Prostrated—64 Victims in New York Last Week—A Strange

Story from Texas.

VIENNA, Jan. 26.—The Duchess Ludovica of Savoy, mother of Emperor Elizabeth of Austria, is dying of influenza complicated with pneumonia.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—All the hospitals of this city are so crowded with patients as a result of the epidemic of influenza, that there is no room for sufferers and the municipal authorities have been compelled to ask the Government to permit the use of vacant barracks as temporary hospitals for the large number of afflicted persons seeking relief.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—There is a growing demand for a Royal Commission to inquire into the possibility of relief from the scourge of the grippe. The epidemic is somewhat less virulent this year than formerly, but is more widespread in its ravages. There are thousands of victims among the employees of the Underground Railway and thousands more among the postoffice clerks. These services are so badly crippled as to cause public inconvenience. The number of members of Parliament prostrated by the disease is so large, and the sanitary condition of the Houses of Parliament is so bad, that the Ministers are likely to postpone the session until the wave of illness shall have subsided. Funeral directors are reaping a golden harvest due to the grippe. The increased demand for their services has had the effect of stimulating competition. A novel method of attracting custom has been adopted by one undertaker in the East End. He causes a hearse to be drawn through the streets, bearing a large sign with his name and address, and the announcement that his charges for conducting a funeral are only 24 shillings and 6 pence. The hearse is accompanied by a band of music, and the undertaker is dressed in black, and the device succeeds in attracting much attention.

New York, Jan. 26.—Last week the death toll total was 907. Of the death toll pneumonia had caused 122; consumption, 20; Bright's disease, 41; violence, 20. Grip and its complications killed 64 people during the week. The latter is believed to be steadily decreasing, and it is hoped will soon be completely wiped out.

Indian Agent Sautin, of the principal Indian agency of the territory, says 100 Pimas have died in the past three weeks of grippe. The epidemic is spreading throughout the Papagoes and other adjoining tribes. Whole villages have been depopulated. Apparently no relief is at hand.

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 26.—Mason Evans, the much-punished man of Monroe county, is dead. La grippe took him off. Evans had been a great curiosity in this section for more than 40 years, during which time he had roamed in the woods apart from the comforts of civilization, subsisting on roots and herbs dug from the earth, with an occasional fowl surreptitiously taken from some convenient barnyard. He was captured several times, but always managed to escape. Seven or eight years ago he was captured by some fearless fellows with an enterprising turn of mind for the purpose of entering him in a circus. When taken his body was as hairy as that of a bear and covered with filth and vermin. His eye gleamed like the eye of a maniac and he had almost lost the power of speech.

For twenty years he lived in a cave of the Clinch Mountains, and was never known to have spoken a word during that time. He lived in a state of nudity, and was fond of raw meat. Those who knew his history say that he was born in 1827. He received a splendid education. At 20 years of age he engaged in teaching school, and fell in love with a young lady of his neighborhood. She received his attentions with favor. One night he called and asked her to become his wife. She said no. He went out in the darkness and it was many years before he was seen again, and then he died from his fellow-men like a wild beast. Wild with love, he died with grippe.

"Sam'l of Posen" on Trial.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 26.—The trial of M. B. Curtis (known as "Sam'l of Posen") for the murder of Policeman Grant, commenced here yesterday. A sensational rumor was abroad that the other party to the trial was not only innocent of the crime but the victim of a police conspiracy. Mr. Grant, A. Knight, counsel for Curtis, said: "The case of Mr. Curtis is simply one of conspiracy and persecution by the police department. Curtis is an innocent man, and we will have no difficulty in securing for him a triumphant acquittal. We will prove at the trial that there were men with Policeman Grant on the night of the shooting. Both men were under arrest, and a policeman had the nippers on the wrists of both. One of them was M. B. Curtis. The other unknown prisoner was the man who fired the shot that killed Grant."

SOCIETY SHOCKED!
By the Marriage of a Wealthy Chinaman and a Handsome Boosier School Girl.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Pang Yun, a wealthy Chinaman of Indianapolis, and Ida Norton, also of Indianapolis, and daughter of a wealthy family, were married here last night. The elite of Chicago society was treated to a genuine sensation and carried the festivities far into the night. Pang Yun has the distinction of being the richest Chinaman between New York and San Francisco. He is 40 years old, and only recently graduated from the high school. She is a handsome brunette. It was a case of elopement. A minister performed the ceremony, but his identity is kept secret.

