ONTARIO

In concluding an address recently delivered, Mr A. E. Donovan, M. P. P., spoke as follows, and in this eloquent peroration will be found truths tersely told that should be pondered well by many who "wax fat and kick" in this premier province :--

Gentlemen,-Canada is a wide country. Its shores are washed by the Atlantic and the Pacific. Between these two great highways of commerce stretches this great country of ours. Necessarily in this northern climate there must be many differences of air and soil. Many places possess the Arctic severity while other spots of this Dominion are almost tropical in their luxuriance. But it is not extremes that create the soul-satisfying love of home. It is the even tenor of existence in some cool sequestered medium of tife, where moderation in everything produces that happy calm conductive to the best that earth affords. Such is Ontario. The West may roll up her mounds of yellow wheat, the East may dot the seas with her fishing sails, the north may resound to the resounding whack of the woodman's ax and hunter's shot, but here in Ontario is the climate, the soil, the agriculture, the scenery and ling rill and green velveted hillsides ciency so long maintained under the mination to do things in Ontario will principal hip of Mr Massey. tensity of soil culture and of brainenergy is needed. Application of that persitency to win, the cutting loose from customs that enchain will make the Ontario boy king of his fellows. Young men who are thinking of leaving for the West, ought to draw up pictures of what can be done here by intensive culture. They should look at the discomforts of a life in the West Normal Schools-May Hagerman, at first, and then decide whether the star of destiny does not stand still over in Ontario,

The sunshine nowhere shines bright as in Untario, birds sing nowhere quite so sweet, And nowhere hearts so lightly beat, for heaven and earth both seem to meet in Ontario,

A PROGRESSIVE FARMER

Mr. W. C. Hayes, says an occasion al correspondent, is evidently a progressive farmer. We notice his young sugar bush, an extensive one, as wholly clear of all varieties of timber except sugar maple—no old or down rotting stuff on the ground, as clean as park—a sap tree grove. His rail fences are fast being replaced with first class wire panel ences. It adds greatly to the appearance by having the posts quite uniform n size, peeled and nearly even at the tops.

Canadian Rural Life

Canadian rural life is presented in a realistic and wholesome way by Anison North in "Carmicheal," the notable Canadian story of the year, publication of which as a serial in "The Farmer's Advocate and Home Magazine" of London, Ont., is just being begun. Its readers are to be congratulated on the literary treat in store for them.

"Woman's work is never done."
There is always something to dorunning up and down stairs,
