Allies Extending Lines to Belgian Frontier. Brilliant Exploits of French Cavalry and Irish Lancers.

Special Evening Telegram.
BERLIN, To-day.
Edward Page Gaston, the American, who recently distributed blankets, underwear and clothing to British prisoners, was arrested here yesterday when about to depart from the city. The charge against him was made public. The American Ambassador endeavored to secure the release of Gaston. Gaston is well known in the United States and Europe as a Journalist and Lecturer. His home is Harv, Illinois. At the battlefield, the allied armies after having permitted their adversaries as they thought to exhaust themselves by continued attacks to-day took most vigorous offensive. The British and French however encountered such a strong resistance that their most advanced were compelled to fall back. Only at this part of the long battle line did the opposing troops actually come into close contact. The allied armies are continually extending toward the North and bending Eastward toward the Belgian frontier and are thus compelling the Germans, in order to prevent the crumbling up of their main army, to move large forces from the centre so as to keep pace with the allies whose positions menace the invaders along the whole line. The allies' plan, it is thought, may compel the German to release the pressure on the Belgians. The rapidity with which the French change their positions is remarkable. Two entire divisions of infantry marched nearly thirty miles on Saturday and twenty eight on Sunday. The Germans, however, by means of their aviation are continually flying over the lines, despite numerous casualties, discovered the movements and brought up reinforcements to meet them. As the Germans occupy the inside of the circle, they are able to reach an appointed spot with much shorter marches. It was this that enabled them to force the advanced guards of the allies to cede a small amount of ground until further assistance came. The French cavalry executed a daring raid at the back of the German lines where they blew up a railroad tunnel and escaped before their presence was discovered. The Irish Lancers and French Troopers performed a brilliant exploit at another point, getting between the Imperial Guards and their ammunition train by long dashes, they cut off supplies, destroying them so that the Guards' big guns were rendered temporarily useless. General Joan Reuss, seat of the French cavalry died of wounds to-day.

PARIS, To-day.
A despatch from Darazzo says Benate has named Essad Pasha, President of the Provisional Government of Albania. Essad Pasha was formerly Minister of War.

GERMAN FEARS.
ROME, To-day.
The German Press, according to a communication received here, thinks Great Britain is using pressure to induce the Scandinavian countries, particularly Denmark to abandon neutrality and participate in war against Germany. Deutsches Seeflugzeug, of Berlin, says it is rumored that many hostile ships have been seen in Shagerrack and Cattedog, adding if these ships are British it shows an intention to make a threatening demonstration against Scandinavian States, particularly Denmark.

FRENCH IN FULL POSSESSION OF ALSACE.
Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.
Telegraphing from Belfort, France, the correspondent of the Daily Mail says: The Germans are trying to make the world believe that they still hold Alsace, but as a matter of fact the French are there in their thousands, and so well established are they that the enemy has not dared to attack them. There is nothing in front of the French force of occupation—if they wish they can walk right through to the Rhine.

CRISIS IN SPAIN.
Special Evening Telegram.
NEW YORK, To-day.
A cable from Madrid to the Tribune says: The long expected crisis caused by the political parties favoring and opposing war is at hand, and it is officially announced to-day that the Government had decided to postpone the opening of Parliament in order to avoid a discussion affecting the neutrality of Spain, which seemed inevitable on account of the attitude of the different parliamentary groups. As soon as the report became known, Count Romanes, the leader of the Liberal Party, called a conference of the most prominent members of his party, which was attended by several former members of the Cabinet. It was decided at the meeting to urge the Government to open Parliament without delay, thereby complying with the provisions of the Constitution. It is taken for granted that, as soon as the Lower House is in session the Liberals will force a debate on the neutrality of Spain. Newspapers print open letters sent by Freemasons in Spain inviting their colleagues in Spain to start a campaign in favor of France. Although Freemasonry in Spain does not form a strong organization, the appeal will be accepted by the progressive element.

German Theologians and War.

A Reply from Anglican and Non-conformist Churchmen.

