GATHERING OF DOCTORS

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ONTARIO

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

ing at the sixth annual meeting of the Ontario Medical Association. The city doctors kept up their end. The President, doctors kept up theirend. The President, Dr. Tye of Chatham, occupied the chair.
During the afternoon and evening sessions the gallery was well filled by medical students, enjoying without money and without price such lectures as at their respective schools they must pay hard cash for. Two ladies were in the gallery at the afternoon session. In the evening Dr.
Helen Reynolds, the only female member Helen Reynolds, the only female member

The President in his address said that this, the sixth annual meeting of the Association in the fair city of its birth, justified its foundation. The society was a powerful agent for good throughout the Province. Although young, it was vigorous and destined to accomplish much. Besides advancement in protessional knowledge, each member derived great social benefit from meeting his fellow. He gathered new ideas, and returned home a better reader, a greater thinker, a clearer observer and a more lib. and returned home a better reader, agreed, thinker. a clearer observer and a more libberal and contains of this character. The protections of this character. The protections of this character. The protections in the Province was now in a highly satisfactory state, Its status what it is the province when the province was now in a highly satisfactory state, Its status what it is the province when the province was now in a highly satisfactory state, Its status what it is the province when the province was now in provision made for public parks, equares, or their places where young men and children when the province was now in provision made for public parks, equares, or the places where young men and children was no provision made for public parks, equares, or the places where young men and children was now in provision made for public parks, equares, or the places where young men and children was now in a highly satisfactory state. Its status what it is the province was now in provision made for public parks, equares, or the places where young men and children was now in the province was now in provision made for public parks, equares, or the province was now in provision made for public parks, equares, or the province was now in provision made for public parks, equares, or the province was now in provision made for public parks, equares, or the province was now in the province a highly satisfactory state. Its status was immeasurably above what it was twenty years ago. The time had come when the Association should have branches in every municipality in the Province, the societies now in existence being affiliated. It was a source of gratification that our system of medical education was so complete. The teaching bodies had responded nobly to the requirements of the Medical Council. Yet it was a matter of regret that our colleges graduated in three terms and that our anomalous relations with the Mother Country obliged our Council to accept three years. Toronto University had with liberality and wisdom thrown open its portals to medical students. Many were embracing the opportunity. The national university bade fair to produce a majority of the best men of the future. Legislation had conferred a great boon on the profession in Ontario. So large, well educated and comparatively wealthy class, therefore, as our physicians, should be better represented in legislative halls. Late efforts to secure legislation had shown how weak they were in this respect. As to quacks the president said, "We are ashamed of our company and pray for separation." The time had come when special efforts quacks the president said, "We are ashamed of our company and pray for separation." The time had come when special efforts might be made to determine more definitely the etiology of the most widely distributed diseases and the most successful mode of preventing their spread. This was a work for the State and the whole people, but on physicians aboulders would
