Here's a Hard One.

We have been asked so many amazing questions by readers that it is a little difficult to pick out the craziest. One, however, which remains indelibly on our memory was: "Whether a chimera buzzing in a vacuum would be able to devour second intentions?" What do you think about it?

Tropical Fruits in Venezuela.

All sorts of tropical fruits, such as oranges, limes, bananas, plantains, mangoes, pawpaw, etc., and all sorts of vegtables are grown in Venesuela in sufficient quantities for local market, where they are very cheap, but none is being exported from this district.

Been Buying on Margin?

"You have no reason to be ashamed of your poverty if you acquire it honestly," remarks Life. Tut! One may have acquired it honestly enough, but so blamed foolishly as to be mightily ashamed of it

Thing to Be Feared.

"No, the fear of falling never enters my head," said the aviator to his gaping hearers. "What scares me is the danger of stalling my engine about two miles up and not being able to get down.

Art Note.

An art writer of Boston says there is now very little for the painters to do but fight. Why don't they paint portraits of porterhouse steaks smothered with onions?

Daily Thought.

Every person is responsible for all the good within the scope of his abilities, and for no more, and none can tell whose sphere is the largest.—Gail Hamilton.

Be Sure It's Worth It.

Who would boast a victory that cost no strategy and no careful disposition of the forces? But let a man be very sure that the city is worth the siege.—Ik Marvel.

Forget It.

The time wasted in complaining because the job is hard would often be more than sufficient to put that job on the list of "has-beens."

Reaches the Apex.

Any man who refuses to argue with a woman possesses the Solomon brand of wisdom.

Versatile Windmill.

A windmill in Europe grinds grain to flour for a baker and then mixes and kneads it into dough.

Hold Up Your Head.

A QUAINT EXPERIENCE.

The Fact of Being Blown Up by a Shell.

To be blown up by a shell is a quaint experience, but devoid of excitement. Things happen so quickly that there is no time for psychological gymnastics. The events of your early life refrain from flashing across your brain in a second — at least mine did—and there is no preliminary agony of mind! at the moment, too, no physical pain. You simply get what is coming to you, and invariably you get it with merciful despatch.

"Pop across and take over No. 10 Platoon," said the adjutant. "Magrath's a casualty. Will you go now or wait a wee while?"

The Hun had just put down a barrage on us. Between me and the Tenth Legion shells were dropping with disgusting frequency. And Sergeant McEachern — my sergeant — was watching me understandingly.

"I'll go now," I said.

I could have got there more quickly if I had trotted—sooner still if I had run. But I was sure that sergeant of mine was still watching me, still smiling grimly. He was a fine old sergeant, with ribbons on his breast and a twinkle in his eyes. I didn't have any ribbons. It may be that I had a twinkle, perhaps even a smile. I hope so. Anyhow, I would show him.

I walked.

About fifty yards was the distance I had accomplished. The crescendo scream of the shell told me it was going to land somewhere near. It dropped fifty yards behind me. I glanced back and saw the cloud of black smoke drifting with the wind.

"Poor old McEachern!" I said. "King's and Queen's South African, 1914 Star, Military Medal, D.C.M.— but maybe he's just wounded — a Blighty."

I sighed.

This time the shell-scream sounded a little shriller. I wonder if it would drop in front of me or in rear. I wondered if it had my name on it. It had.

A week later I woke up. A nurse was standing by my bed.

"Feel all right now?" she asked.

I grinned. White sheets in a bed felt good to me.

"Drink this and tell me how it happened."

"Something about a shell," I answered. "Went into the ground under my feet, then—this. It's lovely tea."

That meant I had a broken leg, a broken arm and a headache.

British Oil Production.

The question of the production of fuel oil from home sources has been investigated by a committee appointed by the Minister of Munitions, and under the chairmanship of the Marquess of Crewe. The report, just issued, states that the best method is the carbonization of cannel coal in existing vertical retorts at gas works, although no very largely increased quantity of oil can be obtained from this source during the war owing to difficulties of labor, coal transport, etc. The Petroleum Research Department had recommended the erection of batteries of a form of low temperature retort for the carbonization of cannel coal, but an experimental investigation of low temperature processes by the Ministry has proved that the proposal was impracticable, on the grounds of expense, shortage of labor, time involved, and the fact that the mineral is not available in the quantities which the first investigations indicated. The committee indicates other sources of supply as available in the future. These sources include boring for oil in Great Britain, the further development of the Scottish shale oil industry and the increased carbonation of raw coal. In this latter connection the report states that some 1,250,000 tons of fuel oil might be obtained from every 20,000,000 tons of coal carbonized.

William McFarlane, a Jerseyville farmer, was found guilty on the charges of using language calculated to weaken the united effort in the war, and was fined $50 and costs.

Oozing Fountain Pens.

An application of heavy oil to the joints of a fountain pen will effectively overcome the oozing out of ink at these places, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The types of fountain pens, having points which disappear by turning a section of the barrel, sometimes leak because of wear. To remedy this, soak the pen in warm water and permit to dry, particularly inside. Then apply oil on the spindle that is revolved. Heavy cylinder oil is the best for the purpose. The lubricant should be worked through the bearing from end to end. The pen is then refilled and excess oil wiped off.

Fighting Doors.

All the doors should swing high enough from the floor to clear any rugs placed near them. And they should be placed so that they will not jam against one another. I know of two doors in a house that persist in locking knobs just as two angry bulls lock horns in mortal combat—or is it deer that do this? And when these doors are in that position, you can't get out, but have to back out, go around another way and separate them. We don't intend having any doors like that in this house.—Harry L. Shumway, in House Beautiful.

Garbage Utilization.

Hogs can be made to utilize much eatable material which would otherwise be wasted, according to a statement issued by the Connecticut Agricultural college. The report calls attention to the saving accomplished in Minneapolis, where between $50,000 and $60,000 is saved annually by using swine to consume the garbage of the city instead of burning it. Whereas Minneapolis formerly operated its garbage disposal at a loss, the city now receives $1.26 per ton for its garbage as hog feed.

Shortest Railroad.

You have heard of shortest railroads before. Always they're the most abbreviated ever. But off-hand one would grant the prize to Missoula, Mont. It has a railroad only 100 feet long. It connects the Northern Pacific with the C. M. & St. P., and is used as a transfer. It has no equipment, no employes, and no stations, yet the company that owns it gets 50 cents for every car that passes over its rails. Sixteen thousand have done so thus far. Think of it.—Popular Science Monthly.