(Canadian Press Cable.)
London, Sept. 29.—In reply to the appeal addressed by German theologians to "Evangelical Christians abroad," a manifesto was issued here to-day, signed by the heads of the established Church of England and by Non-conformist leaders, justifying England's action in connection with the European war.

The manifesto refers to the authors of the German document as "men whose honesty, capacity and good faith, there can be no question," but expresses amazement that such men should commit themselves to a statement concerning the political causes of the war which depart so strangely from what seem to us to be plain facts in this grave hour of European history.

"It is upon these facts we rest our assured convictions that for men who desire to maintain the paramount obligation of fidelity to their plighted word and their duty in defending weaker nations against violence and wrong, no possible course was open but that which our country has taken."

After reviewing the negotiations that preceded the war the manifesto continues: "We can only suppose, incredible as it seems, that those honorable and gifted men who signed the German appeal were unaware of the obligations to which we were bound, and also of the story of the negotiations."

After expressing the hope that the time will come when it again will be their privilege to work with the German theologians in behalf of Christianity, the signers of to-day's manifesto adds: "There must be no mistake about our position. Eagerly desirous of peace, foremost to the best of our ability in furthering it to promote a close fellowship between England and Germany, we nevertheless, have been driven to declare that dear to us as peace is, the principles of truth and honor are yet more dear. We have taken our stand for international good faith, for the safe-guarding of smaller nationalities, for the upholding of the essential conditions of brotherhood among the nations of the world."

Among the signers of the manifesto are the Archbishops of Canterbury, York and Armagh; the Bishop of London, the Rev. R. J. Campbell, Dr. John Clifford, the Rev. F. B. Mayer, Dr. Campbell Morgan and Dr. Robertson M. Nicholls.

Fads and Fashions.
Broad hip sashes crossed in an original fashion mark many of the new evening robes.

This season the fashionable woman will stand erectly and have her arms definitely defined.

The all-black frock with an artistic dash of color promises to be fashionable this winter.

Velvet mingled with souple cloths or cashmere de sole is much used on the new winter models.

The short shoulder cape appears on some of the new travelling manics, called nauticant artilerie.

Underwear of cotton crepe, extremely simple, in white or in dusty colors, is fashionable and practical.

Felt effects in tulle overskirts, shaped in a variety of styles, will be popular for young girls' dance dresses.

Long sleeves will continue to be worn even when the longer sleeves of winter are here. The gloves will be worn over the sleeves.

Sleeves of velvet costumes are in marked contrast to those of the strictly tailored suits. The latter are invariably set in; the former continue the vague long shoulder line.

A reverse fashioned in gold braiding and a little gold introduced on the broad inlet belt to many long loose coats is a bright note that adds a certain cachet to the new models.

For the Men at the Front

Lord God of Hosts, whose mighty hand Dominion holds on sea and land, In Peace and War Thy Will we see Shaping the larger liberty.

Nations may rise and nations fall— Thy Changeless Purpose rule them all.

When Death flies swift on wave or field, Be Thou a sure defence and shield! Console and succour those who fall, And help and hearten each and all!

Oh, hear a people's prayer for those Who fearless face their country's foe!

For those who weak and broken lie, In weariness and agony— Great Healer, to their beds of pain Come, touch, and make them whole again!

Oh, hear a people's prayers, and bless Thy servants in their hour of stress!

For those to whom the quick call came, We ask Thy peace, in Jesu's name, The toil, the bitterness are past, We trust them to Thy Love at last.

Who nobly striving, nobly fall!

For those who minister and heal, And spend themselves, their skill, their zeal— Renew their hearts with Christian faith, And guard them from disease and death.

And in Thine own good time, Lord, send Thy Peace on earth till Time shall end!

—John Oxenham, in the "Christian World."

To be sung to the tune "Melita"— "Eternal Father, strong to save."

Death of a Centenarian
This morning the death occurred of a centenarian in the person of Mrs. Ann Stevenson, at the residence of her grandson, on New Gower Street, though after a very short illness.
