

Words of Wisdom.

There are men who no more grasp the truth than a sparrow grasps the message passing through the electric wire on which it perches.
Flowers never emit so sweet and strong a fragrance as before a storm. Beauzeous soul! when the storm approaches thee, be as fragrant as a sweet smelling flower.
Whoever looks for a friend without imperfections will never find what he seeks. We love ourselves with all our faults, and we ought to love our friends in a like manner.
We are always doing each other injustice, and thinking better or worse of each other than we deserve, because we only hear and see separate words and actions. We do not see each other's whole nature.
Whenever a new and startling fact is brought to light in science, people first say, "It is not true," then that "it is contrary to religion," and lastly, that "everybody knew it before."
No man knows, at his first entrance upon any sin, how far it may carry him or where it will stop; the commission of sin being generally like the pouring out of water which, when once poured out, knows no other bounds but to run as far as it can.
Without earnestness no man is ever great, or does really great things. He may be the cleverest man; he may be brilliant, entertaining, popular, but he will want weight. No soul-moving picture was ever painted that had not in its depths a shadow.
There is no bank or bar of difficulty over which God will not so deepen the waters as to float us over it, provided we entreat him so to do; but special exigencies call for special earnestness and importunity in prayer. Earnest prayer is the inspired prophet of approaching joy.
We look back to former times and the struggles that then were, and wish we had been helpers in the fight; but there is honorable warfare now, and if we see not what must be done now, or have not the courage to do it, if we can see, neither should we have had vision or courage then.
The most strict, and severe and suspicious persons, are precisely those who are most often deceived. Suspicion is so rarely directed aright, that cunning is more than a match for it; and oppression ever begets cunning, which is the dwarfed and deformed cleverness of the slave.
TRUE GENTILITY.—Gentility is neither in birth, wealth, manner, nor fashion, but in the mind. A high sense of honor, determination never to take a mean advantage of another, and politeness towards those with whom we have dealings, are the essential characteristics of a gentleman.
There is an elasticity in the human mind capable of bearing much, but which will not show itself until a certain weight be put upon it; its powers may be compared to vehicles whose springs are so contrived that they get on smoothly enough when loaded, but jolt when they have nothing to bear.
There is an inconsistency in anger very common in life, which is, that those who are vexed to impatience are angry to see others less disturbed than themselves; but when others begin to rave, they immediately see in them what they could not find in themselves; the deformity and folly of useless rage.
HOW TO PAY CHURCH DEBTS.—There are two ways to pay a church debt. One is for the congregation to subscribe the money, at the cost of some self sacrifice, and pay the debt as people pay any debt. The other way is to devise various means to get somebody else to pay the debt, or to help pay it. Under this latter head come bazaars, concerts, and various entertainments of one sort and another. We have very little faith in this second way of paying a church debt. Not to speak of the gambling and cheating that have characterized many such entertainments, and brought indelible disgrace upon the churches concerned in them, it is too costly a way of paying a debt. The method was well described by a Presbyterian elder as follows: "Now, brethren, let us get up a supper and eat ourselves rich. Buy your food. Then give it to the church. Then go buy it back again. Then eat it up, and then—your church debt is paid." This is a fair summing up of the whole thing. For every dollar of the debt the church pays two dollars by this roundabout course; and that, too, without reckoning the time and labor given to manage the entertainments as worth anything. The hope of getting help from "outsiders" is generally delusive. In nine times out of ten the money will be found to have come out of the pockets of the congregation. Merely as a matter of dollars and cents, therefore, putting all moral considerations on one side, the cheapest way to pay a church debt is to pay it out-and-out, and have done with it. A church that takes this course, moreover, acquires a reputation in the community for straightforwardness and honor that is above all price, and a most efficient help in its religious work. Still, if a church prefers to pay two dollars for one, and so throw away precious time and strength, let suffer loss when it seeks for gain

Farm and Garden.

