

CANADIAN BORDER CENTRE OF PEACE

This Assertion Made by Dr. Jordan in Lecture on "The Case Against War."

Indianapolis, Ind., July 4.—To an audience of keenly attentive listeners that filled the large auditorium of Roberts Park Church, Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr. University, spoke on "The Case Against War." The lecture was given under the auspices of the Women's Franchise League. Dr. Jordan in beginning his address said that the most important political movement of our time is the movement that is going forward with the purpose of taking the unreasoning anger that leads to war out of the councils of the world.

He said that almost a hundred years ago Napoleon started out for the invasion of Russia with an army composed of almost as many young men as there are in Indiana and Kentucky. He started to cure the Tsar of Russia of his bad manners and met the Tsar's forces at Borodino. It was not worth while for a great soldier like Napoleon to bother with the dead and wounded. Of this great army of nearly six hundred thousand men only twenty thousand, naked, weak and starved, stalked back. Men who were weak or ill had been cast aside as not worth caring about.

The lecturer said that after our war of 1812 an agreement was made between the United States and Great Britain as to the Canadian boundary line, and that line has since been a boundary of absolute peace, because along its length of four thousand miles, there is not a fortress, a soldier, nor a rifle. "We are not afraid of Canada, nor is Canada afraid of us. The centre of the peace of the world is somewhere near Niagara Falls. As there are no arms we can only have a war of words," he said.

Dr. Jordan was of opinion that too much stress was laid on the bravery of the fighting man, and held that there are so many brave men found in private life when an emergency arises as may be found on the field of battle, and that it does not require courage to go out and kill men by wholesale. He said we now have guns that will sweep men off fifteen miles away as easily as one may sweep grasshoppers off a fence with a garden hose.

He then told the story of the house of Rothschild, founded by the Frankfurt pawnbroker, which came to be most powerful in the nineteenth century, and he said that today without the consent of this house and allied pawnbrokers there can be no great war in Europe.

Discriminating between bankers and money lenders or pawnbrokers, he said that bankers were opposed to wars, that their profit was in peace-

Veteran of Indian Wars Now a Judge

CAPTAIN SUM-KIN, FOR THREE YEARS A POLICE JUDGE.

Among the old Indian characters alive on the Umattilla Reservation today, there is one who is as familiar to the white inhabitants of the country as to his tribesmen—Captain Sum-Kin, for three years Indian Police Judge.

He acquired the title of "Captain" while he was captain of Indian police in which capacity he established an enviable reputation, having shown on many occasions that not only was he faithful and fair in the performance of his duties but absolutely fearless. Many of his friends maintain that Sum-Kin does not possess that particular element, found in nearly all mankind, which inspires fear.

Conditions. Of the Japanese war scare he said that country is occupied with her own affairs and spoke of the ridiculous fright that came from Magdalena Bay, where as a matter of fact there were just six Japanese, and these were engaged in canning crabs.

He showed the great waste of war in the virility of the race. War takes the young and vigorous and leaves the weak to carry on the race. The Roman empire failed when the strong Romans were gone. Greece failed in the same way. These Greeks fought with each other until they were gone, and the country was filled up with the odds and ends of humanity. So, with Spain, which country a Spanish writer said: "Spain makes men and wastes them." The slumly is a product of war. Without war there would be no slums.

To-day's Impressions To-morrow's Sales

- Many a September purchase is really decided in July.
- Many a woman is gathering information to-day that will influence her selection of a stove two months hence.
- Many a man is thinking right now about the store he will patronize for his Fall suit and overcoat.
- Many an October piano purchase is really determined on the porch of a summer hotel or home in August.
- How unwise, then, to put off the Advertising of these and similar articles until the actual time of their use arrives.
- One advertisement seldom makes a sale. It is the repeated impressions created by Advertising that develops purchases by a discriminating public—and these impressions are seldom built up in a day, a week or a month.
- Yet some manufacturers and merchants still procrastinate until the first nip of frost is felt—and then besiege the public with belated announcements of Fall clothes, kitchen ranges, home furnishings, winter underwear, and other articles usually purchased in the Fall.
- Purchased in the Fall—oh, yes—but decided upon in the Summer. Decided in favor of the goods that are continuously advertised.
- It's the Advertising read in July that bears fruit in September and October. For to-day's impressions inevitably lead to to-morrow's sales.

WOODLANDS.

Woodlands, July 1.—Our public school examination was held on June 27. The school room was decorated with maple leaves, roses and ferns. The school room was crowded with visitors, who spent a very pleasant afternoon listening to the review of the term's work and also to a programme given by the pupils and teacher. The programme consisted of a number of recitations by the pupils and also one by the teacher, and a number of songs sung by the pupils, with music furnished by the teacher. After the programme the pupils marched to the grounds, where they saluted the flag and all joined in the National Anthem. A lunch furnished by the ladies present was enjoyed by all. The visitors present gave Miss Treadwell great credit for the way the school has been conducted. We all join in wishing her a pleasant vacation and we are glad to know that she will be with us for another year.

KINGSLEY.

Kingsley, July 1.—The weather is much cooler these last few days after the heavy thunder storm on Wednesday evening. The farmers find this a very disagreeable spring on account of so much wet weather. Some have not finished in this vicinity. Mr. George MacFarlane, of Plaster Rock, arrived here on Thursday with his young bride. They were welcomed by the young folks with a charivari. After spending a few days here they will return to Plaster Rock, where they will make their future home. Messrs. Fred Steen and Gordon Foster, who have just finished their course at the Fredericton Business College, are spending a few days at home. After a short vacation they will start to work in Fredericton. The pie social and concert which was held in the school house here a few weeks ago proved a grand success. Although the weather was not favorable the house was crowded. The concert was fine, all the young folks played their parts well, and much credit is due to the teacher, Miss Zea Currie, who had charge of the concert. Mrs. Samuel Currie, who has been away to Eastport, Maine, to attend the wedding of her sister, arrived home on Thursday evening.
