

The second Relation.

Canada agayne with him, that bee did only to appease them, which our Captayne did; wherefore the Clomen, as well by words as signes, seeme to be very glad, giving our Captaine thankes, and tolde him, if he came againe, and brought Donnacona with him, they would giue him many things: in signe whereof, eache one gaue our Captayne a chayne of Esurgny, and then passed to the other side of the Riuier agayne, where stode all the people of Stadagona, who taking all leauue of their Lord, wente home agayne. On Saturday following, beeing the sixth of the moneth, we departed out of the sayd Porte, and came to harborough a little beneath the Iland of Orleans, aboute twelve leahuges from the Porte of the Holy Crosse; and vpon Sunday we came to the Iland of Filberdes, where we stayde vntill the sixteenth of that Moneth, till the fiercenesse of the waters were past, which at that time rame too swiste a course, and were too dangerous to come downe alongst the Riuier, and therefore we stayde till fayze weather came. In the meane while, many of Donnaconas Subiects came from the Riuier of Sagnenay to him, but beeing by Domagaia aduertised, that their Lord was taken to be caried into France, they were all amazed, yet for all that, they would not leauue to come to oure Shippes, to speake to Donnacona, who tolde them, that after twelve monethes, he shoulde come agayne, and that he shoulde be very well vsed, with the Captayne, Gentlemen, and Partiters. Which when they hearde, they greatly thanked oure Captayne, and gaue their Lord thre bundles of Beavers, and Sea Wolues Skinnes, with a greate knife of redde Copper that comith from Sagnenay, and manye other thyngs. They gaue also to our Captayne a Chayne of Esurgny, for whiche oure Captayne gaue them tenne or twelue Hatchettes, and they gaue hym hartie thankes, and were very well contented. The nexte daye, beeing the sixteenth of May, we hysed Sayle, and came from the sayde Iland of Filberdes, to another, aboute fiftene leagues from it, whiche is aboute nine leagues in length, and there, to the ende

we