HINTS TO DAIRYMEN.—The most enterprising and successful dairymen carry on what is known as winter dairying. Every one cannot make butter in winter, and the dairymen are compelled to do their business in the summer season. But no one is obliged to sell his product as soon as it is made, unless it is so made that immediate sale is necessary to preserve it from deterioration. If butter is well made and well packed it may be kept for six months with perfect safety, and some experts are convinced that the best made butter ripens and improves in flavor by keeping, because the particular essential oils which give the aroma to good butter become slowly developed when the latter is perfectly well packed and preserved from the atmosphere.
Fall-grade butter, from the fresh growth of grass which is now beginning to spring, as the cool, dewy nights and seasonable showers occur, is of as choice a quality as any. The success of the dairy business depends upon excellence of product and sales made when the highest prices are current. Doubtless the mere suggestion of these points will draw mature consideration to them from our interested readers.
NOTES ON FEEDING STOCK.—The food which is given to our domestic animals is two classes, one producing fat, and the other building up muscle and fiber. The condition of the animal depends not so much on what is eaten as upon what is digested and assimilated. The two operations constantly going on are the destruction of exhausted portions of the body and the building up of new tissues in their place. What may be wholesome food for one kind of animal or for one individual, may not be so for another. Working horses and oxen must be fed on the most digestible food and that most capable of supplying the wasted tissues, muscles, bones and flesh. Dr. Volleker, a noted chemist, in the course of his inquiries on these points, found that cattle thrive better on cutstraw than do horses; but sheep do not digest chaff as easily as horses do; that woody fiber of plants is hard to digest, but the soft produces fat. Straw cut and mixed with chaff, then steamed and mixed with cut beets, carrots, or parsnips, forms a good food for both cattle and horses. As a rule, horses require to have their food more condensed, that is, with less waste about it, than do cattle. Oats and grain are much better if crushed, particularly when they are to be fed to old horses. Bran, though nutritious, has too relaxing an effect upon the digestive organs, and must be used carefully. Musty food injures live stock, especially horses, making them short of breath. It pays to steam food on a large scale for dairy purposes. The amount of water contained in common food is surprising; hay has from 14 to 16 per cent., dry grain the same, green fodder 75 to 80 per cent., potatoes 75 per cent., and turnips 91 per cent.
A BUNCH OF SUGGESTIONS.—An inventive genius filled a small tarlatan sack with a spoonful of cayenne pepper, and tacked it over the rat-hole. When the rat bounced out his eyes were peppered by the sifting from the shaken sack. He squealed like a pig and escaped. The whole tribe have since migrated.—Decaying vegetables in dwelling-house cellars, with defective ventilation and drainage; provide employment for the doctor and the grave-digger.—Rubber makes a serviceable covering for the bit of a tender-mouthed horse. Each side of the bit should be protected with a stiff, circular piece of leather.—Kerosene oil and lampblack make the best paint for lettering packages for shipment, drying quickly. Kerosene should be used to remove gum from axle-trees before oiling.—Bones sufficient to fertilize ten acres are scattered about most farms. Our plaster mills can grind them.—Throw the house slops on the compost heap. Is there any other safe place for them on the farm grounds? The value of the soap used in a large family, for fertilizing, is considerable.—Milk and eggs are palatable, healthful and economical articles of food. They are too common with ruralists for just appreciation.—Hoop iron and edgings from the lumber yard, of various sizes, accomplish wonderful results in repair and construction on the farm, in ingenious hands. Supplies from the hardware stores are often worth many times their value. A five cent bolt is cheap at a dollar when needed for repairing sudden breaks.—No nurseryman can dispense with willows for tying bundles. They are equally valuable to farmers, and can be grown as elders, in any moist spot.—My horse-shoer says the hoof should not be pared at the heel. Being more easily cut than the toe, it is often the point of attack, resulting in tenderness of foot.—Buckwheat flour is improved by adding say one-third Graham flour.—We experimented with harrowing wheat fields this spring previous to sowing clover seed.

Lady Beautifiers.—Ladies, you cannot make fair skin, rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes with all the cosmetics of France, or beautifiers of the world, while in poor health, and nothing will give you such good health, strength and beauty as Hop Bitters. A trial is certain proof. See another column.

READ THE FOLLOWING.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 2, 1880.
The writer has been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer now for the last six years, and can confidently recommend it to the public as a sure remedy for Cholera, Diarrhoea, Sore Throat, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Burns, Scalds, &c. Have known it to cure a case of Syphilitic Sore Throat of two years' standing when all the usual remedies failed. The patient took half a teaspoonful in water three times a day, and gargled the throat three times a day as follows: one teaspoonful in a wine glass of water, and used as a gargle.
Yours, H. F. McCARTHY.