Must Make Their Money Last.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Calvin Bronson died on Monday, leaving $1,000,000 to one daughter and six grandchildren. He spent the last years of his life in the management of the estate for twenty years, during which time they may enjoy $1,000 a year each. They have given notice they would contest the will, alleging the testator to have been of unsound mind.

Proposed Penny Postage.
LONDON, Jan. 26.—Henniker Heaton, M.P., the postal reformer, has just made an important offer to Mr. Goschen, which, if accepted, will institute an ocean penny postage. Mr. Heaton, with two friends, an Australian miller and an English capitalist, has offered to guarantee the British Government against all loss if a penny postage be established between the English-speaking peoples of the British Empire and the United States of America. The probable loss was estimated by Mr. Goschen himself at £75,000 per annum, but Heaton maintains that the loss would not extend over more than three years, and that after that ocean penny postage would make a profit, as has been the case with the inland penny postage. Mr. Goschen says the Government cannot accept Mr. Heaton's offer. The latter will bring the matter before Parliament.

Death of Grand Duke Constantine.
LONDON, Jan. 26.—Grand Duke Constantine, uncle of the Czar and father of the Queen of Greece, is dead. The late Grand Duke was grand admiral of the imperial fleet. He was born Sept. 21 (or, according to the old style, which is still in use in Russia), on Sept. 1827. In his capacity as admiral, the Grand Duke Constantine once arrested his elder brother, father of the present Emperor of Russia, who was on board his ship at the time. For this, the Grand Duke Constantine was himself placed under arrest for a considerable time by his father. The late admiral of the imperial navy married, Aug. 30, 1848, the Princess Alexandra, daughter of Duke Joseph of Saxony. In addition to being grand admiral of Russia, he was commander of the fourth brigade infantry of the Russian army. He was a member of the council of military schools and president of the grand council of the empire.

Dr. Tyerson, eye and ear specialist, of Toronto, will be at the Trencham House on Saturday, Feb. 6, for consultation.

A WOMAN'S SACRIFICE.

Will Marry a Convict to Save Him from Punishment.

Julia Dempsey Comes from Newfoundland to Wed Laurence O'Toole, and Finds Him Charged with Burglary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—An attractive young woman pleading for the release of a convict, that she might marry and reform him, was one of the strange pictures that attracted attention yesterday morning in the Adams Street Court, Brooklyn. Her plea was successful and the man was released on condition that he marry the girl and leave Brooklyn to-morrow morning.

The story has a prelude. On the night of Jan. 10 Detectives Rall and Ryan caught two thieves breaking into a show case at Washington and Myrtle avenues. The men scammed off, but were recaptured. One of them was Laurence O'Toole, 25, of No. 53 Johnson street, and his companion registered as Thomas Brown. The prisoners were tried and convicted. Their defense was an alibi. They declared that they were not in the city at the time they were caught smashing the show case. They were remanded for sentence. Two men, friends of O'Toole, called on Judge Walsh Friday and said they had an odd proposition to make.

"State it and be brief," said the judge.

They said that O'Toole wanted to reform and give up his wayward career and marry a young woman who was in love with him. The young woman was Julia Dempsey, the daughter of a well-to-do grocer of St. Johns, Newfoundland. She had become acquainted with him while on a visit to Brooklyn and was captivated by him. Hearing of his last trouble she had determined to come to Brooklyn and marry him if his release could be secured. When they had finished their story Judge Walsh said he would answer the matter after he had seen the girl.

Yesterday morning an attractive and neatly dressed young woman, accompanied by O'Toole's friend called on Raymond street jail. The girl was Miss Dempsey. One of the keepers conducted them to O'Toole's cell. The young woman was greeted effusively by the prisoner, who put his hand between the iron bars to shake that of his sweetheart, who cried hysterically.

Her escorts stepped back and there was a whispered conference between the couple. When it was finished the cell door was opened and the prisoner was told to get ready to go to court. The party walked down to Myrtle avenue and boarded a car. The young woman and the prisoner sat side by side and talked most earnestly about their plans. When Adams street was reached the party got off and hurried to the court room.

Judge Walsh disposed of the cases before him and then he called the party up to his desk. He questioned the young woman closely and her answers seemed satisfactory. She said she had just come from St. Johns and desired to marry O'Toole. She believed he was a good man at heart, and would reform if he got a chance. Addressing the prisoner, his Honor said to him if he appreciated "the sacrifice this girl is ready to make for you."

"I appreciate it thoroughly," said the prisoner.

