

THE BLIND MAN

Once upon a time when Jesus lived on earth he found a man who had been born blind. Jesus' heart went out in pity for him.

Stooping down he took some clay and laid it gently on the blind eyes. "Now go and wash in the pool of Siloam," he told him.

Would you have believed that washing in a pool of water could cure blind eyes? I wonder. But that man believed, because it was Jesus who told him. And because he believed, he was cured.

Suddenly he was able to see the green trees, the grass, and the flowers. He could see his father and mother.

That is the very first thing we must all do in starting out on our race. We must believe in Jesus and love him. Then he will help us in the race we are running. He will help us mind his rules so that we can win. He will say, "Well done," when we reach the heavenly gates.