MATTLAND, Ont., February 26, 1880.
I have much pleasure in adding to the number of the numerous testimonials you have already received as to the value of your renowned Pain-Killer. I have sold it and used it in my family for twenty years or more, and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best patent medicine I have ever used for the purposes for which it is recommended; and, moreover, every person to whom I have ever sold it, has been perfectly satisfied with it, and I know many persons who will not go to bed at night unless they are sure there is a bottle of "Perry Davis'" in the house. All who have used it once, will use it again; it makes friends and retains them.
Yours truly, JOHN DUMBRILLE, Druggist.

SPENCERVILLE, Ont., February 26, 1880.
We have much pleasure in certifying that we have kept Perry Davis' Pain-Killer constantly in stock for upwards of twenty years, and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best of all other patent preparations, and has become an old, reliable family medicine. No effort is required now on our part to sell it, as it is as staple an article as flour in our trade.
Yours truly, W. P. IMRIE & CO.

MADOC, Ont., February 16, 1880.
It gives me much pleasure to state that during a drug career of more than a quarter century, I can testify that your justly celebrated Pain-Killer has not only held its own as a family medicine, but still occupies the front rank wherever duty calls it. My customers speak very highly of it, and I could send no end of testimonials showing up its merits and intrinsic worth, were it necessary, which it is not. It should, however, be called "Excelsior Pain-Killer." I pride myself in never being beaten.
Yours very respectfully, JOHN G. DEANS.

STOCCO, Ont., February 17, 1880.
We have great pleasure to state that the Pain-Killer holds its position in this place as the old, reliable family medicine. Although there are a great many other remedies being sold, some bear nearly the same name—as Pain Relief, Pain Remover, Pain Destroyer, and such like names, we find the people know the difference, and are sure to ask for Perry Davis' Pain-Killer. We have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the last fourteen years.
Yours truly, P. & P. MURPHY.

PORTLAND, Ont., March 9, 1880.
I have been using the Pain-Killer for many years with results that justify entitles me to recommend it. As a family medicine, we consider it almost indispensable; being good not only as a pain-killer, but for colds and sore throat, and many other ailments which it appears especially adapted. I have used it myself as a liniment, and find it valuable for rheumatism and neuralgic stiffness belonging to old age. I pronounce the Pain-Killer a good and cheap medicine, and I would not hesitate to recommend it to you as a family medicine.
Yours truly, THOS. GRAHAM.

RECOTT, Ont., March 4, 1880.
We hereby certify that we have used Perry Davis' Pain-Killer in our families for several years. We consider it a very useful and necessary article to be kept in all households as a remedy in case of accidents and exposure to attacks occasioned by colds.
JEREMIAH CURTIS,
J. J. DOWLEY,
JOSEPH P. REDMOND,
ARCH. GREER.

MATTLAND, Ont., February 25, 1880.
I have used your Pain-Killer for the last five years, and I believe I have had it with me all through the American War. I believe I would have died long ago, if it had not been for your Pain-Killer. I think it is the best remedy in the world which it is recommended.
Yours very truly, N. W. LAPOINTE.

PORTLAND, Ont., February 26, 1880.
I have sold the Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for over thirty years, and the same has always given my customers entire satisfaction, and I have much pleasure in recommending it as a good and reliable family medicine.
S. S. SCOVILL.

PRESCOTT, Ont., February 27, 1880.
I have sold your Pain-Killer for the last nineteen years in this place, and feel safe in recommending it to the public for the diseases given in your circular. I can assure you my customers speak well of it as a general family medicine. It takes the lead of all other similar preparations.
Yours, &c. GEO. DIRKS.

COBORO, Ont., March 3, 1880.
I have been selling Perry Davis' Pain-Killer for the past six years, and have much pleasure in stating that its sale in that time has been larger than any other patent medicine that I have on my shelves, and in those years I have never heard a customer say aught but words of the highest praise in its favor. It is an article that seems to have combined in it all that goes to make a first class family medicine, and as long as I have a house and store, Perry Davis' Pain-Killer will be found in it.
Yours, &c. J. E. KENNEDY.

MADOC, Ont., February 16, 1880.
Your Pain-Killer as a family cure-all has been in constant use in my household for a long term of years, and I would never desire a better one. It never fails me. I call it the "Old Reliable."
Yours very truly, HORACE SEYMOUR.

TAMMERTH, Ont., March 4, 1880.
For twenty-three years last past I have sold Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, and have always found it to give good satisfaction. I have the use of it in my family, and received great benefit from its use in that way. Although many imitations of it have been put on the market, and are "washed hard, yet the old, reliable Perry Davis' Pain-Killer holds its own, and is a very popular domestic medicine.
Yours respectfully, JAS. AYLSWORTH.