His Honor then paroled the prisoner, but said on condition that he marry the girl and get out of Brooklyn by Tuesday. "Unless you carry out the promise you make I'll have you rearrested and will give you the full penalty."

O'Toole said he would carry out the agreement and leave Brooklyn, and the party left the court happy.

O'Toole is about 25. His family are respectable people and keep a little store on Hudson avenue. He is an ex-convict, having served five years for highway robbery. He has been out of the penitentiary four months. Some time ago he stabbed a man in a fight. When arrested for his last offense he was living with a woman in Johnson street.

An Open Letter to Business Men and Commercial Travelers.

The Travelers' Circle of Canada wish to call your attention to the system of treating and being treated to intoxicating liquors when transacting business. We are pleased to note that this custom is now by many entirely avoided; yet some are loath to continue it, perhaps fearing that to discontinue a practice they have followed for so long a time might affect the success of their business. We believe no merchant will allow himself to be dissuaded in the placing of an order by a treat from the traveler who visits him; but we feel the practice in the past has sometimes been adopted in the hope of so influencing the customer, and some travelers who have practiced it have been gradually led into the use of intoxicants to such an extent as to injure themselves, while in some cases it has resulted in the loss of their situations and suffering to their families.

In these days of keen competition a traveler sometimes finds his sales not equal to his anticipation, a spirit of despondency is apt to take possession of him, and if he is susceptible to the influence of alcohol, has taken some with his customers during the day, he is likely to indulge in a little more at night when he meets his fellow-travelers, after his customers have gone home.

We ask retail merchants to give this matter their careful consideration, remembering that many of these young men have come from homes where parents, sisters and brothers are anxious about their welfare, or perhaps a young wife, who has confided her all in him, has high hopes of his success on the road, trusting he may soon secure promotion or establish a business, and she will continue for her a comfortable and happy home. Kindly abstain from being a party to any course which, if indulged in, will wreck all these high hopes, and leave the victim a nuisance to society.

It is an individual effort that counts, and every man should recognize that he has a responsibility on this question.

Signed on behalf of the Commercial Travelers' Circle of Canada.

R. M. STEWART, President,
E. FIELDING, Secretary.

Letters of Junius!

FLAMES BEYOND CONTROL.

Disastrous Fires at Different Points.

Columbus, Ohio, Suffers to the Extent of $1,000,000—Five Hundred Families Homeless at Beverly, West Virginia.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 26.—At 7:45 this morning fire started in the shoe factory of J. N. Godman, in the Metropolitan Opera House block. Owing to delay in sending an alarm the flames rapidly passed beyond control. The whole block from Richmond street to Walnut and High to Pearl will be a total loss. The loss will probably reach $1,000,000. The Bijou Theater is now on fire.

DANVILLE, Va., Jan. 26.—The buildings and plans of the Danville Ice Company were burned last night. Loss, $75,000.

BEVERLY, W. Va., Jan. 26.—The entire central part of this town was burned yesterday, including the court house. Over 500 people practically lost their homes.

"JACK THE KISSER."

Women Folks Terrorized by a Lurking Scoundrel.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—White Plains is considerably excited over the actions of a mysterious crank who has for the past few nights been lurking about the western part of the town and following women. He will watch a woman until she passes him and follow her up until a dark spot is reached, when he will throw his arms about her and kiss her. After the man, who is called "Jack the Kissers," satisfies his osculatory desires he leaves his victim almost scared to death and disappears in the darkness.

Saturday night as Mrs. Walcott was returning to her home, near the Bronx River bridge, she was suddenly clasped tightly in the arms of a man, who imprinted a kiss upon her lips and then swiftly ran along the bridge and escaped.

Yesterday morning it was discovered that Miss Marie Wall and Mrs. Carrie Hopkins had likewise been kissed by the mysterious man during the past week in the neighborhood of the bridge. The police have been appealed to. The man is described as of medium size, about 30 years old, and well dressed.

IN LABOR'S FIELD.

Railroad Clerks Organized—Pope Leo's Birthday Remembered by New York Labor Organizations.

The National Railroad Clerks' Association, which is less than two years old, now has associations at sixteen different railroad points and a membership of 1,100.

Preparations are being made by the labor organizations of New York, led by the Catholic Workmen's Benevolent Union, to celebrate in a becoming manner the 82nd birthday of Pope Leo XIII., which falls on Ash Wednesday, March 2. Several distinguished men will be present and make addresses, and a special musical programme will be given. One of the features will be the rendition by a choir of the stirring French labor hymn, "Vive Leon XIII.," which was sung in Rome by 20,000 voices last fall.

