J. Smith - Secretary of the New York Council

As the Government has stated that it doesn't intend to put emergency powers in the new Special Forces for the time being, I am sure that the House will be able to vote. There is a strong feeling in the House that the Government should not be seen to be taking any more steps to limit the powers of the House of Commons. I am sure that the Government will be able to find a way to deal with the situation, and I am sure that the House will be able to vote on the matter. I am sure that the Government will be able to find a way to deal with the situation, and I am sure that the House will be able to vote on the matter. I am sure that the Government will be able to find a way to deal with the situation, and I am sure that the House will be able to vote on the matter.

There has been a revival of religion in the Wesleyan Academy, among L. C.—a letter from the President on this subject will be inserted in our next.
