supply of seamen belonging to the merchant marine who can be drafted at pleasure into the royal fleet. Destruction in such a case means more than the word usually implies; it is the impossibility of renewing the thing destroy-ed, except under circumstances which all but multifier its nea.

ed, except under careacteristics and extended in the look to the probable issue of the struggle by land, still greater obstacles and difficulties must embarrase his troops, and that they will be driven ingloriously across the Pruth by the combined forces of Turkey, Engagery, and the look of th they will be driven ingloriously across the Pruth by the combined forces of Turkey, England, and France is not so much a matter of conjecture as of certainty. Prince Paskiewitsch, a feeble tettering old man, more than 70 years of age, is the instrument selected to command the Russian army on the Danube, and the leading morning journal atters no more than a traism when it says that he is not the man "to extricate the Russian army from the great difficulty in which it is placed, with an enemy in strong positions behind, a great river all along its front, and the probability that it will shortly be menaced on both flanks by an European army composed of the best troops in the world." It is said to be sweet and glorious to die for one's country,—a species of amuseto die for one's country,—a species of amus ment which the Russian Emperor is evident chalking out for a large number of his subject

HASZARD'S GAZETTE. Saturday, March 25, 1854.

The English Mail did not arrive until Thursday hight. The news will be found on the first and second pages of our paper.

We went by invitation the day before yesterday to see the Steam Mill just erected by the Mr. J. Scantlebury, commence operations. There were four men employed, one at an upright saw cutting out a felloe for a wheel, another at a lathe turning and polishing an iron axletree, a third, at another lathe turning a bed-post, and the fourth at a bench, hathe turning a bee-post, and the routh at a beneh, ripping plank, by means of a circular saw. A vacant dram was pointed out to as as istended for a strap to drive an immence grindetone which was standing in a corner. It was a cheering and agreeable eight to see so much work performed with so little bustle. Turning lather and circular saws are nothing uncommon, but an upright saw cutting with the most perfect case a two inch hard wood plank in the segment of a circle, is to us at least a novelty, but we fully appreciate the advantages gained by this rangement.

These are called labor saving machines, and so they unquestionably are, but they are at the same time labour creating machines, for the demand on the part of Mr. Scautlebury for supplies of the raw material will be augmented in a tenfold ratio, and in a very short time they will be enabled to supply better and more perfectly finished articles in their better and more perfectly finished articles in their line, at a cheaper rate to the public, and at a mere remanerating profit to themselves, than under the old hand lahour system. These are the sort of improvements that we wish to see fostered and encouraged, not by bounties or exclusive privileges but simply by removing the existing impediments, in the shape of impost and exise duties, and rendering them exempt from such burthens in feture. Many will say that this is in effect granting a bounty and to a certain degree this is true, for it is an encouragement to erect and perfect similar establishments to the one just described, but there is this essential difference—A bounty is taken from the pocket of every tax payer in the Island who contributes in proportion to the sum he pays to the revenue, while the re we advocate simply exempts the party claiming the benefit of it, an addition to an outlay for which he may or may not be udequately remunerated. It is one thing to ask a neighbour to put his shoulder to the wheel, o his horse in the shafts, for the purpose of ass you with his labour to overcome the obstacles in the road, and another and quite different affair, in request ng him not to place such impediments in your way but to leave the course open to your own unfettered exertions. Nothing could exceed the case and regu larity with which the machine performed its work The whole reflects great credit on Mr. Scantlebury

The Presbytery of Prince Edward Island met at Cavendish on the 8th inst., when a call was presented to Mr. James McGregor McKay by the congregation of Cascumpec and West, Point. The several sessions under the inspection of the Presbytery, were enjoined to transmit, without delay, accounts of the state of religion, within their respective bounds to the Rev. James Allan, or the Rev. Isaac Murray, who were appointed by the Presbytery to receive them. The annual statistical returns were ordered to be forwarded at next meeting of Presbytery, to take place at the Presbyterian Church near Haslem's, on the first Wednesday of May at eleven o'clock, when a scrnnon will be preached by the Rev. Henry Crawford of St. Peter's.