The committee unanimously passed a resolution calling upon sister labor organizations to participate. It sets forth that Pope Leo, since he filled the archiepiscopal of Perugia and took the part of the tenants against extortionate landlords of his native diocese, has always been a friend of labor, and until his last encyclical has been depicting the attention of mankind to the needs of the poor, and the necessity of legislative measures to improve the condition of the masses. The resolution closed with: "Leo XIII. is verging upon the grave. His last acts are words of cheer to Christ's poor. Even as we write he is slowly losing his vitality, and may not see this year out. It has been thought proper by our union to send him a word of sympathy, a message of love and loyalty on the coming anniversary of his birth."

Lucie in Lien of a Lover.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—A contest is raging in the newspapers over a proposition, launched from some quarter, to devote the funds raised for the late Duke of Clarence's wedding testimonials to furnishing a dowry for the Princess May whenever she shall be married. Some favor the idea, while others denounce the project of "robbering the Princess a purse in lieu of her lover." The Pall Mall Gazette declares the plan "worthy of a nation of shopkeepers."

Horrible Murder by a Girl.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 26.—Miss Alice Mitchell, aged 19, the daughter of a retired furniture dealer, yesterday cut Miss Fred Ward's throat from ear to ear, on one of the leading streets of the city. The victim died shortly afterward. It is alleged by several persons that Miss Ward had made remarks of a decidedly uncompromising nature regarding Miss Mitchell, and this latter allegation is supposed to have been the cause of the tragedy. Miss Mitchell is now in jail.

Attempt to Burn the Girls' Home, Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 26.—A determined attempt was made about 1:30 yesterday afternoon to fire the Girls' Home on Gerrard street east. A passer-by, noticing volumes of smoke pouring out of the building, alarmed the inmates, and on investigation six or seven of the straw mattresses in the children's cribs in two rooms were found to be blazing. The children were at dinner at the time. The fire was quickly got under.

Ex-Empress Eugenie's Sorrow.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—While all Britain was mourning for the Duke of Clarence, a memorial service was celebrated in the Memorial Chapel, Parkborough for the late Empress Eugenie of France. The altar in the chapel which the ex-empress Eugenie has erected to the memory of husband and son is decorated with the richest robes and lace once worn by the woman admitted to be the most beautiful of the royal ladies of Europe. Among the interesting specimens which form these decorations are the silk of the gown which was worn by her on the occasion of her first meeting with Napoleon III.; that of her wedding dress and the dress she wore at the signing of the marriage contract, as well as rich silks given to her by the Sultan of Turkey, and some delicate lace which was presented to her by the Emperor.

BOGUS BREAD.

The Kind of Stuff that Starving Russians Are Fed With.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The Lancet has published an analysis of samples of bread which is being furnished by Russia to the starving peasantry. This analysis shows that to every hundred weight of rye flour more than ten pounds of foreign substances had been added, made up of woody fibre, husks, broken leaves and seeds containing silica and sand. This adulteration represents the profits of the middlemen and serves to enrich the dealers. The color of this bread is a dirty brown, and its texture resembles that of coarse peat.

It is settled that August Pitou will put "Mauveover" W. J. Scanlan's last piece, on the road again about Feb. 1. It is not announced as yet who the star will be, but by all accounts to be a well-known Irish comedian.

Col. John A. McCall is now living a secluded life in Baltimore, suffering from paralysis and reduced in fortune. He was at one time the king manager of comic opera companies, and citizens will remember the excellence of the companies brought to London under his management. A benefit will be given to him in New York on Feb. 11, and it promises to be one of the most important entertainments ever given in that city, as the prominent officers of professional talent already verify. Some $2,000 in subscriptions by leading managers has been secured to date.

Found Dead in a Reservoir.

A Best Sugar Trust.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 26.—The American Beet Sugar Producers Association was formed here yesterday. Every beet sugar manufacturer in the United States was represented. The alleged object of the association is to encourage the development of the beet sugar industry in the United States.

How poor, how rich, how abject, how august, how complicated, how wonderful is man; and it might be added, how "more so" is woman. With her peculiarly delicate and intense organization she is the superlative degree of man. Even in disease, she is more than man, for she has a greater power of resistance. She has, however, found out a great remedial agent, for the cure of her diseases, in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a medicine suited to her nature, made for the express cure of those diseases which affect her. It is especially effective in all weaknesses incident to motherhood, while it is also a potent restorative tonic for the feeble and debilitated generally.
