the province, was the opinion voiced by Sir Douglas Hazen, Chief Justice of New Brunswick, speaking on behalf of the U. N. B. club of St. John to the graduating classes of the St. John High School, and St. Vincent's High School last evening.

The Chief Justice said that plan had grown out of reports submitted by experts from the United States, who after spending a few hours in the Maritime Provinces, had hazarded reports on the educational requirements of the three provinces. Reports, which he had been informed by the Chief Superintendent of Education for the province, and by the Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick were erroneous in many respects.

The proposed scheme, Sir Douglas said, was a retrograde one, as it would destroy the wealth of tradition that had grown up with the University of New Brunswick, founded as it had been by the Loyalists, in the early days of the province.

He doubted greatly if a State University supported by the taxes of the people of New Brunswick, could be transferred to Halifax and he did not believe the legislators or people of the province would approve of such a scheme.

That the proposed establishment of one central university in the Maritime Provinces under the Carnegie Fund at Halifax, would result in the deplorable effect of leaving no institution of high or learning in New Brunswick and was therefore a plan which could not be viewed with complacency by the people of the province, was the opinion voiced by Sir Douglas Hazen, Chief Justice of New Brunswick, speaking on behalf of the U. N. B. club of St. John to the graduating classes of the St. John High School, and St. Vincent's High School last evening.

The Chief Justice said that plan had grown out of reports submitted by experts from the United States, who after spending a few hours in the Maritime Provinces, had hazarded reports on the educational requirements of the three provinces. Reports, which he had been informed by the Chief Superintendent of Education for the province, and by the Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick were erroneous in many respects.

The proposed scheme, Sir Douglas said, was a retrograde one, as it would destroy the wealth of tradition that had grown up with the University of New Brunswick, founded as it had been by the Loyalists, in the early days of the province.

He doubted greatly if a State University supported by the taxes of the people of New Brunswick, could be transferred to Halifax and he did not believe the legislators or people of the province would approve of such a scheme.

That the proposed establishment of one central university in the Maritime Provinces under the Carnegie Fund at Halifax, would result in the deplorable effect of leaving no institution of high or learning in New Brunswick and was therefore a plan which could not be viewed with complacency by the people of the province, was the opinion voiced by Sir Douglas Hazen, Chief Justice of New Brunswick, speaking on behalf of the U. N. B. club of St. John to the graduating classes of the St. John High School, and St. Vincent's High School last evening.

Obituary

Mrs. W. H. Hayward.

Many friends in the city and Province will regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Augusta M. Hayward, wife of the late William H. Hayward, which occurred after a short illness at her late residence, 115 Cambridge street, last evening.

The late Mrs. Hayward was predeceased by her husband, W. H. Hayward, the founder of the well known crockery and glassware firm, some 24 years ago. She is survived by one son, Murray P., president of the firm.

The funeral will be held from her late residence on Sunday afternoon, service at 2.15 and funeral at 2.30 o'clock.

Washington, May 26.—The man in geography class says a bullet of Geographic or even a few some in quarrels. For my as it is fields. If you sic and perha the streets of most straight remoteness.

"Even today is in its infancy merely a copy of our own country rapidly, and in a later stage of civilization which was not an inferior of a radio ing range, but tive strength, station which now regularly —25,000 miles— is the Lat the United States America's paradise sold to which until re as the world's ends its tele case—practice course—over and land that Washington; occasionally 1,000 miles to

Washington, May 26.—The man in geography class says a bullet of Geographic or even a few some in quarrels. For my as it is fields. If you sic and perha the streets of most straight remoteness.

"Even today is in its infancy merely a copy of our own country rapidly, and in a later stage of civilization which was not an inferior of a radio ing range, but tive strength, station which now regularly —25,000 miles— is the Lat the United States America's paradise sold to which until re as the world's ends its tele case—practice course—over and land that Washington; occasionally 1,000 miles to

Washington, May 26.—The man in geography class says a bullet of Geographic or even a few some in quarrels. For my as it is fields. If you sic and perha the streets of most straight remoteness.

"Even today is in its infancy merely a copy of our own country rapidly, and in a later stage of civilization which was not an inferior of a radio ing range, but tive strength, station which now regularly —25,000 miles— is the Lat the United States America's paradise sold to which until re as the world's ends its tele case—practice course—over and land that Washington; occasionally 1,000 miles to

Washington, May 26.—The man in geography class says a bullet of Geographic or even a few some in quarrels. For my as it is fields. If you sic and perha the streets of most straight remoteness.

"Even today is in its infancy merely a copy of our own country rapidly, and in a later stage of civilization which was not an inferior of a radio ing range, but tive strength, station which now regularly —25,000 miles— is the Lat the United States America's paradise sold to which until re as the world's ends its tele case—practice course—over and land that Washington; occasionally 1,000 miles to

Washington, May 26.—The man in geography class says a bullet of Geographic or even a few some in quarrels. For my as it is fields. If you sic and perha the streets of most straight remoteness.

"Even today is in its infancy merely a copy of our own